A severe blizzard raged through eastern Nebraska Friday, claiming one life, blocking highways, closing business places, offices and schools, and bringing movement of vehicles and mankind to a virtual standstill.

Strong winds, gusting up to more than 50 miles per hour, whipped snow up to 10-foot-deep drifts.

Wind was clocked at more than 65 miles per hour at Norfolk Friday night.

By late Friday afternoon, a low pressure system began moving eastward out of the state, easing conditions somewhat on the westward edge of the storm.

Most major highways in eastern Nebraska were blocked either by snowdrifts or stalled vehicles.

Due to poor visibility and the danger of causing accidents, snow removal equipment of the State Department of Roads was pulled off the highways during the afternoon, according to a department spokesman.

Killed Friday morning when his car went off a bridge north of Norfolk was John Szparage, 54, of Norfolk. It was snowing at the time of the crash.

Snowfall ranged up to 9 inches in north Omaha, 9 inches elsewhere in Omaha, 8 inches at Lincoln, 6 inches at Hebron and 4 inches at Grand Island.

Chicago & North Western Railroad plows encountered 10-foot high drifts in the Ceresco area.

Visibility was reported at zero at times in cities like Norfolk, Columbus, Hastings and Kearney and near zero in Lincoln and Omaha. Authorities at Columbus and Norfolk closed all roads leading into and out of those cities.

Ironically, the sun was shining at Valentine and North Platte.

Friday Night Canceled

Nearly every Friday night function which required eastern Nebraskans to drive, including dozens of high school and college basketball games, was canceled.

Two school buses loaded with Madison school children were returned the school Friday after a road grader was dispatched to get the buses out of snowdrifts.

Scheduled bus service was brought to a halt in the eastern part of the state with buses pulling off in small towns along the way.

A snowplow freed a stalled Continental Trailways bus about a mile and a half west of York on U.S. 34 Friday afternoon. York County Sheriff Darold Roberdeau said the seven passengers in the bus were taken to York to wait out the storm.

Norfolk police reported nearly all streets impassable in the face of 55-mile-an-hour winds and heavy snow.

27 Semis Disabled

United Press International photographer Tom Peterson, who drove from Lincoln to Omaha, counted 27 semi-trailer trucks disabled along the 50-mile route and visibility was down to 10 feet during much of the trip.

Peterson said a collision of two semis on Interstate 80 on the Platte River bridge left one truck partially dangling from the span, but there were no injuries.

Interchanges on Interstate 80 in the Grand Island, Seward, Milford, Lincoln and Omaha areas were blocked either by stalled cars or disabled heavy trucks. Traffic on U.S. 30 at Blair on the Missouri River also was halted.

Ten or 11 vehicles were reported involved in an accident Friday afternoon in the eastbound lane of Interstate 80 near Milford. Members of the Seward National Guard were dispatched to the scene to aid. No serious injuries resulted from the pileup, according to the State Patrol.

A large pileup of cars near Palmyra closed Nebraska 2 east of Lincoln.

At Wahoo, the Saunders County Civil Defense radio dispatcher, Mrs. Dolores Dorothy, said many travelers were stranded, cars and trucks were "off the road all over" and "nothing's moving." Facilities for stranded persons were opened in a room at the Wahoo Police Department.

Platte County Sheriff Don Franzen of Columbus reported a five-car pileup on U.S. 30 on the east of Columbus.

In a 12-car smashup three-quarters of a mile north of Winside, the rear of Wayne County Deputy Sheriff S. E. Thomson's patrol car was hit twice, Wayne County Sheriff Donald Weible reported. State Patrol Sgt. Clarence Zurcher's cruiser was hit in the same accident, Weible said. Zurcher was treated and released from a Norfolk hospital.

All roads were clogged in Dodge County, the sheriff's office at Fremont reported, and there were "semis all over the highway."

A number of vehicles were reported off the highways in the Auburn vicinity. U.S. 136 both west and east of Auburn was impassable, according to the Nemaha County sheriff's office.

Both Nemaha County deputy sheriffs were involved in collisions during the day, their office reported. From 6 to 7 inches of snow fell at Auburn.

All stores, banks, schools and the courthouse at York were closed at noon.

About 100 stranded motorists found a haven at the west edge of Omaha on the Boys Town campus. A spokesman said the motorists had filtered in starting at about 9:30 a.m. The lucky motorists spent Friday night in the Boys Town auditorium sleeping on wrestling mats and using free time to play basketball and cards.

NU NCAA Violation Said 'Unusual Case'

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

The University of Nebraska football team's apparent violation of an NCAA rule was a "highly unusual case."

"Sure, it's highly unusual to violate a rule like that," said Don Bryant, Nebraska's sports information director. "It isn't very common to take two ineligible transfer players to a bowl game. I don't know if it's ever happened before. I certainly can't remember anything like it."

Nebraska's error occurred when two ineligible transfer players — quarterback Vince Ferragamo and defensive end Ray Phillips — were taken to the Sugar Bowl football game in New Orleans on Dec. 31 against Florida. Neither player saw action in the game.

Ferragamo was sitting out a year after transferring from the University of California-Berkeley. Phillips, a junior college transfer from Marshalltown, Iowa, Junior College, was ineligible this fall because of his grades.

In order to play for Nebraska, the NCAA rules state, "After transfer from another collegiate institution, he must have completed one full year or two full semesters from the time of his registration."

In the section about extra events, under which the Sugar Bowl would apply, the NCAA rules note "the eligibility rules governing individual participation shall be as demanding as those governing participation in NCAA sponsored meets."

In a prepared statement, Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne expressed regret over the incident.

"It was an honest mistake," Osborne said. "They practiced all season on our scout squad and took their lumps like everyone else. We took everyone on the scout team to the Sugar Bowl.

"We understand that including ineligible players on our Sugar Bowl squad was in violation of NCAA rules," he added. "We realized that ineligible players couldn't play in the game. However, we had absolutely no understanding that their ineligibility disqualified them from making the trip as part of our scout team."

Osborne added that there was certainly no intent on Nebraska's staff to deliberately violate the rule nor to hide the two players from the public's view at the game.

"The fact that the names of Vince Ferragamo and Ray Phillips were published in Nebraska newspapers prior to making the trip, that their names were printed in the Sugar Bowl program and that they wore their jerseys with their names printed on the back and during the game were interviewed on national TV should lend substance to the fact that we were not deliberately trying to subvert the rules," Osborne said.

"We certainly regret the violation and hope that the mistake will be taken for what it was, an improper understanding of the rules and not a deliberate violation," he said.

The Associated Press quoted an NCAA spokesman in Kansas City (where the NCAA headquarters is located) as saying it "was a constitutional provision against spending athletic department funds on an ineligible player which was not followed.

"It's not the kind of crime that will keep you in jail forever," the NCAA spokesman said.

Bryant said he had no idea how long it would take the NCAA to rule on the case.

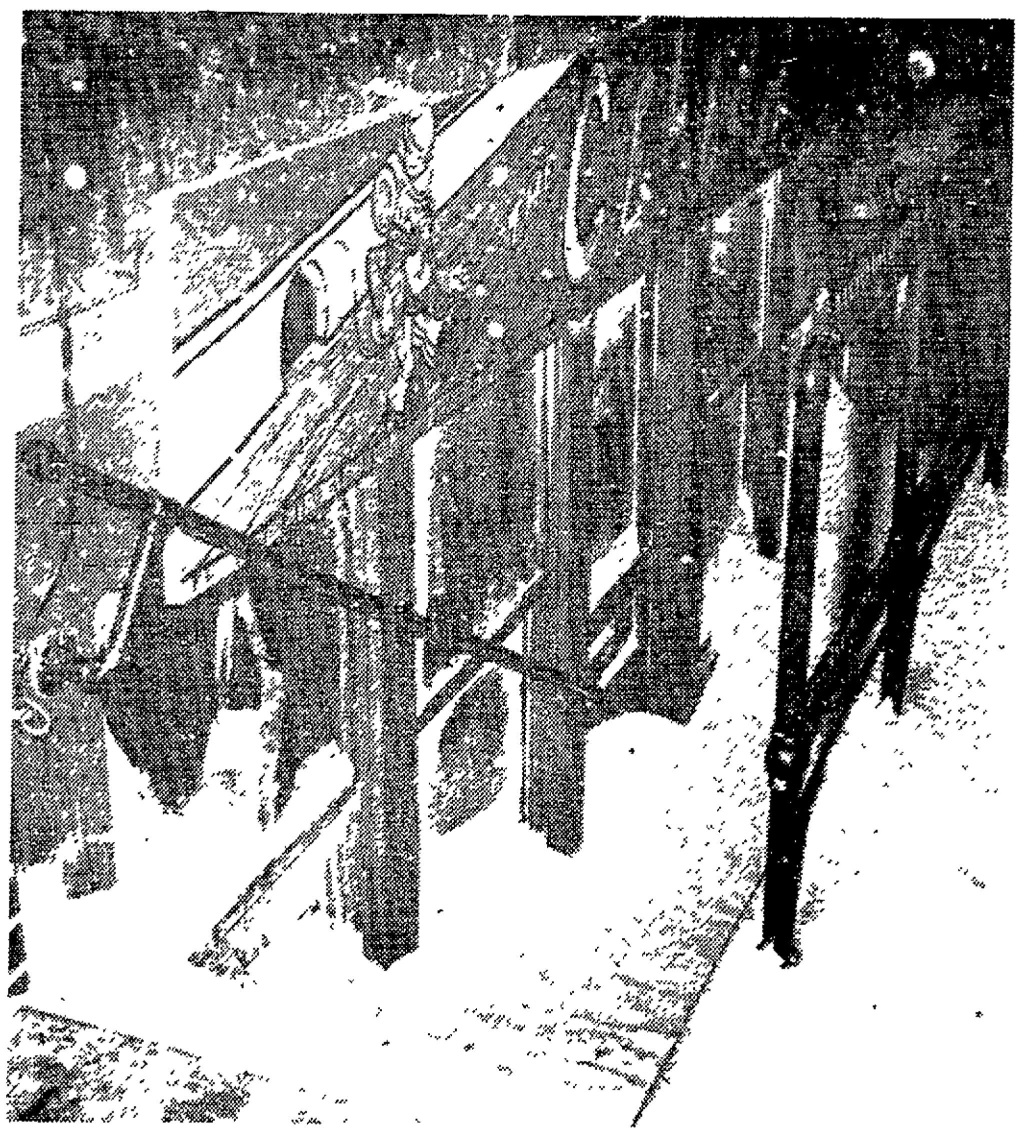
"It could take two or three months or a year or it could just take a couple weeks," he said. "We really have no idea. We also don't know if the NCAA will use its investigating methods or if it will be handled administratively."

"We have no idea what the NCAA will do or what punishment, if anything, will be assessed," Bryant continued.

Bryant said Nebraska was apparently first informed of the violation a few days after the Sugar Bowl when Big Eight Commissioner Charles Neinas contacted Osborne while the Nebraska athletic staff was in Washington, D.C., for the annual NCAA convention.

The Nebraska staff learned of and discussed the matter with Neinas and NCAA personnel in Washington, he said. NU Athletic Director Bob Devaney and Big 8 faculty representative Keith Broman met with NCAA assistant executive director Warren S. Brown to discuss the violation, he said.

"It's one of those unfortunate mistakes," Bryant added. "We knew they couldn't play and we certainly didn't try to hide it. We're not up on the rules and I guess we should have known about it."



SHOVELS AHOY!... 'Cellar' keepers have much digging ahead.

Snow Emergency Declared

Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf declared a snow emergency Friday.

Parking was banned on snow emergency routes, arterials, bus routes and a partial ban was put on residential streets.

The residential street partial ban was on the odd-numbered or south and west sides of the streets. The ban will be in effect for 24 hours.

As the blizzard increased in intensity Friday, city street crews were pulled off most arterials and placed on emergency routes only.

Street Superintentdent Lloyd Bomberger said plows would attempt to clear those routes throughout the night. He urged motorists to stick to those emergency routes, since most other streets were becoming impassable.

If a car becomes stuck on an emergency route, the vehicle can be towed away and the driver fined $25.

Guardsmen Called To Aid In Transporting

The Nebraska National Guard was officially called out late Friday afternoon to assist in transporting people stranded in their cars or at work by the first blizzard of the winter.

Police said the Guard evacuated about 40 people stranded at Shoemaker's Truck Stop at N.W. 48th and West O and about 45 people were brought in from the Goodyear warehouse in Air Park industrial area.

Lincoln and Lancaster County emergency services reported they were able to get to all their requests for help, but the deluge of calls was causing some delays.

Fireman Jerry Terry in the fire department alarm office said there had been no fires and the trucks and engines were getting through to all resuscitator calls.

Police Lt. Don Smith said the officers were able to get to their calls, though the number of accidents and tieups was causing some delay.

Police Inspector Dean Leitner said his officers were kept busy transporting children home from school and getting stranded motorists and workers home.

Three wreckers were busy moving stalled cars off arterial streets.

Leitner said visibility was so bad at times on the Interestate that an officer who was standing on the highway could neither hear the siren of a police cruiser nor see its red lights until it was almost upon him.

Although two city buses were stalled by snow Friday afternoon, most of the city still had bus service. The Arnold Heights route was closed at 2:30 p.m. Some routes were altered and shortened.

The sheriff's office, like the others, was able to get to all the calls but the county roads were gradually drifting shut.

Lincoln Municipal Airport was closed at 10 a.m. Officials there reported wind gusts of up to 40 miles per hour and zero visibility beginning before 9 a.m.

The Lincoln office of the State Patrol said that snowplows were beginning to open up the roads Friday night.

The patrol said troopers expected to find more motorists once the plows got moving. A trooper was following each plow.

The Lancaster County Red Cross opened a shelter at McPhee School at the request of civil defense authorities. More than 50 people were spending the night, including passengers from two Greyhound buses.

A Lincoln Electric System spokesman said a "few minor problems" were reported.

A small fire in the LES substation at 27th and N knocked power out for more than an hour in an area bounded roughly by 20th, 33rd, J and S Sts.

Kissinger Wanted Psychological Move

©The New York Times

Washington — Secretary of State Kissinger has expressed regret to the Pentagon that naval task group had not been used to signal American determination to North Vietnam earlier this week, administration officials reported Friday.

Kissinger, however, reportedly learnedsof the movement of the six-ship naval task group headed by the carrier Enterprise too late for his views to be translated into orders for the ships to sail toward North Vietnam as a psychological demonstration of strength by the United States.

The State Department denied Friday a report in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Kissinger had proposed that the task group be diverted toward Vietnam, but was overruled by President Ford on the ground that such a move would needlessly arouse concern and controversy in the United States.

Never Made Proposal

According to administration sources, Kissinger never made a specific proposal, but did express regret that the task group, upon leaving Subic Bay in the Philippines, had not sailed westerly toward the Gulf of Tonkin before heading for the Indian Ocean.

The task group left Subic Bay on Tuesday (Monday Washington time) on a southwesterly course for the Strait of Malacca leading into the Indian Ocean. For reasons that have not been explained by the Defense Department, the ships left a few days ahead of schedule on what the Pentagon described as "an operational mission."

The otherwise routine naval movement set off unexpected, worldwide speculation when it was first disclosed Tuesday morning by a United Press International report from Saigon. The report linked the movement to the fall that day of the South Vietnamese provincial capital of Phuoc Binh and quoted American diplomatic sources as having said that the ships would sail into Vietnamese waters to demonstrate support for South Vietnam and as a warning to North Vietnam.

Learned Too Late

It was not until Tuesday morning in Washington, when the State and Defense Departments were considering how to reply to and to deny the news agency report, that Kissinger reportedly learned of the departure of the ships from Subic Bay on their way to the Strait of Malacca.

By then, according to officials, it was too late to change the course of the task group because it had sailed too far to make a westerly swing toward the Gulf of Tonkin. The ships would have had to turn back toward Vietnamese waters, which presumably would have been a more evident demonstration than desired by Kissinger.

Even if the ships had headed for the Gulf of Tonkin, it would have been strictly a psychological maneuver because they legally could not have been ordered into combat. Congress in June, 1973, prohibited any further combat activities by U.S. forces in, over or off the shores of Vietnam without the specific, advance approval of Congress.

Menominee Indians . . . The Tribe Which Lost A Reservation, Then Got It Back

©The New York Times

By WILLIAM E. FARRELL

Keshena, Wis. — Nearly 14 years ago, the federal government dissolved the Menominee Indian Reservation, and the beautiful 235,000-acre wooded tract that is the ancestral homeland of the tribe became Wisconsin's smallest and poorest county.

The years under the laws and government structures of the white man have proved disastrous to the Menominees, a tribe that before the termination of its reservation status operated with a degree of self-sufficiency rare among American Indians — even though its standard of living was far below the American norm.

When their reservation was dissolved the Menominees' tribal treasury was depleted; the Indians had to pay local property taxes; a white developer began creating a second-home development and upset the ecology of a local lake; the tribal hospital closed and the Menominee's lumbering operations verged on insolvency.

In addition, the tribal rolls were closed and newborn children among the approximately 2,500 Menominees were not counted as members of a people that archeologists date back some 5,000 years.

A few years ago, a number of Menominees began a long and successful bid for a return to a tax-free reservation status and the restoration of the Menominees as a federally recognized "sovereign Indian tribe to which the United States is obligated by treaties and agreements."

After intensive lobbying in Washington, particularly by Ada Deer, an outspoken Menominee woman with a masters degree in sociology from the Columbia University School of Social Work, Congress restored the Menominees' reservation status in December, 1973.

Volatile Situation

Now, when the Menominees are dealing with the delicate task of restructuring their government and trying to reinvigorate their local economy, they are faced with a potentially volatile situation that has already bred divisions in the Menominee community and increased the antipathy of local whites to the tribe.

The situation began on New Year's Day when 45 armed Menominees seized a vacant Roman Catholic novitiate in nearby Gresham, a community outside the reservation.

The dissidents, calling themselves the Menominee Warrior Society, demanded that the Alexian Brothers Order, which owns the 225-acre complex consisting of a 20-room mansion and another 64-room building, give the property to them for a hospital.

The intrusion of the Indians brought forth a profusion of heavily armed local law officials and deputies who sealed off the area surrounding the novitiate, cut power lines and severed telephone communications with the facility.

For five days, as the local law officers kept watch in snow-ladened outposts, tempers were short, negotiations were minimal and on more than one occasion there were exchanges of gunfire, although no one was injured.

On Monday, Gov. Patrick J. Lucey called out 250 National Guardsmen to replace the local authorities. The commander of the Guard, Col. Hugh Simonson, was charged by Lucey with arranging a peaceful settlement.

From the start, Colonel Simonson adopted a policy of conciliation. Electric power was restored to the novitiate, some food supplies were allowed in, the number of checkpoints near the facility was reduced from 22 to 11, guardsmen were ordered to patrol with unloaded weapons, phone communications were resumed and interested parties were consulted on how to end the impasse.

Thursday morning, at a news conference, the colonel announced that a six-member negotiating team had been formed with Michael Sturtevant, the leader of the insurgent Menominees, who is referred to as the general, and others inside the abbey. Some women and from 10 to 15 children are reported to be among the occupants.

The negotiators held their first meeting Thursday afternoon with Sturtevant and four other Indians occupying the novitiate.

Mixed Response

The seizure of the novitiate has drawn a mixed response on the reservation with some Indians, usually young males, favoring the take-over and others feeling that the action is a futile gesture that in the long run will hurt a people already afflicted by poverty, lack of education and a high rate of alcoholism.

The Menominee Reservation Committee, the tribe's interim governing body, has denounced the occupation of the novitiate, calling it "anarchy" and "unethical."

The nine-member committee, consisting of five women and four men, is headed by Miss Deer.

Several Indians and non-Indians familiar with the political struggle on the reservation said they felt that a number of the Menominees now in the novitiate were assorting themselves because women had increasingly taken over leadership roles in the tribe.

Cost Hit $367,878 After Nixon Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first three months after Richard M Nixon's resignation, the government spent at least $367,878 to support the former president and his staff, White House officials said Friday.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the itemized list of expenses totaling $367,878 is "not comparable" to the $200,000 voted by Congress for Nixon's transition. He said only part had been charged against the $200,000.

Nessen also disclosed that White House aides and Nixon representatives have been negotiating the possible return to the former president of such memorabilia as his collection of cartoons, model elephants, gavels and gowns belonging to his daughters and wife. At present, he said, Nixon does not have access to the memorabilia collected while he was in office.

The press secretary reported the $367,878 spending total when questioned about a breakdown of expenditures by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson on Friday.

Nessen read from a Nov. 18, 1974, letter from Budget Director Roy L. Ash to Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of a House subcommittee which has investigated government spending on Nixon's private residences. Nessen said the letter listed these categories of spending for the period from Aug. 9, 1974 to Nov. 7:

— $107,000 for salaries of White House, Defense Department and other government agencies detailed to the former president.

— $47,000 in per diem expenses for these government employes to help pay their living expenses in San Clemente.

— $2,419 for miscellaneous travel, including airline tickets for flights between Washington and San Clemente by the detailed officials.

— $8,440 for the portion of Nixon's Aug. 9 flight from Washington to "a point near Jefferson City, Mo.," where he ceased to be president. The cost of the rest of the flight to California was paid for by the military on orders of President Ford, Nessen said, adding that he did not have a figure for that.

— $3,147 for the estimated cost of Interior Department personnel who loaded the Nixon family belongings into a van on the White House lawn.

— $2,000 for gasoline for a dozen leased vehicles used by the government employes assigned to San Clemente, but not by Nixon himself.

— $9,172 for office expenses in San Clemente.

— $82,000, to crate and store Nixon papers in such facilities as the National Archives and the Executive Office Building.

— $30,000 for such expenses as courier flights from Washington to San Clemente and for the operating expenses of communications facilities.

— $52,160 spent by the General Services Administration to maintain and operate office facilities at San Clemente.

— $23,540 spent by GSA for operation and maintenance of facilities at Key Biscayne, Fla.

The law allowing transition expenses of former presidents states that the government will maintan an office for them. When asked why the government had paid the expenses of operations in both San Clemente and Key Biscayne, Nessen responded he had "no way of going beyond the figures to a philosophical justification of them."

Responding to questions, Nessen said the list of White House officials detailed to Nixon's staff now totals 14. He said they will go off the White House payroll Feb. 9.

He said he did not have figures on the amount spent by the government since the Nov. 7 cutoff in Ash's letter.

THOUSANDS OF JOBLESS ... seek 225 jobs in Atlanta.

Hope For Job Creates Stampede

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The frustration of joblessness erupted into a brief stampede Friday when several thousand persons showed up at the Civic Center to apply for 225 newly created public service jobs.

Many came with sleeping bags the night before and camped on the sidewalks to claim a spot near the front of the line. By dawn, police estimated, some 2,000 persons were waiting and busloads of other applicants were arriving steadily.

When city officials opened a single door at 8:15 a.m., the formation collapsed and the applicants surged forward, pressing those at the front into plate glass windows and doors.

One male job seeker was pushed through the glass pane of a door.

"What's happening? I'm a veteran," he shouted as the crowd pressed on. Police officers took him to a hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

At least two other persons reportedly received minor injuries as police moved quickly to restore order.

"They opened one door and then the crowd opened four others by sheer force," said a police officer.

Glass panes in two doors and large windows adjacent to the doors were shattered in the brief melee.

By midmorning police said 3,000 to 4,000 applicants were involved in the application process. They were led into the 5,000-seat auditorium and given application forms. They then had to wait for a turn to file up onto the stage for a brief job interview.

The 225 city jobs were funded under the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act, in pay scales ranging from $114 to $174 per week. Similar grants have been made in other cities.

The jobs are for equipment operators, laborers, meter readers, storekeepers, mechanics and clerks. To qualify, applicants must be Atlanta residents out of work for at least 30 days.

Kenneth Robinson, 27, formerly a salesman, was one of the few men in a business suit standing in the line. "I think I'll apply for some type of clerical position," he said. "I've got a wife and two children. I've been going to just about every employment agency in town and haven't had any luck."

Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson visited the scene and commented, "This is what's happening all over the country — a desperation for jobs."

Tornadoes Cut Path In South

McComb, Miss. (UPI) — Killer tornadoes slashed through Mississippi and Alabama Friday, collapsing an elementary school around its frightened students here and overflowing a hospital in Pell City, Ala.

Authorities reported seven deaths, all in Mississippi, and perhaps hundreds injured.

A tornado ripped a two-mile swath through the western edge of this south Mississippi town early Friday, demolishing a shopping center and an elementary school.

Late Friday, another tornado struck the heart of Pell City, 25 miles east of Birmingham. There were no immediate reports of fatalities but the St. Clair County Hospital was so crowded officials asked the National Guard to open its armory for a medical station.

"It touched down right in the middle of town," said a spokesman at the St. Clair County sheriff's office. "It's done a lot of damage, and I'm going to have to go right now because the courthouse is all tore up."

In Pelham, south of Birmingham, a storm destroyed 15 to 20 mobile homes, damaged others and injured at least a dozen persons. Several more injuries were reported in the Birmingham suburb of Hoover.

Thieu Plans Counterattack

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said Friday night he will order South Vietnamese troops to recapture Phuoc Long Province. The U.S. Air Force chief is due in Saigon on Saturday and it seems certain he will discuss South Vietnam's military needs.

Phuoc Long Province, on the Cambodian border about 75 miles north of Saigon, fell Tuesday. It was the first one lost to Communist-led forces in nearly three years.

"We will come back to Phuoc Long as we did in An Dien, Rach Bap and Kien Duc," Thieu said in a nationwide radio-television broadcast. These were towns the South Vietnamese lost, then recaptured, but at the cost of heavy casualties.

Thieu said he has been meeting with South Vietnamese military planners and his National Security Council to provide maximum support for the Phuoc Long operation ever since the province fell. He did not say when the counteroffensive would begin.

Thieu said when the North Vietnamese completed their capture of Phuoc Long Province "they made known publicly that they never accept the Paris peace accords but instead use it as a form of a screen in order to take South Vietnam by force of arms.

"The capture of Phuoc Long is designed to enlarge North Vietnamese areas of control. From there they will use it as a springboard to take over other areas of South Vietnam."

As Thieu spoke, South Vietnamese bombers flew a fourth straight day of heavy raids against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troop positions and military installations along the Cambodian border.

In other Indochina developments:

—Gen. David Jones, the U.S. Air Force chief of staff, scheduled conferences with South Vietnamese officials in Saigon on Saturday. Sources said he almost certainly would discuss the current North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive, the capabilities of the South Vietnamese air force and what additional military aid might be sought from the United States.

—North Vietnam charged that U.S. reconnaissance planes guided South Vietnamese aircraft in "savage" bombing raids on Loc Ninh, Viet Cong headquarters 75 miles north of Saigon, ever since the fall of Phuoc Long. It said it "sternly condemns these criminal acts of war in brazen sabotage of the Paris agreement on Vietnam by the United States and the Thieu junta."

—Four hand grenades exploded in a crowded market in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and at the city's medical school, killing four civilians and injuring 22 others, police said. They said the explosions were part of a terrorist campaign to sow disorder among the population and soften Phnom Penh up for a Communist-led Khmer Rouge attack.

Sultan Of Oman Plans To Buy U.S. Warplanes 'In The Future'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A meeting between Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger and the Sultan of Oman raised the possibility Friday of even broader U.S. arms sales in the oil-producing Persian Gulf area.

Sultan Qabus bin Said later told reporters that he plans to purchase American fighter aircraft "some time in the future."

The Arab monarch also said he is immediately interested in antitank missiles and indicated that he had discussed such missile purchases with Schlesinger.

The Defense Department described the sultan's meeting with Schlesinger only as a "protocol visit."

His visit to the Pentagon followed by a day disclosure that the United States is selling another 60 F5-type jet fighter planes to Saudi Arabia in a $756 million deal.

This sent total U.S. arms sales to Persian Gulf countries over the $8 billion mark since the arms race there picked up momemtum about three years ago.

Oman, which covers 82,000 square miles and has a population of about 750,000, has bought a few helicopters through U.S. commercial channels but has yet to put in a major arms order with the U.S. government. The sultanate became eligible for sales by the United States two years ago.

Pentagon officials told Congress last summer that Oman has expressed interest in a number of military equipment items including armored cars, artillery, grenade launchers, communications equipment and mines.

Oman has been trying to cope with a guerrilla rebellion reportedly backed by the Marxist government in nearby South Yemen. Intelligence sources said South Yemen has been armed by the Soviet Union with MIG21 jet fighters.

Iran and Saudi Arabia have been the biggest U.S. arms customers in the Persian Gulf area.

A number of other Persian Gulf states, most of them small, are considered likely U.S. arms markets. They include Kuwait, Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Qatar and Bahrain.

Menominee Indians . . . The Tribe Which Lost A Reservation, Then Got It Back

©The New York Times

By WILLIAM E. FARRELL

Keshena, Wis. — Nearly 14 years ago, the federal government dissolved the Menominee Indian Reservation, and the beautiful 235,000-acre wooded tract that is the ancestral homeland of the tribe became Wisconsin's smallest and poorest county.

The years under the laws and government structures of the white man have proved disastrous to the Menominees, a tribe that before the termination of its reservation status operated with a degree of self-sufficiency rare among American Indians — even though its standard of living was far below the American norm.

When their reservation was dissolved the Menominees' tribal treasury was depleted; the Indians had to pay local property taxes; a white developer began creating a second-home development and upset the ecology of a local lake; the tribal hospital closed and the Menominee's lumbering operations verged on insolvency.

In addition, the tribal rolls were closed and newborn children among the approximately 2,500 Menominees were not counted as members of a people that archeologists date back some 5,000 years.

A few years ago, a number of Menominees began a long and successful bid for a return to a tax-free reservation status and the restoration of the Menominees as a federally recognized "sovereign Indian tribe to which the United States is obligated by treaties and agreements."

After intensive lobbying in Washington, particularly by Ada Deer, an outspoken Menominee woman with a masters degree in sociology from the Columbia University School of Social Work, Congress restored the Menominees' reservation status in December, 1973.

Volatile Situation

Now, when the Menominees are dealing with the delicate task of restructuring their government and trying to reinvigorate their local economy, they are faced with a potentially volatile situation that has already bred divisions in the Menominee community and increased the antipathy of local whites to the tribe.

The situation began on New Year's Day when 45 armed Menominees seized a vacant Roman Catholic novitiate in nearby Gresham, a community outside the reservation.

The dissidents, calling themselves the Menominee Warrior Society, demanded that the Alexian Brothers Order, which owns the 225-acre complex consisting of a 20-room mansion and another 64-room building, give the property to them for a hospital.

The intrusion of the Indians brought forth a profusion of heavily armed local law officials and deputies who sealed off the area surrounding the novitiate, cut power lines and severed telephone communications with the facility.

For five days, as the local law officers kept watch in snow-ladened outposts, tempers were short, negotiations were minimal and on more than one occasion there were exchanges of gunfire, although no one was injured.

On Monday, Gov. Patrick J. Lucey called out 250 National Guardsmen to replace the local authorities. The commander of the Guard, Col. Hugh Simonson, was charged by Lucey with arranging a peaceful settlement.

Thieu said when the North Vietnamese completed their capture of Phuoc Long Province "they made known publicly that they never accept the Paris peace accords but instead use it as a form of a screen in order to take South Vietnam by force of arms.

"The capture of Phuoc Long is designed to enlarge North Vietnamese areas of control. From there they will use it as a springboard to take over other areas of South Vietnam."

As Thieu spoke, South Vietnamese bombers flew a fourth straight day of heavy raids against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troop positions and military installations along the Cambodian border.

In other Indochina developments:

—Gen. David Jones, the U.S. Air Force chief of staff, scheduled conferences with South Vietnamese officials in Saigon on Saturday. Sources said he almost certainly would discuss the current North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive, the capabilities of the South Vietnamese air force and what additional military aid might be sought from the United States.

—North Vietnam charged that U.S. reconnaissance planes guided South Vietnamese aircraft in "savage" bombing raids on Loc Ninh, Viet Cong headquarters 75 miles north of Saigon, ever since the fall of Phuoc Long. It said it "sternly condemns these criminal acts of war in brazen sabotage of the Paris agreement on Vietnam by the United States and the Thieu junta."

—Four hand grenades exploded in a crowded market in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and at the city's medical school, killing four civilians and injuring 22 others, police said. They said the explosions were part of a terrorist campaign to sow disorder among the population and soften Phnom Penh up for a Communist-led Khmer Rouge attack.

Sultan Of Oman Plans To Buy U.S. Warplanes 'In The Future'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A meeting between Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger and the Sultan of Oman raised the possibility Friday of even broader U.S. arms sales in the oil-producing Persian Gulf area.

Sultan Qabus bin Said later told reporters that he plans to purchase American fighter aircraft "some time in the future."

The Arab monarch also said he is immediately interested in antitank missiles and indicated that he had discussed such missile purchases with Schlesinger.

The Defense Department described the sultan's meeting with Schlesinger only as a "protocol visit."

His visit to the Pentagon followed by a day disclosure that the United States is selling another 60 F5-type jet fighter planes to Saudi Arabia in a $756 million deal.

This sent total U.S. arms sales to Persian Gulf countries over the $8 billion mark since the arms race there picked up momemtum about three years ago.

Oman, which covers 82,000 square miles and has a population of about 750,000, has bought a few helicopters through U.S. commercial channels but has yet to put in a major arms order with the U.S. government. The sultanate became eligible for sales by the United States two years ago.

Pentagon officials told Congress last summer that Oman has expressed interest in a number of military equipment items including armored cars, artillery, grenade launchers, communications equipment and mines.

Oman has been trying to cope with a guerrilla rebellion reportedly backed by the Marxist government in nearby South Yemen. Intelligence sources said South Yemen has been armed by the Soviet Union with MIG21 jet fighters.

Iran and Saudi Arabia have been the biggest U.S. arms customers in the Persian Gulf area.

A number of other Persian Gulf states, most of them small, are considered likely U.S. arms markets. They include Kuwait, Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Qatar and Bahrain.

Considerable Variation Shown In Individual Water Rate Hikes

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The amount of the increase individual water users will have to pay under a proposed new water rate plan varies considerably from household to household.

A study of eight residential users appears to bear out Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker's contention before the City Council that supplying any average increase would be misleading.

It also appears, based on the study, that the increases will be large.

The highest annual increase among the eight residential users selected by The Star was 79.9%. The lowest was 36.8%.

Based On Consumption

Other figures were 45.7%, 56.8%, 59.9%, 61.2%, 65.6%, 70.4%. The yearly percentage increases were figured on the assumption that the user's consumption would remain the same under the new rate plan.

The City Council is scheduled to take final action on the proposed plan Monday.

As Blocker has contended, the households that will be hit the hardest were those who water their lawn heavily in the summer months and those that have water-cooled air conditioners.

The household with the 79.9% increase used more water during the three summer months than it did the other nine months of the year.

Reverse Charge

The new water rate plan, drawn up by the Water Advisory Board, attempts to reverse current charging practices. Instead of being charged less the more water they use, customers will be charged more.

However, the charge increases only when a customer exceeds his "base demand," or his monthly water consumption average over the previous 12 months.

A household that uses water at a steady rate would never enter the "demand brackets" in which it would pay 25 cents to 75 cents more than per 100 cubic feet of water.

Big Vs. Small

Thus a large household that steadily uses a lot of water will pay less for its water than a small household that uses the same amount or more water, but pours most of it on the lawn.

For example, the household with a 45.7% increase, a household with five children, used 30,100 cubic feet of water during the past year at a fairly steady rate. Its annual bill would go from $63.49 to $92.50.

The household with a 79.9% increase, a household with two children, used 26,500 cubic feet of water, most of it to water the lawn. Its bill went from $55.59 to $100.

Water officials argue that the plan is fair because the customer who uses huge amounts of water in the summer is the customer who should pay for the water facilities built to handle lawn watering demand, which stand idle most of the year.

Base Phased In

The base rate will be phased in over three years, with virtually all users to be charged 25 cents in 1975, 26 cents in 1976 and 27 cents in 1977 per 100 cubic feet. The present average cost is 23.5 cents, according to the city.

The proposal would also establish two other categories for customers which use huge amounts of water. Seven users currently fall into those categories.

Archer-Daniels-Midland Co., Burlington Northern Havelock shops, the Lincoln Electric System, University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus and Miller and Paine would pay a base rate of 19 cents.

The two high-use categories also have "demand brackets," in which an additional 50 cents to 75 cents will be charged if the customer exceeds his base demand rate.

If the new rate plan had been in effect in 1973, Miller and Paine, with a water-cooled air conditioner without a return or cooling tower, would have paid $50,755 instead of the $19,722.45 it did. Virtually all the water the store used was used during the summer months.

Miller and Paine has already taken steps to conserve water, according to Blocker.

American Stores and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. are the only two users in the category with a base rate of 14 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Under the proposed plan Goodyear would have paid $145,940.24 for the 94.6 million cubic feet of water it used in 1973 instead of the $100,939.24 it did pay.

City officials attempt to justify the lower rates to the seven high-use customers on the grounds the cost of water mains and meter readers for providing them service is less than for smaller users.

Tax Cut For U.S. May Be Big One

Washington (UPI) — President Ford has decided a tax reduction for Americans is needed to help stem deepening recession and perhaps the cut may have to be a big one, a key congressman reported Friday.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., prospective chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said after a 40-minute private meeting with Ford that he and Ford were "not that far apart" on how large the reduction should be and how it should be made.

Ullman would say only that the range under discussion was between $10 billion and $30 billion, but he is on record as agreeing with other high-ranking congressional Democrats that something near the upper end of that range is needed.

Earlier a White House spokesman said Ford is giving "very serious consideration" to a $20 billion tax cut that would include reducing family income taxes by $375 in 1975.

Reports also circulated that Ford favored a different approach — a one-shot, 10% rebate on 1974 taxes that Americans could either deduct from what is due April 15 or receive by from the government in a refund check.

Speaking of the Ford meeting, Ullman said: "He wants to work with the Congress and of course I want to cooperate with him. We both agree that we must move rapidly in the field of taxation in getting some relief to the American people."

Ullman, due to assume the all-important Ways and Means chairmanship in the new Congress convening Tuesday, said earlier that Congress could and would act swiftly on economic legislation and could complete a tax-cut bill by March.

After the Ford meeting, he declared: "The country's in trouble."

Ullman said Ford would propose a "broad program" of economic reform and relief that was "in some ways wider in scope than I anticipated."

He refused to discuss specifics of Ford's plan, which is to be unveiled in a State of the Union message later this month.

Ullman said he was himself "not too enthusiastic" about the 1974 tax rebate approach Ford is said to favor and indicated that he would prefer to see relief come gradually throughout 1975 by increasing workers' paychecks through smaller tax withholding.

MIKE'S . . . 'writing comes pretty easy.'

Youth in Action

Reporting First Step To Career

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

"It's hard to be on the other end," Mike Sweeney laughed at the start of the interview. He's not used to being asked the questions.

A junior at Northeast High School, Mike is usually the one with the pencil and pad in hand, scribbling frantically in his own shorthand. His stint as a reporter for the school paper is the first step, he hopes, in a career of journalism.

"Since nobody listens to what I say," Mike joked, "writing is a dynamic way to get things across." And luckily for him, "writing comes pretty easy."

Some Satisfaction

There's a certain amount of satisfaction, Mike admitted, in seeing his stories in print. "But even if no one reads them, I'd enjoy writing them," he assured.

One of Mike's fun assignments was with the Wacisa Indian Dancers, a group of local junior high and high school students. He wrote a story from the inside "like George Plimpton."

Meeting with many kinds of people is one of the attractions of reporting for Mike.

Prefers Features

When it comes to assignments, Mike prefers feature work. "I can do my own special thing and not follow the strict guidelines of most news stories," he explained.

For story ideas, Mike relies on friends' suggestions and his own sense of news judgment to transform an ordinary situation around him into a lively feature.

Through a public relations class Mike has had a chance to distribute some of his feature stories to local newspapers as well as radio and television stations.

Approach Conversational

Mike's approach to interviews is a conversational one. He feels a person will open up more if he puts down his pencil and pad and talks face to face. It's a "more personal glimpse" of his subject that he's trying to achieve.

When it comes to the actual writing, Mike says he spends the first hour or two just staring around trying to think of a lead. "You've got to get attention right off the bat," Mike thinks, justifying the time he spend coming up with a start of his stories. "After that, the rest just comes."

Understanding all too well the problems of writing up a "dud" interview, Mike, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sweeney, 7418 Holdrege, had a lively response for most questions.

At the interview's end, his sympathies were still with the reporter. "I hope you got a good story out of me!" He grinned as he waved goodbye.

Idea Would Benefit Remodelers

By The Associated Press

State Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha has proposed a constitutional amendment which would allow owners of older homes to remodel them without facing increased property taxes.

Cavanaugh said community development money from the Department of Housing and Urban Development has largely "gone down a rat hole" and the government needed to encourage people to remodel their own homes.

The constitutional amendment would allow the Legislature to exempt the increased value of a home from property taxes for a period of years. Cavanaugh said the exemption should last for about five years.

Although he said the bill proposing the amendment was drafted by the City of Omaha, he said "the problem is as bad in rural areas."

Cavanaugh said he did not know how much property tax relief would be granted because there is "no way of knowing how many people are not putting money into their homes" because their property taxes would be increased.

Central YWCA Schedules Series Of New Programs

Several new programs will begin this month at the Central YWCA, 1432 N, according to Mrs. Ivan Pettit, chairman of the publicity and public relations committee.

The first in a series of seven sessions on YWCA orientation will be held from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Tuesday. All interested persons are invited to attend the session which will feature a discussion on "People Are Our Business."

New classes in arts and skills will begin Jan. 20. Among those being offered are beginning bridge, brush-up bridge, china painting, communicating effectively, beginner's crocheting, macrame, painting, sewing solutions, sketching, beginning and intermediate weaving and women's studies.

Other special classes will include ballet and tennis for children, 50-mile swim, aqua fitness, jog and swim, deep water adjustment for adults and belly dancing.

In addition, the various YWCA swim classes will continue and the first classes in the new session will be held Jan. 20.

Family swims will be held four times a week as will "Diaper Dips" for children under four. Likewise, senior citizens' swim, swimming for handicapped adults and children, think-thin swimming and Gym and Swim to Recovery, for women who have had mastectomies.

Russians Launch Soyuz-17

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union launched a manned two-berth spacecraft shortly past midnight Saturday morning in a shake-down experiment for next July's planned orbital linkup with American astronauts.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the Soyuz-17 spaceship blasted off at 43 minutes past midnight (3:43 p.m. CST) for a rendezvous with the Salyut-4 space laboratory put into orbit Dec. 26.

Tass said crewmembers Lt. Col. Alexei Gubarev and civilian flight engineer Georgi Grechko, both are 43 years old, and are making their first space voyage.

Tass said the cosmonauts felt well and all systems aboard the Soyuz were functioning normally.

Vice Chairmen Are Chosen

The vice chairmanships of 12 of the Legislature's 13 committees have been filled, according to records on file Friday with the legislative clerk.

The vice chairmen were chosen in caucuses called before the Unicameral adjourned for a three-day weekend.

The vice chairmen:

Agriculture — Sen. John DeCamp, Neligh; Judiciary, also DeCamp.
Appropriations — Sen. Robert Clark, Sidney.
Constitutional Revision — Sen. Orval Keyes, Springfield.
Education — Sen. Walter George, Blair.
Government, Military and Veterans Affairs — Sen. Gerald Koch, Ralston
Labor — Sen. Otho Kime, Valentine.
Miscellaneous Subjects — Sen. Wally Barnett, Lincoln.
Health and Welfare — Sen. Richard Lewis, Holbrook.
Public Works — Sen. Irving Wiltse, Falls City.
Revenue — Sen. Donald Dworak, Columbus.
Urban Affairs — Sen. Warren Swigart, Omaha.

Patch-Up Man Named

Washington (AP) — Ambassador-at-large Robert J. McCloskey has been chosen assistant secretary of state for congressional affairs to try to patch up some of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's problems with Congress.

Paul Coming Monday

New Orleans (UPI) — Former Beatle Paul McCartney and his entourage will arrive here Monday for a recording stint that could extend through March 1, according to an immigration official.

Considerable Variation Shown In Individual Water Rate Hikes

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The amount of the increase individual water users will have to pay under a proposed new water rate plan varies considerably from household to household.

A study of eight residential users appears to bear out Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker's contention before the City Council that supplying any average increase would be misleading.

It also appears, based on the study, that the increases will be large.

The highest annual increase among the eight residential users selected by The Star was 79.9%. The lowest was 36.8%.

Based On Consumption

Other figures were 45.7%, 56.8%, 59.9%, 61.2%, 65.6%, 70.4%. The yearly percentage increases were figured on the assumption that the user's consumption would remain the same under the new rate plan.

The City Council is scheduled to take final action on the proposed plan Monday.

As Blocker has contended, the households that will be hit the hardest were those who water their lawn heavily in the summer months and those that have water-cooled air conditioners.

The household with the 79.9% increase used more water during the three summer months than it did the other nine months of the year.

Reverse Charge

The new water rate plan, drawn up by the Water Advisory Board, attempts to reverse current charging practices. Instead of being charged less the more water they use, customers will be charged more.

However, the charge increases only when a customer exceeds his "base demand," or his monthly water consumption average over the previous 12 months.

A household that uses water at a steady rate would never enter the "demand brackets" in which it would pay 25 cents to 75 cents more than per 100 cubic feet of water.

Big Vs. Small

Thus a large household that steadily uses a lot of water will pay less for its water than a small household that uses the same amount or more water, but pours most of it on the lawn.

For example, the household with a 45.7% increase, a household with five children, used 30,100 cubic feet of water during the past year at a fairly steady rate. Its annual bill would go from $63.49 to $92.50.

The household with a 79.9% increase, a household with two children, used 26,500 cubic feet of water, most of it to water the lawn. Its bill went from $55.59 to $100.

Water officials argue that the plan is fair because the customer who uses huge amounts of water in the summer is the customer who should pay for the water facilities built to handle lawn watering demand, which stand idle most of the year.

Base Phased In

The base rate will be phased in over three years, with virtually all users to be charged 25 cents in 1975, 26 cents in 1976 and 27 cents in 1977 per 100 cubic feet. The present average cost is 23.5 cents, according to the city.

The proposal would also establish two other categories for customers which use huge amounts of water. Seven users currently fall into those categories.

Archer-Daniels-Midland Co., Burlington Northern Havelock shops, the Lincoln Electric System, University of Nebraska-Lincoln East Campus and Miller and Paine would pay a base rate of 19 cents.

The two high-use categories also have "demand brackets," in which an additional 50 cents to 75 cents will be charged if the customer exceeds his base demand rate.

If the new rate plan had been in effect in 1973, Miller and Paine, with a water-cooled air conditioner without a return or cooling tower, would have paid $50,755 instead of the $19,722.45 it did. Virtually all the water the store used was used during the summer months.

Miller and Paine has already taken steps to conserve water, according to Blocker.

American Stores and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. are the only two users in the category with a base rate of 14 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Under the proposed plan Goodyear would have paid $145,940.24 for the 94.6 million cubic feet of water it used in 1973 instead of the $100,939.24 it did pay.

City officials attempt to justify the lower rates to the seven high-use customers on the grounds the cost of water mains and meter readers for providing them service is less than for smaller users.

Tax Cut For U.S. May Be Big One

Washington (UPI) — President Ford has decided a tax reduction for Americans is needed to help stem deepening recession and perhaps the cut may have to be a big one, a key congressman reported Friday.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., prospective chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said after a 40-minute private meeting with Ford that he and Ford were "not that far apart" on how large the reduction should be and how it should be made.

Ullman would say only that the range under discussion was between $10 billion and $30 billion, but he is on record as agreeing with other high-ranking congressional Democrats that something near the upper end of that range is needed.

Earlier a White House spokesman said Ford is giving "very serious consideration" to a $20 billion tax cut that would include reducing family income taxes by $375 in 1975.

Reports also circulated that Ford favored a different approach — a one-shot, 10% rebate on 1974 taxes that Americans could either deduct from what is due April 15 or receive by from the government in a refund check.

Speaking of the Ford meeting, Ullman said: "He wants to work with the Congress and of course I want to cooperate with him. We both agree that we must move rapidly in the field of taxation in getting some relief to the American people."

Ullman, due to assume the all-important Ways and Means chairmanship in the new Congress convening Tuesday, said earlier that Congress could and would act swiftly on economic legislation and could complete a tax-cut bill by March.

After the Ford meeting, he declared: "The country's in trouble."

Ullman said Ford would propose a "broad program" of economic reform and relief that was "in some ways wider in scope than I anticipated."

He refused to discuss specifics of Ford's plan, which is to be unveiled in a State of the Union message later this month.

Ullman said he was himself "not too enthusiastic" about the 1974 tax rebate approach Ford is said to favor and indicated that he would prefer to see relief come gradually throughout 1975 by increasing workers' paychecks through smaller tax withholding.

MIKE'S . . . 'writing comes pretty easy.' →

Youth in Action
Reporting First Step To Career

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

"It's hard to be on the other end," Mike Sweeney laughed at the start of the interview. He's not used to being asked the questions.

A junior at Northeast High School, Mike is usually the one with the pencil and pad in hand, scribbling frantically in his own shorthand. His stint as a reporter for the school paper is the first step, he hopes, in a career of journalism.

"Since nobody listens to what I say," Mike joked, "writing is a dynamic way to get things across." And luckily for him, "writing comes pretty easy."

Some Satisfaction

There's a certain amount of satisfaction, Mike admitted, in seeing his stories in print. "But even if no one reads them, I'd enjoy writing them," he assured.

One of Mike's fun assignments was with the Wacisa Indian Dancers, a group of local junior high and high school students. He wrote a story from the inside "like George Plimpton."

Meeting with many kinds of people is one of the attractions of reporting for Mike.

Prefers Features

When it comes to assignments, Mike prefers feature work. "I can do my own special thing and not follow the strict guidelines of most news stories," he explained.

For story ideas, Mike relies on friends' suggestions and his own sense of news judgment to transform an ordinary situation around him into a lively feature.

Through a public relations class Mike has had a chance to distribute some of his feature stories to local newspapers as well as radio and television stations.

Approach Conversational

Mike's approach to interviews is a conversational one. He feels a person will open up more if he puts down his pencil and pad and talks face to face. It's a "more personal glimpse" of his subject that he's trying to achieve.

When it comes to the actual writing, Mike says he spends the first hour or two just staring around trying to think of a lead. "You've got to get attention right off the bat," Mike thinks, justifying the time he spend coming up with a start of his stories. "After that, the rest just comes."

Understanding all too well the problems of writing up a "dud" interview, Mike, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Sweeney, 7418 Holdrege, had a lively response for most questions.

At the interview's end, his sympathies were still with the reporter. "I hope you got a good story out of me!" He grinned as he waved goodbye.

Idea Would Benefit Remodelers

By The Associated Press

State Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha has proposed a constitutional amendment which would allow owners of older homes to remodel them without facing increased property taxes.

Cavanaugh said community development money from the Department of Housing and Urban Development has largely "gone down a rat hole" and the government needed to encourage people to remodel their own homes.

The constitutional amendment would allow the Legislature to exempt the increased value of a home from property taxes for a period of years. Cavanaugh said the exemption should last for about five years.

Although he said the bill proposing the amendment was drafted by the City of Omaha, he said "the problem is as bad in rural areas."

Cavanaugh said he did not know how much property tax relief would be granted because there is "no way of knowing how many people are not putting money into their homes" because their property taxes would be increased.

Central YWCA Schedules Series Of New Programs

Several new programs will begin this month at the Central YWCA, 1432 N, according to Mrs. Ivan Pettit, chairman of the publicity and public relations committee.

The first in a series of seven sessions on YWCA orientation will be held from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Tuesday. All interested persons are invited to attend the session which will feature a discussion on "People Are Our Business."

New classes in arts and skills will begin Jan. 20. Among those being offered are beginning bridge, brush-up bridge, china painting, communicating effectively, beginner's crocheting, macrame, painting, sewing solutions, sketching, beginning and intermediate weaving and women's studies.

Other special classes will include ballet and tennis for children, 50-mile swim, aqua fitness, jog and swim, deep water adjustment for adults and belly dancing.

In addition, the various YWCA swim classes will continue and the first classes in the new session will be held Jan. 20.

Family swims will be held four times a week as will "Diaper Dips" for children under four. Likewise, senior citizens' swim, swimming for handicapped adults and children, think-thin swimming and Gym and Swim to Recovery, for women who have had mastectomies.

Russians Launch Soyuz-17

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union launched a manned two-berth spacecraft shortly past midnight Saturday morning in a shake-down experiment for next July's planned orbital linkup with American astronauts.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the Soyuz-17 spaceship blasted off at 43 minutes past midnight (3:43 p.m. CST) for a rendezvous with the Salyut-4 space laboratory put into orbit Dec. 26.

Tass said crewmembers Lt. Col. Alexei Gubarev and civilian flight engineer Georgi Grechko, both are 43 years old, and are making their first space voyage.

Tass said the cosmonauts felt well and all systems aboard the Soyuz were functioning normally.

Vice Chairmen Are Chosen

The vice chairmanships of 12 of the Legislature's 13 committees have been filled, according to records on file Friday with the legislative clerk.

The vice chairmen were chosen in caucuses called before the Unicameral adjourned for a three-day weekend.

The vice chairmen:

Agriculture — Sen. John DeCamp, Neligh; Judiciary, also DeCamp.
Appropriations — Sen. Robert Clark, Sidney.
Constitutional Revision — Sen. Orval Keyes, Springfield.
Education — Sen. Walter George, Blair.
Government, Military and Veterans Affairs — Sen. Gerald Koch, Ralston.
Labor — Sen. Otho Kime, Valentine.
Miscellaneous Subjects — Sen. Wally Barnett, Lincoln.
Health and Welfare — Sen. Richard Lewis, Holbrook.
Public Works — Sen. Irving Wiltse, Falls City.
Revenue — Sen. Donald Dworak, Columbus.
Urban Affairs — Sen. Warren Swigart, Omaha.

Patch-Up Man Named

Washington (AP) — Ambassador-at-large Robert J. McCloskey has been chosen assistant secretary of state for congressional affairs to try to patch up some of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's problems with Congress.

Paul Coming Monday

New Orleans (UPI) — Former Beatle Paul McCartney and his entourage will arrive here Monday for a recording stint that could extend through March 1, according to an immigration official.

Differing Views Of Reality

There was little adverse reaction to Gov. Exon's inaugural speech Thursday. At least, few people were badmouthing what the governor said. What criticism there was centered mostly on what he didn't say.

Although, almost alone, Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood took umbrage at what he considered to be Exon's lack of recognition of the big picture. Penny ante budget cuts, the senator suggested, will not cure Nebraska's economic ills. A shot in the arm for the state's cattle industry would be more to the point, he said.

But most of the senators who listened to the governor's second inaugural speech, while lamenting a lack of specifics, were in general agreement with its fiscally conservative tone.

Summed up in the governor's own words, the theme was that "We will have 'the Good Life' by tempering demands, accepting realism, separating needs from expediency, junking organized spending pleas even when hawked by those cloaked in the garb of the supposedly untouchables."

Who can argue with a philosophy of tempering demands, accepting realism and separating needs from expediency? Nobody, really. But words are only words, and these may be somewhat hollow. Especially provocative was the phrase referring to "organized spending pleas" hawked by the supposedly untouchables. It was an oblique reference and we presume that was purposeful.

Who are the untouchables? Perhaps they are those who see needs and ask that they be met; those who are concerned that past investments of public money will be wasted because of suggested future underfunding and those who expect that past commitments will be honored. For example, supporters of the University of Nebraska system, which should be considered one of the state's most treasured resources. Or members of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, who understand that there is a commitment that construction will accompany other correctional reforms. Perhaps the "supposedly untouchables" number among them editorialists who claim that accepting realism does not necessarily mean standing still and that even in the circumstances of an economic downturn, Nebraska can afford to meet her needs.

The unfortunate Daniel Moynihan, when he worked as a domestic advisor to the disgraced former president, perceived that the nation was weary of racial strife and he suggested that the Nixon administration adopt a policy of "benign neglect" regarding minority demands for dignity and equal opportunity. That was a lousy racial policy. It amounted to ignoring reality, not accepting it.

Hopefully the governor, obviously perceiving tax weariness, is not suggesting a policy of benign neglect as to meeting the needs of the state. That would be ignoring reality, too. The needs of the state, the goals, the problem areas, exist as surely as inflation and recession exist and they will be around, compounded, a lot longer.

Yawn

Although the blizzard may have taken its toll, the Lancaster County Young Republicans had a heckuva program scheduled for Friday night.

According to a news release issued earlier in the week, "Doctor Earl L. Lampshire, prominent local dentist, will address the group on hypnosis. Doctor Lampshire has been a guest lecturer on hypnotherapy in the UNL Department of Graduate Psychology."

This might be seen as Step 1 in the GOP game plan to recapture the governor's office.

The Lancaster YRs, thus lectured, could start immediately to rearrange the thinking of the entire Nebraska electorate.

"You are getting verrry sleepy." Then follows a dissertation on the evils of eight consecutive years of Democratic governance.

And then the culminating suggestion that any mention of such words as precinct, election, ballot, governor or vote will automatically be associated with the word "Republican."

Actually, the subject should be no stranger to the GOP. Except for a fellow named Nobby a few years back, the party has had a remarkably long string of candidates who could put the public to sleep.

ABRAHAM

They Had A Dream

"Abraham made his appearance bearing a white flag on a small stick, which he had cut in the woods, and walked up to the tent of Gen. Jesup with perfect dignity and composure.

"He stuck the staff of his flag in the ground, made a salute or bow with his hand without bending his body and then waited for the advance of the general with the most complete self-possession."

Thus official documents describe an historic meeting in 1837 which eventually led to the removal of the Seminole Indians from Florida to an Oklahoma reservation.

The powwow came after two years of bloody fighting in the Florida Everglades between the Seminoles, led by Chief Micanopy, and U.S. Army forces under Gen. Sidney Jesup's command.

☆ ☆ ☆

Abraham played an important role both in the Seminole war and in the peace negotiations. Sometimes called the "Prophet," he was the prime minister and privy counselor of Micanopy and is said to have ruled all the councils of the Indians through his influence over the chief.

It was his concern over the blacks who lived among the Indians which blocked the removal of the Indians for years.

The Seminoles were a collection of renegades from the Creek, Cherokee and other tribes who banded together in the Florida swamps. They provided sanctuary to hundreds of runaway slaves who also were considered to be Seminoles.

This led to much of the agitation for relocation of the Seminoles.

However, Abraham, regarded as chief of approximately 600 blacks, stood firmly against relocating unless his people were given guarantees they would not be returned to slavery once out of the sanctuary of the swamps.

Six feet tall, powerfully built and a persuasive speaker, Abraham was a cunning and brave warrior feared and respected by Army forces. He had run away from his master in Pensacola, Fla., to settle among the Indians.

He served as interpreter in 1835 when the Seminoles agreed to inspect the land onto which the government proposed to move them. Abraham was among the sub-chiefs who went West and viewed the land. But the relocation plan collapsed after the Indians were tricked into making additional agreements, and the Seminole war erupted.

Abrahma traveled from plantation to plantation persuading slaves to run away and join the Indians. He and his black warriors fought Jesup's forces all through the swamps and in one major battle in 1835 and wiped out an entire company of 100 soldiers.

☆ ☆ ☆

Abraham, however, was wise enough to see that relocation was inevitable. He and two Seminole chiefs, Jumper and Alligator, met Jesup and agreed to a peace conference.

☆ ☆ ☆

Later Abraham said he expected to be hanged but had decided to die, if he must, like a man in one more effort to save his people. He used his influence in the negotiations, and a second treaty was signed in 1837 with a provision protecting the blacks. The Seminoles eventually were relocated in 1839, and Abraham moved West with them.

Ambassadorial Dumping-Grounds

Lincoln, Neb.

With no intended disrespect for Labor Secretary Peter Brennan, who happens to be a flattering suggestion as ambassador to Ireland, I am reminded that the diplomatic posts such as ambassadorships are sort of a dumping-ground for the hot and not too hot.

Too often have the prestigious ambassadorships gone to the controversial or the tarnished as a way for shelf life to keep perking in government until pension.

The attitude of career politicians can be best described by President Ford in the confines of his limousine with golf buddy, Congressman Tip O'Neill. Boyishly, the President said: "Tip, do you realize how much my damn pension is gonna' be now?" ("New Times" magazine, Dec. 27, 1974)

Some of the appointments as ambassador of the United States have cheated career diplomats who spend their professional lives in consulates and embassy chanceries throughout the world. They have had the school of experience, often learning languages and customs plus having a host of contacts and knowledge of the sensitive courtesies and required behavior.

It seems suffocating that the zenith of a diplomatic career such as ambassador should be such a pawn rather than the incentive goal of conscientious underlings in the embassy secretariats, consuls, vice-consuls, et al.

The result of many of the so called "appointments" has caused insult to the countries to whom these persons are assigned, receiving hooligans, political rejects and patrons who bought their ways in with "campaign contributions."

This is just as outrageous as appointing postmasters who do not have the empathy or kindred feeling relating to the actual people who hoof and process the mails.

The yardstick for measuring qualifications is realistic in free enterprise but too often disregarded in government or non-profit organizations.

The Good Coyote Hunters

Palmyra, Neb.

I would like to reply to the letter from Robert Drda in the Jan. 8 Star.

I am a coyote hunter and take exception to several of the statements. I know there are some "bandits" but I and many others should not be labeled by the actions of a few outcasts.

Mr. Drda called us scavengers. Why? We engage in a sport just as the bird hunter does. We invest more in our sport than nearly every bird hunter. Would scavengers go to this expense?

Each land-owner has the right to protect his property. If a hunter is seen trespassing or shooting, the land-owner has the right to stop the offender and take his name and address. This should be reported to the proper authorities and a complaint signed for prosecution. If enough people would do this, these "bandits" could be run out.

We coyote hunters pay taxes on the gas we burn to help build new roads. We pay taxes on our vehicles to help pay for other governmental functions which are beneficial. I do not consider us a menace to wildlife. The group I hunt with has specific rules against hunting or shooting other wildlife when we are coyote hunting.

White-tailed deer were specifically mentioned. A check with the State Game Commission will show that they have more trouble with deer poachers disguised as racoon hunters at night.

Many farm animals — calves, chickens, etc. — have been killed by coyotes. They are over-populating in southeast Nebraska and when they run out of their natural forage — rabbits, mice, etc. — they start preying on domestic animals. This is one reason for fewer birds this year.

There are good coyote hunters and bad, just as there are good bird hunters and bad. I invite anyone to ride along with me, to see that we follow the list of rules for my group.

Commends Police Department

Lincoln, Neb.

It is disturbing to see another attack on the Lincoln Police Department. Such attacks have become a technique frequently used by individuals and organizations to reduce the effectiveness of police functions.

It is only natural that individuals who are questioned by a police officer would have an immediate reaction of resentment even when they know they have violated some ordinance or law. In a few cases this resentment causes the individual to become vindictive and to make an effort to retaliate in some manner.

Individuals and organizations always make some errors and can make improvements in some areas. Police departments are no exception. However, it is my opinion that the Lincoln Police Department is one of the best in the country.

Whether or not some individuals have been harassed by the police in connection with suspected driving while intoxicated will always be debatable. It is difficult to define "harassment."

In any event, I would prefer to have the police question every person who is suspected of driving while intoxicated, even if this results in some "harassment." We must do everything possible to prevent injuries and deaths caused by drunk drivers.

Upholds CIA Actions

Falls City, Neb.

Instead of dismantling the CIA, some congressman with common sense should introduce a bill to update the 1947 charter so the CIA can (legally) do a better job of keeping tab on people who are out to do the country in.

When the 1947 CIA charter was drawn up, most of the individuals who would like to see the U.S. as constitutionally established go down the drain lived outside the borders of our country. For some years now, people who would do the nation in have been inside the boundaries of our country.

The liaison between the CIA and the FBI as the people moved from foreign countries into the USA was cumbersome at best and much too late to be effective. Jet travel has made such liaison obsolete.

We have only to look around us at the many revolutionary episodes plaguing us over recent years to realize we need more, not less, information about subversion.

More attention to the substantive and less obsession with legal technicalities would help a lot. For it was this same obsession with legal technicalities regarding the criminals' rights that led to our current unprecedented crime wave.

Police Protection

Lincoln, Neb.

I am writing in response to the letter in the Jan. 6 Star from "Potential Law-Breaker." In the letter he said he was glad the Lincoln police have been harassing the citizens of Lincoln. He added that the police keep us poor dumb citizens from "going too far."

I have a question. Who or what is going to keep the police from "going too far"? Whoever wrote that letter is an example of one of the major things that is wrong with the people of this country. Most people are far too willing to surrender their constitutional rights just for the "security" of not having to think for themselves, of letting the police and the government tell them what to do. And that, my friends, is a large step in the wrong direction. It leads straight to a totalitarian dictatorship (which we came very close to with Nixon).

The police pose a much greater threat to our security than do all of the crazies that the police are supposed to be "protecting" us from.

TOM WICKER

Our American Justice

WASHINGTON — Herbert Kalmbach, natty in a three-piece suit, told a news conference he had "renewed appreciation and confidence in the essential fairness of America's justice" and even hoped that his "actions have served to strengthen the pillars of justice."

Jeb Magruder was welcomed home with yellow ribbons round the old oak tree — actually a cherry — in his suburban yard. Neighbors gathered to greet him with a friendly banner.

Mrs. John Dean said it was a great way to start the new year and that her husband had been "sufficiently punished."

How easily is the world turned upside down! With an unexpected stroke of his pen, John Sirica — the old "hanging judge" himself, the scourge of Watergate — turned loose three of the major participants in the biggest political scandal in American history, one being seen by more and more people as having threatened the very foundations of democratic government.

Kalmbach's response was worthy of a Kafka story. He got off with six months, mostly in quarters for government witnesses, and as a result his confidence in the "fairness of American justice" is renewed. Some people spend more time in jail, merely awaiting trial on minor larceny charges. Kalmbach, who sold an ambassadorship, fancies that his having pled guilty to a felony and a misdemeanor, as well as testifying against former colleagues, actually "strengthened the pillars of justice." But first, he and the Watergate gang came as close as anyone has to pulling down those pillars.

As for Magruder's neighbors, their generosity toward a good family and community man does them credit. Such generosity is virtually non-existent, however, when the ordinary convict shuffles out of the prison gate in a state suit with a few drudging state dollars in his pocket and no job, little ability to get one, and no yellow ribbon round the stunted splinter that may pass for a tree in his ghetto neighborhood.

And if four months of minimum security confinement for John Dean is sufficient punishment for a man prosecutors say was the key man in the Watergate cover-up before he became the key man in the prosecution, what is it when a high school dropout gets 15 years in New York for possessing more than an ounce of marijuana? What is it when black radicals like Jim Grant and T. J. Reddy get 25 and 20 years in North Carolina on arson charges by witnesses paid thousands of dollars by the federal government? What is it when Martin Sostre spends five of his seven years in four New York prisons in solitary confinement for refusing to knuckle under to prison rites like mail seizures and rectal searches?

It is being suggested, of course, that as in the case of Richard Nixon, who goes free on $55,000 a year, the loss of high office and political power, as well as public humiliation makes up for soft prison terms (seven months for Magruder). Aside from the fact that anyone who goes to prison, whether for four months at Fort Holabird or 10 years at San Quentin, suffers humiliation and the loss of his job and family associations, the outlook for clever, educated, well-groomed and facile men like these three is quite good in a celebrity conscious and success-oriented society. Yesterday's scandal is tomorrow's lecture tour or best seller; old felonies can found new careers, as witness that busy entrepreneur, Spiro Agnew.

It is true enough that all these men ultimately helped the government crack the Watergate case and convict the other culprits; but it also is true that they could have blown the whistle at any time, but never did until faced with the necessity to save their skins as best they could.

In the cases of Dean and Kalmbach, bar associations could levy harsher penalties than the law has by barring them from legal practice. But to the millions of low-income, disadvantaged, unskilled and uneducated Americans, so many of whom have good reason to view the law with fear and distrust, the whole episode is likely to be another demonstration that there is one kind of justice for them, and another for affluent, educated persons with good lawyers and "standing" in their communities.

The rest of us, without further recriminations on Dean, Magruder or Kalmbach, might take time to ask ourselves what a serious crime really is. A street mugging is abhorrent, a break-in demands severe punishment; but are betrayals of public trust and subversion of the laws by officials sworn to uphold them really to be considered lesser crimes, on the practical scale of the penalties that result?

Pravda Deplores CIA

NEW YORK — The next time Henry Kissinger goes to Moscow — probably tomorrow or the day after — he should go prepared to apologize to Tomas Kolesnichenko.

Kolesnichenko blew the whistle on our secret police. The senior editor of Pravda, who doesn't make a move without calling the Kremlin, revealed in that blat's weekly international review that the U.S. persecutes dissidents. Spies on them, checks their mail and phone calls, through the dreaded C.I.A.

It must have come as a shock to readers of Pravda to learn that we're as lousy as the Soviet Union is about invading the privacy of ordinary citizens. There went, I'd guess, their last illusion. How could any of them have conceived that the U.S. — secret land of their dreams — had the equivalent of the K.G.B.?

☆ ☆ ☆

After he apologizes to Kolesnichenko and explains the C.I.A., Kissinger should ask the editor to tell his readers that there are slight differences in the way we snoop on our people and the way the K.G.B. goes about it.

The C.I.A. can be and will be investigated by an eight-member presidential commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, who may wind up buying it for an investment. It will also be investigated by several congressional committees and surely by Ralph Nader.

There is no known move afoot in the Kremlin to investigate the K.G.B.

The C.I.A. does not operate prisons, employ house-arrest guards, or conduct manual labor camps in the bleak reaches of, say, Utah.

The K.G.B. runs the sinister Lubiyanka in beautiful downtown Moscow, has done its best to throttle the likes of Prof. Andrei Sakharov and other brave intellecturals, engineers and artists, and is reluctant to speed the wanted departure of tens of thousands of Russian Jews to Israel.

Pending the issuance of the Rockefeller report next April, there is no reason to believe that the C.I.A. refused to grant visas to Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers when they tried to move to the Soviet Union last Feb. 31. Moreover, the C.I.A., according to well-placed sources, is putting no pressure on James Michener to go easy on his published assertions that Colorado was once infested with dinosaurs. Our spy group hasn't made a move to silence Mike Wallace. Or Jack Anderson. Or Martha Mitchell.

One of the few real parallels between the C.I.A. and the K.G.B. is that they are off-shoots of earlier organizations. As for K.G.B., it is the terrible descendant of the M.V.D. (and, before that, organizations like the Cheka that reached back to Ivan the Terrible). Whatever its initials were, under Stalin it arranged for the wiping out of perhaps 5,000,000 farmers who had the gall (and craving) to want to eat some of their hard-won produce instead of turning it over to the state. Stalin's initialed secret cops also massacred a brilliant officer corps, plus Jewish doctors.

C.I.A.'s immediate predecessor was the O.S.S., Office of Strategic Services, run by Gen. "Wild Bill" Donovan, who wasn't really very wild. He was Jack Benny's lawyer between wars, which gives you an idea how sinister he was. He was enjoying a pro football game at the Polo Grounds between the New York Giants and the long-gone Brooklyn Dodgers on December 7, 1941, when a now very dear friend of ours, Japan, gave us a shot at Pearl Harbor.

Secret police chiefs in the Soviet Union have gone on to higher jobs, such as Lavrenti Beria — who might have taken over the Kremlin after Stalin's death unless Malenkov, Khrushchev, Bulganin and probably the gentle Mikoyan had the good sense to shoot him.

We do thing differently, Kissinger should explain to Pravda's man. We banished Allen Dulles to a 10-year term attending Washington cocktail parties, and exiled Richard Helms to the pleasure domes of Teheran. Whence, it appears, he shall return.

Differing Views Of Reality

There was little adverse reaction to Gov. Exon's inaugural speech Thursday. At least, few people were badmouthing what the governor said. What criticism there was centered mostly on what he didn't say.

Although, almost alone, Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood took umbrage at what he considered to be Exon's lack of recognition of the big picture. Penny ante budget cuts, the senator suggested, will not cure Nebraska's economic ills. A shot in the arm for the state's cattle industry would be more to the point, he said.

But most of the senators who listened to the governor's second inaugural speech, while lamenting a lack of specifics, were in general agreement with its fiscally conservative tone.

Summed up in the governor's own words, the theme was that "We will have 'the Good Life' by tempering demands, accepting realism, separating needs from expediency, junking organized spending pleas even when hawked by those cloaked in the garb of the supposedly untouchables."

Who can argue with a philosophy of tempering demands, accepting realism and separating needs from expediency? Nobody, really. But words are only words, and these may be somewhat hollow. Especially provocative was the phrase referring to "organized spending pleas" hawked by the supposedly untouchables. It was an oblique reference and we presume that was purposeful.

Who are the untouchables? Perhaps they are those who see needs and ask that they be met; those who are concerned that past investments of public money will be wasted because of suggested future underfunding and those who expect that past commitments will be honored. For example, supporters of the University of Nebraska system, which should be considered one of the state's most treasured resources. Or members of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee, who understand that there is a commitment that construction will accompany other correctional reforms. Perhaps the "supposedly untouchables" number among them editorialists who claim that accepting realism does not necessarily mean standing still and that even in the circumstances of an economic downturn, Nebraska can afford to meet her needs.

The unfortunate Daniel Moynihan, when he worked as a domestic advisor to the disgraced former president, perceived that the nation was weary of racial strife and he suggested that the Nixon administration adopt a policy of "benign neglect" regarding minority demands for dignity and equal opportunity. That was a lousy racial policy. It amounted to ignoring reality, not accepting it.

Hopefully the governor, obviously perceiving tax weariness, is not suggesting a policy of benign neglect as to meeting the needs of the state. That would be ignoring reality, too. The needs of the state, the goals, the problem areas, exist as surely as inflation and recession exist and they will be around, compounded, a lot longer.

Yawn

Although the blizzard may have taken its toll, the Lancaster County Young Republicans had a heckuva program scheduled for Friday night.

According to a news release issued earlier in the week, "Doctor Earl L. Lampshire, prominent local dentist, will address the group on hypnosis. Doctor Lampshire has been a guest lecturer on hypnotherapy in the UNL Department of Graduate Psychology."

This might be seen as Step 1 in the GOP game plan to recapture the governor's office.

The Lancaster YRs, thus lectured, could start immediately to rearrange the thinking of the entire Nebraska electorate.

"You are getting verrry sleepy." Then follows a dissertation on the evils of eight consecutive years of Democratic governance.

And then the culminating suggestion that any mention of such words as precinct, election, ballot, governor or vote will automatically be associated with the word "Republican."

Actually, the subject should be no stranger to the GOP. Except for a fellow named Nobby a few years back, the party has had a remarkably long string of candidates who could put the public to sleep.

ABRAHAM

They Had A Dream

"Abraham made his appearance bearing a white flag on a small stick, which he had cut in the woods, and walked up to the tent of Gen. Jesup with perfect dignity and composure.

"He stuck the staff of his flag in the ground, made a salute or bow with his hand without bending his body and then waited for the advance of the general with the most complete self-possession."

Thus official documents describe an historic meeting in 1837 which eventually led to the removal of the Seminole Indians from Florida to an Oklahoma reservation.

The powwow came after two years of bloody fighting in the Florida Everglades between the Seminoles, led by Chief Micanopy, and U.S. Army forces under Gen. Sidney Jesup's command.

☆ ☆ ☆

Abraham played an important role both in the Seminole war and in the peace negotiations. Sometimes called the "Prophet," he was the prime minister and privy counselor of Micanopy and is said to have ruled all the councils of the Indians through his influence over the chief.

It was his concern over the blacks who lived among the Indians which blocked the removal of the Indians for years.

The Seminoles were a collection of renegades from the Creek, Cherokee and other tribes who banded together in the Florida swamps. They provided sanctuary to hundreds of runaway slaves who also were considered to be Seminoles.

This led to much of the agitation for relocation of the Seminoles.

However, Abraham, regarded as chief of approximately 600 blacks, stood firmly against relocating unless his people were given guarantees they would not be returned to slavery once out of the sanctuary of the swamps.

Six feet tall, powerfully built and a persuasive speaker, Abraham was a cunning and brave warrior feared and respected by Army forces. He had run away from his master in Pensacola, Fla., to settle among the Indians.

He served as interpreter in 1835 when the Seminoles agreed to inspect the land onto which the government proposed to move them. Abraham was among the sub-chiefs who went West and viewed the land. But the relocation plan collapsed after the Indians were tricked into making additional agreements, and the Seminole war erupted.

Abrahma traveled from plantation to plantation persuading slaves to run away and join the Indians. He and his black warriors fought Jesup's forces all through the swamps and in one major battle in 1835 and wiped out an entire company of 100 soldiers.

☆ ☆ ☆

Abraham, however, was wise enough to see that relocation was inevitable. He and two Seminole chiefs, Jumper and Alligator, met Jesup and agreed to a peace conference.

☆ ☆ ☆

Later Abraham said he expected to be hanged but had decided to die, if he must, like a man in one more effort to save his people. He used his influence in the negotiations, and a second treaty was signed in 1837 with a provision protecting the blacks. The Seminoles eventually were relocated in 1839, and Abraham moved West with them.

Ambassadorial Dumping-Grounds

Lincoln, Neb.

With no intended disrespect for Labor Secretary Peter Brennan, who happens to be a flattering suggestion as ambassador to Ireland, I am reminded that the diplomatic posts such as ambassadorships are sort of a dumping-ground for the hot and not too hot.

Too often have the prestigious ambassadorships gone to the controversial or the tarnished as a way for shelf life to keep perking in government until pension.

The attitude of career politicians can be best described by President Ford in the confines of his limousine with golf buddy, Congressman Tip O'Neill. Boyishly, the President said: "Tip, do you realize how much my damn pension is gonna' be now?" ("New Times" magazine, Dec. 27, 1974)

Some of the appointments as ambassador of the United States have cheated career diplomats who spend their professional lives in consulates and embassy chanceries throughout the world. They have had the school of experience, often learning languages and customs plus having a host of contacts and knowledge of the sensitive courtesies and required behavior.

It seems suffocating that the zenith of a diplomatic career such as ambassador should be such a pawn rather than the incentive goal of conscientious underlings in the embassy secretariats, consuls, vice-consuls, et al.

The result of many of the so called "appointments" has caused insult to the countries to whom these persons are assigned, receiving hooligans, political rejects and patrons who bought their ways in with "campaign contributions."

This is just as outrageous as appointing postmasters who do not have the empathy or kindred feeling relating to the actual people who hoof and process the mails.

The yardstick for measuring qualifications is realistic in free enterprise but too often disregarded in government or non-profit organizations.

The Good Coyote Hunters

Palmyra, Neb.

I would like to reply to the letter from Robert Drda in the Jan. 8 Star.

I am a coyote hunter and take exception to several of the statements. I know there are some "bandits" but I and many others should not be labeled by the actions of a few outcasts.

Mr. Drda called us scavengers. Why? We engage in a sport just as the bird hunter does. We invest more in our sport than nearly every bird hunter. Would scavengers go to this expense?

Each land-owner has the right to protect his property. If a hunter is seen trespassing or shooting, the land-owner has the right to stop the offender and take his name and address. This should be reported to the proper authorities and a complaint signed for prosecution. If enough people would do this, these "bandits" could be run out.

We coyote hunters pay taxes on the gas we burn to help build new roads. We pay taxes on our vehicles to help pay for other governmental functions which are beneficial. I do not consider us a menace to wildlife. The group I hunt with has specific rules against hunting or shooting other wildlife when we are coyote hunting.

White-tailed deer were specifically mentioned. A check with the State Game Commission will show that they have more trouble with deer poachers disguised as racoon hunters at night.

Many farm animals — calves, chickens, etc. — have been killed by coyotes. They are over-populating in southeast Nebraska and when they run out of their natural forage — rabbits, mice, etc. — they start preying on domestic animals. This is one reason for fewer birds this year.

There are good coyote hunters and bad, just as there are good bird hunters and bad. I invite anyone to ride along with me, to see that we follow the list of rules for my group.

Commends Police Department

Lincoln, Neb.

It is disturbing to see another attack on the Lincoln Police Department. Such attacks have become a technique frequently used by individuals and organizations to reduce the effectiveness of police functions.

It is only natural that individuals who are questioned by a police officer would have an immediate reaction of resentment even when they know they have violated some ordinance or law. In a few cases this resentment causes the individual to become vindictive and to make an effort to retaliate in some manner.

Individuals and organizations always make some errors and can make improvements in some areas. Police departments are no exception. However, it is my opinion that the Lincoln Police Department is one of the best in the country.

Whether or not some individuals have been harassed by the police in connection with suspected driving while intoxicated will always be debatable. It is difficult to define "harassment."

In any event, I would prefer to have the police question every person who is suspected of driving while intoxicated, even if this results in some "harassment." We must do everything possible to prevent injuries and deaths caused by drunk drivers.

Upholds CIA Actions

Falls City, Neb.

Instead of dismantling the CIA, some congressman with common sense should introduce a bill to update the 1947 charter so the CIA can (legally) do a better job of keeping tab on people who are out to do the country in.

When the 1947 CIA charter was drawn up, most of the individuals who would like to see the U.S. as constitutionally established go down the drain lived outside the borders of our country. For some years now, people who would do the nation in have been inside the boundaries of our country.

The liaison between the CIA and the FBI as the people moved from foreign countries into the USA was cumbersome at best and much too late to be effective. Jet travel has made such liaison obsolete.

We have only to look around us at the many revolutionary episodes plaguing us over recent years to realize we need more, not less, information about subversion.

More attention to the substantive and less obsession with legal technicalities would help a lot. For it was this same obsession with legal technicalities regarding the criminals' rights that led to our current unprecedented crime wave.

Police Protection

Lincoln, Neb.

I am writing in response to the letter in the Jan. 6 Star from "Potential Law-Breaker." In the letter he said he was glad the Lincoln police have been harassing the citizens of Lincoln. He added that the police keep us poor dumb citizens from "going too far."

I have a question. Who or what is going to keep the police from "going too far"? Whoever wrote that letter is an example of one of the major things that is wrong with the people of this country. Most people are far too willing to surrender their constitutional rights just for the "security" of not having to think for themselves, of letting the police and the government tell them what to do. And that, my friends, is a large step in the wrong direction. It leads straight to a totalitarian dictatorship (which we came very close to with Nixon).

The police pose a much greater threat to our security than do all of the crazies that the police are supposed to be "protecting" us from.

Our American Justice

WASHINGTON — Herbert Kalmbach, natty in a three-piece suit, told a news conference he had "renewed appreciation and confidence in the essential fairness of America's justice" and even hoped that his "actions have served to strengthen the pillars of justice."

Jeb Magruder was welcomed home with yellow ribbons round the old oak tree — actually a cherry — in his suburban yard. Neighbors gathered to greet him with a friendly banner.

Mrs. John Dean said it was a great way to start the new year and that her husband had been "sufficiently punished."

How easily is the world turned upside down! With an unexpected stroke of his pen, John Sirica — the old "hanging judge" himself, the scourge of Watergate — turned loose three of the major participants in the biggest political scandal in American history, one being seen by more and more people as having threatened the very foundations of democratic government.

Kalmbach's response was worthy of a Kafka story. He got off with six months, mostly in quarters for government witnesses, and as a result his confidence in the "fairness of American justice" is renewed. Some people spend more time in jail, merely awaiting trial on minor larceny charges. Kalmbach, who sold an ambassadorship, fancies that his having pled guilty to a felony and a misdemeanor, as well as testifying against former colleagues, actually "strengthened the pillars of justice." But first, he and the Watergate gang came as close as anyone has to pulling down those pillars.

As for Magruder's neighbors, their generosity toward a good family and community man does them credit. Such generosity is virtually non-existent, however, when the ordinary convict shuffles out of the prison gate in a state suit with a few drudging state dollars in his pocket and no job, little ability to get one, and no yellow ribbon round the stunted splinter that may pass for a tree in his ghetto neighborhood.

And if four months of minimum security confinement for John Dean is sufficient punishment for a man prosecutors say was the key man in the Watergate cover-up before he became the key man in the prosecution, what is it when a high school dropout gets 15 years in New York for possessing more than an ounce of marijuana? What is it when black radicals like Jim Grant and T. J. Reddy get 25 and 20 years in North Carolina on arson charges by witnesses paid thousands of dollars by the federal government? What is it when Martin Sostre spends five of his seven years in four New York prisons in solitary confinement for refusing to knuckle under to prison rites like mail seizures and rectal searches?

It is being suggested, of course, that as in the case of Richard Nixon, who goes free on $55,000 a year, the loss of high office and political power, as well as public humiliation makes up for soft prison terms (seven months for Magruder). Aside from the fact that anyone who goes to prison, whether for four months at Fort Holabird or 10 years at San Quentin, suffers humiliation and the loss of his job and family associations, the outlook for clever, educated, well-groomed and facile men like these three is quite good in a celebrity conscious and success-oriented society. Yesterday's scandal is tomorrow's lecture tour or best seller; old felonies can found new careers, as witness that busy entrepreneur, Spiro Agnew.

It is true enough that all these men ultimately helped the government crack the Watergate case and convict the other culprits; but it also is true that they could have blown the whistle at any time, but never did until faced with the necessity to save their skins as best they could.

In the cases of Dean and Kalmbach, bar associations could levy harsher penalties than the law has by barring them from legal practice. But to the millions of low-income, disadvantaged, unskilled and uneducated Americans, so many of whom have good reason to view the law with fear and distrust, the whole episode is likely to be another demonstration that there is one kind of justice for them, and another for affluent, educated persons with good lawyers and "standing" in their communities.

The rest of us, without further recriminations on Dean, Magruder or Kalmbach, might take time to ask ourselves what a serious crime really is. A street mugging is abhorrent, a break-in demands severe punishment; but are betrayals of public trust and subversion of the laws by officials sworn to uphold them really to be considered lesser crimes, on the practical scale of the penalties that result?

Cracked Windshield Creates Emergency At 12,000 Feet

By H. L. HOFFMASTER
Star Staff Writer

HEILIG . . . others felt safe in his hands.

"We were safe in Heilig's hands," Lincolnite Claud Hof said Friday morning . . . even when the windshield in the plane in which Hof was riding cracked at 12,000 feet over Grand Island in the season's worst snowstorm.

Three First National Lincoln officers were on board the Beechcraft King Air which took off from Lincoln Friday morning headed into a blizzard which was dumping inches of snow across the state, driven by winds up to 55 miles per hour.

First National chief pilot Robert Heilig and copilot Bernadette Bauer were the crew.

Passengers were First National vice presidents Richard Emery and Charles Marquardt plus chief real estate officer Claud R. Hof.

Begin To Relax

They were heading for appointments at Scottsbluff, and at around 7:30 a.m. had just gotten to an altitude where they could begin to relax and have a cup of coffee.

They were destined not to have coffee until back in Lincoln and on the ground because over Grand Island the front windshield on the pilot's side cracked with a "loud pop," Heilig said.

He flashed the "seat belt" sign to his passengers and 35 minutes of anxiety began.

Pressure began slipping and the crew prepared for the worst, fearing that the windshield would explode inward, perhaps injuring the crew, leaving the plane's interior open to the subzero temperatures made seriously intense by a 250 mile-per-hour speed and a suffocating blizzard.

The plan, by Heilig and Bauer, was to have the copilot (whose window was solid) get ready to take over the controls instantaneously.

But the glass on Heilig's side held and the crack never became wide enough to let any snow in.

'Very Dangerous'

The emergency 35-minute flight back to Lincoln was potentially "very dangerous," Heilig said.

Passengers, Marquardt said, were frightened at first "but we don't worry a lot with Heilig at the controls."

Some wives knew of the drama, but didn't know it was happening to their husbands. Lincoln radio station newscasts carried the story that a plane, with its windshield gone, was trying to land in the blizzard.

"My wife didn't want me to go anyway this morning," Hof said, but at least she was spared the agony of knowing what was going on.

First National Lincoln has been operating the Beechcraft airplane for six months. The plane has only 350 hours of air time and Federal Aviation Administration agents are checking to determine the cause of the windshield crack.

Heilig piloted the plane to a landing at Lincoln airport shortly after 8 a.m. Friday, and Emery kidded him: "That was as good a landing as you ever made."

Schools Closed By Hoax

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha public schools were caught in Friday's snowstorm by a hoax telephone call to Omaha radio stations which said schools had been called off for the day, Ralph Bradley, director of information for the district, said.

Bradley said the calls were made to radio stations shortly after 7 a.m. by a person who identified himself as Eugene Skinner. Skinner is assistant superintendent of schools for community relations.

It resulted in announcements that the public schools would not be open.

When Dr. Owen Knutzen, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Joe Hanna, associate superintendent, were contacted to confirm the closing, the hoax was discovered and attempts were made to counter the erroneous announcement, Bradley said.

He said the confusion which resulted did cause the closing of the shools shortly after 9 a.m.

"The school district deeply regreats the situation but had no control over the misinformation," Dr. Hanna said. "Long established procedures for the public announcement of school closings had not been followed in the newsrooms of some area radio stations."

Skinner said he had not made the call.

"I had no communication at all with the news media," he said.

Students who were already at school when the decision to close was made, were sent home, Bradley said. Teachers and staff were allowed to leave when all children had been accounted for.

'88 Blizzard Club Cancels Meeting

Leading the list of cancellations Friday, because of the blizzard, was the Blizzard of 1888 Club's annual meeting.

The club, formed by survivors of Nebraska's worst-ever snowstorm which hit on Jan. 12 in 1888, was scheduled to meet Saturday. The dinner has been rescheduled for next Saturday.

The organization, now kept going by a few original members plus descendants, meets each year to swap tales and commemorate the event. As many as 100 Nebraskans died that Jan. 12, and many of the victims were school children.

Meanwhile, in this year's first blizzard, government offices, schools, some retail stores, businesses and industries closed by noon, sent workers home, or maintained skeleton staffs.

Schools Close

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln closed all campus offices at noon, but maintained a skeleton staff until 4 p.m. for second semester general registration. Second semester classes began Monday.

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents postponed for one week all meetings it had scheduled for Friday and Saturday. The public meeting will be Saturday, Jan. 18, 10 a.m., in Regents Hall, 3835 Holdrege. On Friday, Jan. 17, regents' committees will meet beginning at 4 p.m. and the board will hold informal discussions at 8 p.m. Agenda items include an increase in room and board rates at University of Nebraska-Lincoln residents halls, the 1975 summer session's budget, a veterinary medicine training agreement, construction and purchase plans, staff salary increases and election of regents to 1975 board offices

Kickoff Canceled

The kickoff for Nebraska International Women's Year was also canceled. It will now be held Saturday, Jan. 18, 10 a.m. at the Statehouse.

The State Board of Education did not cancel Friday afternoon's meeting and a few committees of the Legislature did meet.

Hotels and motels in and around Lincoln filled quickly Friday afternoon with snowbound industry and business employes plus stranded travelers.

By early evening, there were few motel rooms available. Even downtown hotels like the Hilton, Clayton House and the Cornhusker were at or near capacity.

Some firms reserved blocs of rooms for employes so they wouldn't have to struggle through the snow to get home.

Most industries closed at midday, but some kept a small staff for critical jobs.

Employes Go Home

Square D sent employes home at noon, Weaver's potato chip workers were sent home around 1 p.m. and the company kept trucks off the highways. Dorsey Labs closed at 1 p.m. and kept "just the guys who are waiting to see that everyone gets home all right," Goodyear kept a critical jobs staff on duty from 3 to 11 p.m. and plans to operate normally Saturday.

A survey of downtown retail stores at midafternoon found none open and the Gateway shopping center offices and stores were closed by early afternoon Friday.

Blizzard Defined

There was no doubt in anyone's mind that Lincoln was experiencing a blizzard, but just to be safe The Star checked with the National Weather Service to get the official definition.

According to forecaster Devore Silvey, a blizzard exists when the storm is expected to last three hours or more, wind speeds are 35 miles an hour or more, there is considerable falling or blowing snow and visibility frequently falls below one quarter of a mile.

Lincoln easily met all of those criteria.

HHH Won't Run

St. Paul, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says he will sign affidavits of noncandidacy in order to keep his name off presidential primary election ballots in 1976.

Neither Rain, Nor... How Did That Go?

"Neither rain, nor hail, nor sleet, nor snow shall stay these carriers from their appointed rounds."

In Omaha's case, that old saying became a myth Friday; and while Lincoln's mailmen weren't exactly stayed, they were slowed down.

Omaha Postmaster John P. Munnelly announced Friday afternoon that the Postal Service would make no further deliveries or collections of mail in Omaha Friday due to weather conditions.

Lincoln Postmaster Carl Moore said while service was minimal and late Friday, some mail was being delivered and collected.

However, Saturday's deliveries were likely to be very light, Moore said, because incoming mail to the Lincoln Post Office was being cut off by the snowstorm. Trucks that normally bring mail in were either stranded or never started out because of the storm.

Tangier Shrine Potentate Jelen

Omaha (AP) — Claude L. Jelen, who heads his own Omaha accounting firm, has become the new potentate of Tangier Shrine Temple.

November Road Toll Totals 27

The State Accident Records Bureau said Friday 27 persons were killed on Nebraska streets and highways during November.

Worst days of the month were the 26th and 27th when four fatalities were recorded on each day.

The records bureau said eight persons died in accidents on county roads, one death occurred on Interstate 80, and the other 18 victims died in accidents on federal and state highways and city streets.

Cuming County had the most fatalities with three.

Twenty-two of the victims were drivers.

Eight of those killed were between the ages of 0 and 21, 14 were in the 22-45 age bracket, three in the 46-55 bracket, and two were between 66 and 81.

Fourteen of the persons killed were involved in two-vehicle accidents. Four of the accidents were reported as "no collisions" and the remaining victims died in accidents involving fixed objects.

Veterinarians Honor Osceolan 'Wally' Monson

Kearney — Dr. W. F. "Wally" Monson, Osceola veterinarian, has been selected as the "Veterinarian of the Year" by the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association.

The announcement and award presentation was made at the annual banquet of the veterinarians at Kearney Friday night.

Dr. Monson has been in veterinary practice in Osceola since his graduation from Michigan State University in 1945. In addition to membership in the Nebraska VMA, Dr. Monson is also a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association. He was president of the Nebraska veterinarians in 1964.

Coyotes Blamed For Pig Loss

Lexington (UPI) — Farmer Paul Neil said he has lost 20 pigs in the last two weeks to a pack of increasingly bold coyotes. Neil, whose farm is 10 miles southwest of here, said the coyotes come out of the hills on one side of his farm and from along the Platte River on the other side. One large coyote, he said, can jump a fence with a 20-pound pig in his mouth. He said he has decided to keep the pigs confined until they weigh 40 pounds, but this is driving up the cost of his operation.

Miss Whetstone, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Whetstone, will attend the Kaffrarian High School for girls at King Williams Town.

Williams Acquitted In Murder Trial

Omaha (AP) — A Douglas County District court jury has acquitted Anthony R. Williams, 16, of the first degree murder of an elderly man last May. The victim was Anthony Palmisano, 78, who died after being beaten and robbed in a downtown Omaha alley. Police accused the youth and a companion, who has not yet been tried, of dragging Palmisano into the alley and beating, kicking and robbing him. His attorney told the jury that Williams was 15 at the time, while the other youth was 17.

City-County Complex Site Suggested

Grand Island (UPI) — The citizens' intergovernmental Study Commission, which was formed 18 months ago, has come up with a recommendation on the location of a city-county governmental complex. The commission approved a resolution calling for a six-block area in Grand Island to be developed for the complex. It surrounds the present county courthouse, jail and annex. Most of the property is currently owned by either the county or the city, so officials say little additional land would been have to be purchased.

No Action Taken On Dismissal

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—The Omaha Housing Authority has declined to take action on behalf of a dismissed black cashier until a federal investigation of various aspects of OHA's operation is complete.

Eloise Stromile was fired last month because of an alleged series of errors which led to cash shortages of $299. She told the board she feels she was a victim of racial prejudice and possibly of defective machinery, such as a cash register.

She said she does not want her OHA job back, but wants her name cleared.

Yale Richards, OHA attorney, told the board the Kansas City regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has started a study of the way OHA employes handle money and are trained to handle money, plus fiscal procedures and the possibility of race prejudice.

OHA executive director James Hanry said Miss Stromile "was terminated because of excessive cash shortages." He stressed that "we are not accusing her of theft."

Miss Stromile said white cashiers who have had shortages were not dismissed but instead were demoted or transferred.

She also accused Finance Director Robert Carstens of watching her job performance more closely than that of other cashiers.

Carstens said he tries to treat all employes in the same manner.

Norfolk Man Dies In Crash

Lincoln Star Special

Norfolk — A 54-year-old Norfolk man, John Szparage, was killed Friday morning when his car hit a bridge abutment a half mile north of Norfolk on a county road.

The accident occurred during a snowstorm.

Madison County Sheriff Marvin Adams said Szparage, alone in his car, was on his way to work at a steel mill.

Employes of a nearby firm saw the car and called authorities.

Investigating officers said the car hurtled some 49 feet through the air, struck the abutment and landed on its top on the ice of the Northfork River.

Sheriff Adams said Szparage, who had served in the Polish army in World War II, had spent three years in a Nazi German prisoner camp.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

2nd Psalm and Acts 4:25

Adam was 930 years old when he died. Noah, the tenth from Adam was 950 when he died. All the men in between them lived to be over 900 except two, one of whom just lacked five years of making it, but the other died rather early and only lived to be 777. However, one of these men by-passed the grave and never did die. His name was Enoch. He got to "walking with God" and after a sojourn of only 365 years on this earth, he and The Almighty walked off into Eternity where he is still "going strong" in "The land where we never grow old". Methuselah, who lived to be the oldest of those recorded, was the son of Enoch and died at 969. The next oldest who made it to 962, was the father of Enoch.

The following quote gives us some information about these mens' family life: "And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; an they took them wives of all which they chose. — There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown." Gen. 6:1-4.

Considering that these were mighty men, probably no weaklings, and that they lived to be over 900 years mostly, and considering how pretty the girls were, and considering that they could marry as many as they wanted, it is not surprising that some Bible students have estimated that there might have been four hundred and eighty BILLION (480 Billion — not million) men destroyed in the flood of Noah's day! ("And Gideon had three score and ten sons of his body begotten: for he had many wives." He lived at a time when the life of man had been cut to one hundred years, more or less. Hundreds of years later some of the kings did even better than Gideon in "increasing the population.) We are told that there are about two and one half billion people in the world today. To destroy them off the face of the earth would be a pretty small order in comparison with the job God did in the days of Noah! And we are told that men, and some of the worst of men — which might be us on account of the greater light we have had — now have the instruments and power in their hands to destroy life off the earth!

The following quote gives us some information as to the cause why God destroyed men in the days of Noah:

"The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted His way upon the earth. And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and, behold, I will destroy them with the earth." Gen. 6:11-13.

As God looks upon the 20th Century earth does He see any corruption and violence? "The corruptions of a society, recommended by common utility, and justified by universal practice, are viewed by its members without shame or horror; and Reformation never proceeds from themselves, but is always forced upon them by some foreign hand." Without "shame or horror" we allow men and women to go about in public in the "near nude". There is a "foreign hand" that has announced that he will bury us. We were told that even he looked with shame at some things he saw in Hollywood!

"Look to yourselves!" "Search The Scriptures" and consider the vows you took in joining The Church. "Pay your vows unto God, HIe has no pleasure in fools." A heathen is one who does not believe in The God of The Bible. Why does he rage? Because he does not like God and His ways of righteousness and holiness. In a generation that corrupts the ways of God on the earth there are none who feel need of and appreciates the work of the risen and living Christ in their hearts more than such as set themselves to literally obey God's Moral Law, His Ten Commandments. To fear The Lord and obey His Commandments is "The whole duty of man." Are you striving to do your duty?

Cracked Windshield Creates Emergency At 12,000 Feet

By H. L. HOFFMASTER
Star Staff Writer

"We were safe in Heilig's hands," Lincolnite Claud Hof said Friday morning . . . even when the windshield in the plane in which Hof was riding cracked at 12,000 feet over Grand Island in the season's worst snowstorm.

Three First National Lincoln officers were on board the Beechcraft King Air which took off from Lincoln Friday morning headed into a blizzard which was dumping inches of snow across the state, driven by winds up to 55 miles per hour.

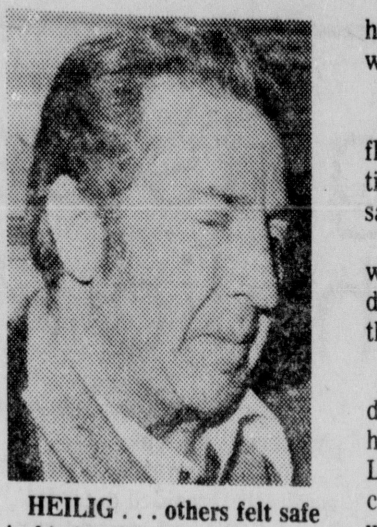
First National chief pilot Robert Heilig and copilot Bernadette Bauer were the crew.

Passengers were First National vice presidents Richard Emery and Charles Marquardt plus chief real estate officer Claud R. Hof.

Begin To Relax

They were heading for appointments at Scottsbluff, and at around 7:30 a.m. had just gotten to an altitude where they could begin to relax and have a cup of coffee.

They were destined not to have coffee until back in Lincoln and on the ground because over Grand Island the front windshield on the pilot's side cracked with a "loud pop," Heilig said.



HEILIG . . . others felt safe in his hands.

He flashed the "seat belt" sign to his passengers and 35 minutes of anxiety began.

Pressure began slipping and the crew prepared for the worst, fearing that the windshield would explode inward, perhaps injuring the crew, leaving the plane's interior open to the subzero temperatures made seriously intense by a 250 mile-per-hour speed and a suffocating blizzard.

The plan, by Heilig and Bauer, was to have the copilot (whose window was solid) get ready to take over the controls instantaneously.

But the glass on Heilig's side held and the crack never became wide enough to let any snow in.

'Very Dangerous'

The emergency 35-minute flight back to Lincoln was potentially "very dangerous," Heilig said.

Passengers, Marquardt said, were frightened at first "but we don't worry a lot with Heilig at the controls."

Some wives knew of the drama, but didn't know it was happening to their husbands. Lincoln radio station newscasts carried the story that a plane, with its windshield gone, was trying to land in the blizzard.

"My wife didn't want me to go anyway this morning," Hof said, but at least she was spared the agony of knowing what was going on.

First National Lincoln has been operating the Beechcraft airplane for six months. The plane has only 350 hours of air time and Federal Aviation Administration agents are checking to determine the cause of the windshield crack.

Heilig piloted the plane to a landing at Lincoln airport shortly after 8 a.m. Friday, and Emery kidded him: "That was as good a landing as you ever made."

Schools Closed By Hoax

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha public schools were caught in Friday's snowstorm by a hoax telephone call to Omaha radio stations which said schools had been called off for the day, Ralph Bradley, director of information for the district, said.

Bradley said the calls were made to radio stations shortly after 7 a.m. by a person who identified himself as Eugene Skinner. Skinner is assistant superintendent of schools for community relations.

It resulted in announcements that the public schools would not be open.

When Dr. Owen Knutzen, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Joe Hanna, associate superintendent, were contacted to confirm the closing, the hoax was discovered and attempts were made to counter the erroneous announcement, Bradley said.

He said the confusion which resulted did cause the closing of the shools shortly after 9 a.m.

"The school district deeply regreats the situation but had no control over the misinformation," Dr. Hanna said. "Long established procedures for the public announcement of school closings had not been followed in the newsrooms of some area radio stations."

Skinner said he had not made the call.

"I had no communication at all with the news media," he said.

Students who were already at school when the decision to close was made, were sent home, Bradley said. Teachers and staff were allowed to leave when all children had been accounted for.

'88 Blizzard Club Cancels Meeting

Leading the list of cancellations Friday, because of the blizzard, was the Blizzard of 1888 Club's annual meeting.

The club, formed by survivors of Nebraska's worst-ever snowstorm which hit on Jan. 12 in 1888, was scheduled to meet Saturday. The dinner has been rescheduled for next Saturday.

The organization, now kept going by a few original members plus descendants, meets each year to swap tales and commemorate the event. As many as 100 Nebraskans died that Jan. 12, and many of the victims were school children.

Meanwhile, in this year's first blizzard, government offices, schools, some retail stores, businesses and industries closed by noon, sent workers home, or maintained skeleton staffs.

Schools Close

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln closed all campus offices at noon, but maintained a skeleton staff until 4 p.m. for second semester general registration. Second semester classes began Monday.

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents postponed for one week all meetings it had scheduled for Friday and Saturday. The public meeting will be Saturday, Jan. 18, 10 a.m., in Regents Hall, 3835 Holdrege. On Friday, Jan. 17, regents' committees will meet beginning at 4 p.m. and the board will hold informal discussions at 8 p.m. Agenda items include an increase in room and board rates at University of Nebraska-Lincoln residents halls, the 1975 summer session's budget, a veterinary medicine training agreement, construction and purchase plans, staff salary increases and election of regents to 1975 board offices.

Kickoff Canceled

The kickoff for Nebraska International Women's Year was also canceled. It will now be held Saturday, Jan. 18, 10 a.m. at the Statehouse.

The State Board of Education did not cancel Friday afternoon's meeting and a few committees of the Legislature did meet.

Hotels and motels in and around Lincoln filled quickly Friday afternoon with snowbound industry and business employes plus stranded travelers.

By early evening, there were few motel rooms available. Even downtown hotels like the Hilton, Clayton House and the Cornhusker were at or near capacity.

Some firms reserved blocs of rooms for employes so they wouldn't have to struggle through the snow to get home.

Most industries closed at midday, but some kept a small staff for critical jobs.

Employes Go Home

Square D sent employes home at noon, Weaver's potato chip workers were sent home around 1 p.m. and the company kept trucks off the highways. Dorsey Labs closed at 1 p.m. and kept "just the guys who are waiting to see that everyone gets home all right," Goodyear kept a critical jobs staff on duty from 3 to 11 p.m. and plans to operate normally Saturday.

A survey of downtown retail stores at midafternoon found none open and the Gateway shopping center offices and stores were closed by early afternoon Friday.

Blizzard Defined

There was no doubt in anyone's mind that Lincoln was experiencing a blizzard, but just to be safe The Star checked with the National Weather Service to get the official definition.

According to forecaster Devore Silvey, a blizzard exists when the storm is expected to last three hours or more, wind speeds are 35 miles an hour or more, there is considerable falling or blowing snow and visibility frequently falls below one quarter of a mile.

Lincoln easily met all of those criteria.

HHH Won't Run

St. Paul, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says he will sign affidavits of noncandidacy in order to keep his name off presidential primary election ballots in 1976.

Neither Rain, Nor. . . How Did That Go?

"Neither rain, nor hail, nor sleet, nor snow shall stay these carriers from their appointed rounds."

In Omaha's case, that old saying became a myth Friday; and while Lincoln's mailmen weren't exactly stayed, they were slowed down.

Omaha Postmaster John P. Munnelly announced Friday afternoon that the Postal Service would make no further deliveries or collections of mail in Omaha Friday due to weather conditions.

Lincoln Postmaster Carl Moore said while service was minimal and late Friday, some mail was being delivered and collected.

However, Saturday's deliveries were likely to be very light, Moore said, because incoming mail to the Lincoln Post Office was being cut off by the snowstorm. Trucks that normally bring mail in were either stranded or never started out because of the storm.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

2nd Psalm and Acts 4:25

Adam was 930 years old when he died. Noah, the tenth from Adam was 950 when he died. All the men in between them lived to be over 900 except two, one of whom just lacked five years of making it, but the other died rather early and only lived to be 777. However, one of these men by-passed the grave and never did die. His name was Enoch. He got to "walking with God" and after a sojourn of only 365 years on this earth, he and The Almighty walked off into Eternity where he is still "going strong" in "The land where we never grow old". Methuselah, who lived to be the oldest of those recorded, was the son of Enoch and died at 969. The next oldest who made it to 962, was the father of Enoch.

The following quote gives us some information about these mens' family life: "And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; an they took them wives of all which they chose. — There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown." Gen. 6:1-4.

Considering that these were mighty men, probably no weaklings, and that they lived to be over 900 years mostly, and considering how pretty the girls were, and considering that they could marry as many as they wanted, it is not surprising that some Bible students have estimated that there might have been four hundred and eighty BILLION (480 Billion — not million) men destroyed in the flood of Noah's day! ("And Gideon had three score and ten sons of his body begotten: for he had many wives." He lived at a time when the life of man had been cut to one hundred years, more or less. Hundreds of years later some of the kings did even better than Gideon in "increasing the population.) We are told that there are about two and one half billion people in the world today. To destroy them off the face of the earth would be a pretty small order in comparison with the job God did in the days of Noah! And we are told that men, and some of the worst of men — which might be us on account of the greater light we have had — now have the instruments and power in their hands to destroy life off the earth!

The following quote gives us some information as to the cause why God destroyed men in the days of Noah:

"The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted His way upon the earth. And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and, behold, I will destroy them with the earth." Gen. 6:11-13.

As God looks upon the 20th Century earth does He see any corruption and violence? "The corruptions of a society, recommended by common utility, and justified by universal practice, are viewed by its members without shame or horror; and Reformation never proceeds from themselves, but is always forced upon them by some foreign hand." Without "shame or horror" we allow men and women to go about in public in the "near nude". There is a "foreign hand" that has announced that he will bury us. We were told that even he looked with shame at some things he saw in Hollywood!

"Look to yourselves!" "Search The Scriptures" and consider the vows you took in joining The Church. "Pay your vows unto God, HIe has no pleasure in fools." A heathen is one who does not believe in The God of The Bible. Why does he rage? Because he does not like God and His ways of righteousness and holiness. In a generation that corrupts the ways of God on the earth there are none who feel need of and appreciates the work of the risen and living Christ in their hearts more than such as set themselves to literally obey God's Moral Law, His Ten Commandments. To fear The Lord and obey His Commandments is "The whole duty of man." Are you striving to do your duty?

Woman Fights Back From Alcoholic Past

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Karen finally was coming down from a four-day binge.

The withdrawal had started. She vomited on and off for 14 hours. She lay on the living room floor trying to get hold of her senses. When she was able to stand, she paced the floor, then sat and cried her eyes out.

Karen is an alcoholic.

She reached out for help several times that weekend. But there was no caring hand to take hers. She kept getting the same response: "You got yourself into it, you have to get yourself out of it."

Finally, out of desperation, she called Alcoholics Anonymous. A voice answered: "My name is Johnny. Can I help you?"

"After two days of being turned down, someone cared," Karen (not her real name) recalled.

12-Year Drinker

That was 10 years ago. Until then, she had been tipping the bottle for 12 years.

She began going to AA meetings immediately after she finally found help that lost weekend.

And, except for one two-year period when she went off the wagon, she has been going ever since.

She discussed her experiences during an early morning interview at St. Monica's Home for Women. She once was a resident there; now she is an employe working to help other alcoholic women stay sober.

Karen took a sip of Coke, a commodity that has been with her since her periods of trauma ("I used it to withdraw," she said.) She lit another cigaret — then continued her story.

'Revolving Door'

"It's like a constantly revolving door," she said. "The more we drink the unhappier we get, so we drink more.

"It's so confusing for alcoholics to interpret their problems," she said. "They think they drink because of their problems but really have problems because they drink."

Karen was luckier than most. She managed to hold down full-time jobs while she was on the sauce, and lost only one job because of her drinking.

"Sure, I called in Mondays like everyone else did, and said I had the flu," she admitted.

The woman, now in her mid-40's, never has been married. She was, however, engaged four times. "It kept interfering with my drinking . . . and then kept interfering with my sobriety," she explained, noting that drinking and social life often go hand in hand.

She took her first drink just before her 21st birthday. "Ten months after my first drink, I had my first blackout," she said. "It lasted six hours . . . I had only had four bottles of beer."

When she came to her car was straddling the main line of the Rock Island Railroad track — reached only by driving off the road and through a pasture.

"I graduated very quickly from social drinking to problem drinking," she said.

When she was 24, a house burned down because she had carelessly discarded a cigaret. "From that time on I crawled into a bottle and stayed there," Karen said.

Her drinking caused her other problems — a beating in her own apartment, other automobile accidents, the alienation of her friends and family. "Whenever I drank, I got into trouble.

"It was terrible," Karen said. "I had about as low an opinion of myself as you can imagine.

Back in those days, Karen was a rare breed of alcoholic — she was a woman.

Then, few female alcoholics had come out of the closet. When she first started attending AA, only four women participated; now it's pretty well "half and half," she said.

'A Long Way'

"We've come a long ways in 10 years," she said. "I think a woman alcoholic still has a lot of stigma."

At first, the men, even those at AA, left the feeling that it's "okay for men to drink, but they saw a woman as wife, mother and daughter," and they weren't supposed to drink.

But now, many avenues have opened to women in general and the woman alcoholic in particular, Karen pointed out.

From birth women are taught different roles, she observed. "They are brought up to be submissive, to be taken care of. But when it comes to going for treatment, for the first time in her life she has to make those decisions.

'Treat Person'

"You can't just treat alcoholism, you have to treat the person," Karen said.

"It was almost as if it were another person," said Karen, recalling the years of loneliness and drinking.

Today she is able to say:

"I forgave her for what she did. I don't have to carry her guilts anymore."

Women Hide Their Habit Better Than Men

Most male alcoholics do their drinking out in public, openly bragging about their experiences, making themselves the butt of jokes.

But female alcoholics, still suffering the stigma of public disdain for the woman who overindulges, do their drinking at home.

And there are thousands, possibly millions who could be helped — if only families and friends would recognize the illness for what it is, would refrain from "sweeping them under the carpet," as one sober female alcoholic so aptly put it.

Since 1939, the increase in the proportion of women drinkers has been twice that for men, according to a recent Gallup Poll.

30% Of New Ones

And Alcoholics Anonymous has found that women account for 31% of AA's new members in the past three years.

Women now make up 28% of the group's membership, compared to 22% in 1968.

Many attribute the increase in women alcoholics' seeking treatment to the women's liberation movement which has succeeded in helping women secure jobs, especially professional and executive positions.

But others, including Pat Wall, director of St. Monica's Home for Women, think it's "because there are programs now that do not humiliate them, degrade them." The feminists were among those fighting" for treatment for women."

Admitting alcoholism has "always been humiliating for a woman, but is a mark of prestige for a man."

Now that "alcoholism is recognized as an illness, the treatment carries with it a sense of dignity and self-respect," Mrs. Wall added.

Sobering Up

About half of the nine women occupying St. Monica's at any one time are continuing the sobering up process following treatment.

"When I started working in the field of mental health in the 1950's, there was nothing in Lincoln for alcoholics and former nervous patients," Mrs. Wall said. But now, with the identification of alcoholism as an illness, plus the arrival of treatment programs, "women are conscious of their needs and that they can find help."

The women's movement has brought about changing lifestyles, she said. "Drinking is more acceptable and more women are free to drink — free of family ties, freer within the family to move about, more affluent."

And the world in general is more attractive to women these days, she said. "A woman needs something to give her world color if she is to quit drinking and stay sober."

More women are coming in for treatment, said Donna Sutton, director of Lincoln's Intake and Referral. "But in comparison to men, there really aren't that many.

'Women Hidden'

"I think there are as many women alcoholics as men but they're hidden," she added. "They hide this very well by drinking at home and allowing men to do the driving" when they are out, making identification of female alcoholics all the more difficult.

Only 9.4% of the total number of Lincolnites identified as alcoholics or problem drinkers are women, said Ron Dade of the Lincoln Council or Alcoholism and Drugs. He said Lincoln agencies identify an alcoholic by determining "if there is any continuing problem in any area of a person's life that is related to the use of alcohol."

"That figure is higher if you look at women in treatment," he observed.

Statistics comparing the number of men and women who have undergone treatment at Lincoln General Hospital's Chemical Dependency Unit were not available.

Fewer Arrests

One indicator of the fact that women alcoholics are "hidden" is the number of arrests made for public intoxication and driving while intoxicated (DWI).

From March through November, only 7% of the 1,484 persons arrested for DWI were females, Dade said. Nearly 50% of those were under 30.

Arrests for public intoxication repeated the disparity, he said. Of the 2,316 arrested, 7.7% were females — females of all ages, from 10 on up to 65 and over.

"Males put themselves in positions where they are more likely to be arrested," Dade concluded.

The bidding:

Opening lead — six of spades.

There is a vast difference between playing bridge looking at only the 13 cards you're dealt, and playing bridge looking at all four hands, as seen in a diagram.

It is surely fair and reasonable to hold a player responsible for what he should know under normal playing conditions, but not for the superior knowledge he could obtain from seeing all the hands.

Yet, in most deals, it is possible to bid and play as though all 52 cards are exposed. The sheer logic of the game often permits this to be done.

Consider this deal where South gets to three notrump after East opens the bidding with a heart. West leads a spade, won by East with the ace, and back comes a spade, won by South with the king. How should he proceed?

South can count eight sure tricks and must score a ninth before East-West can take the lead to defeat him with spades. It is plain to see that South's only real hope is to make four heart tricks instead of the obvious three.

Since East bid hearts, he is far more likely to have the jack than West. To cash the K-Q and expect the jack to fall is therefore a rather farfetched hope. But to find West with the singleton eight or nine of hearts is well within the realm of possibility.

Accordingly, South plays a low diamond to dummy's nine and returns the ten of hearts, planning to finesse if East follows low.

When East covers with the jack, South takes the king, on which West plays the eight. Declarer then returns to dummy with a diamond to the queen and leads the three of hearts. When East follows low, South finesses the seven! The finesse wins, as expected, and South now has his well-earned ninth trick.

Some People Have To Learn The Hard Way

DEAR ABBY: Our beautiful and intelligent 22-year-old daughter is ruining her life, and I am helpless to stop her.

She says she is in love with a married man who plans to divorce his wife and marry her.

Abby, the man is 53 (ten years older than her father!) and he has five children.

I rang up his wife and she said she had no idea that her husband was planning to divorce her. Then I called the man and he told me a different story.

I am so afraid my daughter will get mixed up in an ugly scandal. I can't talk any sense into her head. I thought I taught her right from wrong, but somewhere I must have failed. My daughter lives in an apartment with two other girls and she feels that just because she supports herself, she can live her own life without any interference from me. What can I do?

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A 22-year-old self-supporting woman can't be controlled by her mother or anyone else. If you taught her right from wrong, you haven't failed. SHE has. Some people have to learn life's lessons the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old married woman who has a very good marriage.

I've been reading a lot lately about the art of making love and was happy to learn that having fantasies during lovemaking is considered normal, because I fantasize a lot, and it sure helps.

My problem: My husband and I have always been completely honest with each other and I feel a little guilty about these fantasies because none of them includes him.

Should I tell him about my fantasies? I'm afraid he might ask me who the men in my fantasies are, and if I told him he would be very jealous of some of his best friends.

What should I do?

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: There's no need to feel guilty. You have a right to some privacy, which includes your fantasies. (P.S. Let me put it this way: Would YOU want to know who your husband imagines YOU are during your most intimate moments?)

DEAR ABBY: I would like to help "Little Guy" who wants information on "Little People of America." If he had called the Reference Department of any Public Library, he could have saved a lot of time.

Briefly, it was founded in 1957, has 2,000 members and is divided geographically into 12 districts.

Its members are persons of the proportionate or disproportionate dwarf types, and others 4 feet 11 inches or under; it includes children in these classifications, who are known as "Little Littles."

Purpose: To provide fellowship, interchange of ideas, solutions to common problems of little people, and to promote fair dealings and a better understanding between members and normal-sized people. Aids in exchange of information on housing, jobs, clothes, shoes, sports, education, etc.

Ballot Transfer Advice Sought

By The Associated Press

The Legislature's special committee on the Terry Carpenter challenge voted Friday to ask the attorney general's office to provide legal guidance on the issues the committee will face.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, the committee chairman, was authorized to arrange for the transportation of the 48th District election ballots from Scottsbluff to Lincoln. The motion approved by the committee instructed Warner to ask representatives of the attorney general's office to determine the safest method of transportation.

Warner said the committee would meet again when the requested material was available. He said he would call the next meeting soon. The committee is under a legislative mandate to report on the contested 48th District election by Jan. 23.

Time For Attorneys

The committee also decided to give attorneys for Carpenter and Sen. William Nichol an opportunity to prepare statements for the committee to outline arguments made in their petitions already on file with the clerk of the legislature.

The committee asked the clerk to turn over the petitions.

The committee designated the attorney general's office to serve as its legal counsel and Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas appointed Asst. Attys. Gen. Gary Schneider and Terry Schaaf to work with the committee.

Schaaf and Schneider were asked to prepare amendments to the usual rules of procedure to aid the committee in its study.

Carpenter contested the election after a recount by Secretary of State Allen Beermann overturned his three-vote lead and named Nichol the winner 2,546 to 2,478.

Write-In Campaign

Carpenter launched a write-in campaign for his old legislative seat after being defeated in the Democratic primary race for lieutenant governor.

Beermann disqualified a number of Carpenter's write-in votes, some because of spelling.

Carpenter has threatened to go to federal court if the Legislature refuses to seat him.

Nichol was seated by the Legislature Wednesday pending the outcome of the challenge.

At one point, Schaaf told the committee there may be some court precedents which "may be grounds for future (court) action, but may not be grounds" for the decision of the committee.

Carpenter and his supporters have often said their case lies with the right of the voter to have his vote counted whether he can spell or not.

Life Begins At Forty:

Persistence Most Important Trait

By ROBERT PETERSON

I copied the following inspirational message from a poster on the wall of a hospital laboratory recently. If any reader knows its origin I will be overjoyed to learn it:

"Press on. Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessful men with talent. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education will not; the world is full of educated derelicts. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent."

Those words have had a profound effect on my life. I hope you may find them as meaningful for yourselves.

☆ ☆ ☆

I've had letters recently from two women of 80, one from Camden, N.J. and one from Moorestown, N.J., and they both are living examples of the benefits of persistence. One writes columns for her paper; the other has collected humorous incidents that she remembers from her life into a volume called "Quaker Chuckles," which is being printed and will be sold to raise money to buy pull drapes for her church's dining room windows.

Another reader has written in asking where she can send the nicest of her Christmas cards for some group to use them. Any takers?

☆ ☆ ☆

In a recent column I said that a man of 70 stands on his head every day. Now I have evidence that there's a spry old fellow of 88 who stood on his head in a plane flying over the ocean on the way back to the United States from abroad. Is this a new record age for the head-stand? Does anyone besides me remember that Lawrence Tibbett, the opera baritone of the 1930s, was known to stand on his head before each of his performances to stir up his circulation?

For the benefit of all my readers who have dangerous allergies, such as the one to penicillin, I recommend the following: Write to the American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill. 60610. They will supply you with a card for your wallet on which to list the necessary medical information and will tell you where you can purchase a special bracelet that tells of your allergy. An alternative suggestion is to send a contribution to the nonprofit Medic-Alert Foundation, 1000 N. Palm Ave., Turlock, Calif., 95830. They will send you a medallion or bracelet identifying your allergy. It will have an identification number and the Medic-Alert phone number, which can be called by medical personnel who may be treating you, Medic-Alert will be able to give them pertinent facts about your allergy.

I am renewing my plea for readers for the blind. Those of you who live in large cities should check to see if there is a branch of Recordings for the Blind near you. If there is, go and audition. They need you. Elsewhere, call the aid-for-the-blind organization in your area and see if you can be someone's eyes a few hours a week during 1975.

The American Foundation for the Blind, 15 West 16th St., New York, N.Y., 10011, will be glad to give you information about volunteer opportunities to work with the blind near where you live. They also publish a valuable catalogue, "Aids and Appliances," which anyone with a blind relative or friend will find extremely useful.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Saturday

Cancer and Capricorn, once they get together, can have a long-lived relationship. These natives know the meaning of give and take, understand responsibility, are hardy enough to take some falls and get up again and withstand pressures. When Cancer and Capricorn marry — all other things being equal — the odds are that divorce statistics will suffer.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Business and other obligations are likely to be featured. Your basic procedures could be challenged. Key is to be responsible, to learn by doing, to gain from experience. What was to be a solid agreement will now be subject to revision, rebuilding and reviewing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Finish rather than initiate projects. Accent is on restrictions, desire to expand, basic health and work requirements. Find ways to get message across. One who sings blues merely wants you to assume obligations, debts. Know it and stand tall for your own rights.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). Hold off on speculative ventures. Protect your financial, personal security. Channel creative resources. Leo, Aquarius could figure prominently. A deal is in offing. Take cash and let credit go. Then you win!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may not feel as light as a feather. Key is to be thorough rather than flashy. Accent is on legal maneuvers, agreements, commitments. Property arrangement is not the best — work toward revising it.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): Comedy relief proves welcome. There has been tension. Now you can realize foibles — of others and yourself. Strive to diversify, to be versatile, to reach beyond what was an imposed limitation. Gemini and Sagittarius figure in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Impulse could lead to actions which are costly. One who makes claims to your affection may be reluctant to put up or shut up. Know it and protect yourself in clinches. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio may be featured.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be prepared for change, travel, variety. Play detective. Investigate and analyze. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions — discern motives. Money situation will be resolved — by circumstances.

SCORPIO (Oct 23-Nov. 21): Be cautious where travel, change enter picture. Conservative course now would be appropriate. Taurus, Libra are likely to be involved. Family member offers advice — it probably is sincere but likely to be erroneous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22-Dec 21): Money, investments, policies, taxes and inventory — these areas are highlighted. Avoid tendency to put on rose-colored glasses. Key is to see as is, not merely as you wish situations, individuals might be. Piscean may show the way.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan. 19): You are tested, given chance to prove theories and yourself. Older individual backs words with actions. You could be major beneficiary. Another Capricorn — and a Cancer — are likely to be spotlighted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb 18) Tread lightly — refuse to chide, push or cajole. You get chance to improve your image, to make amends to those who feel you slighted them. Key now is to get to bottom line. Don't attempt to fool others — or yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Creative resources surge forward. Have courage of convictions. You do know what is right, despite asides from those of little faith — or talent. One who presses you on money matter should be tolerated, not taken seriously.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, a good teacher and you have instinct for what people want and when they want it. January and October are key months for you in 1975. Aquarius, Leo and Cancer persons play important roles in your life. You are loyal and many take advantage of you. They don't get away with it too often, however!

Star Carrier Frank Wampole

Frank Wampole

Benefits Listed

Frank Wampole's two-year career as a carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star has brought him a new radio, a large number of records, and model cars, and a host of new friends.

Frank's route covers the north side of Lexington where he is known for his early and efficient service and friendly personality. "Frank has done a fine job on the route — he gives good service and pays his bills on time," says supervisor Bob Rena.

A student at Lexington Junior High School, Frank plans to attend college and become a police officer some day.

In his spare time, Frank likes to build model cars and keep track of his favorite football team the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers and quarterback Dave Humm.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wampole, feel that the paper route has helped their son to meet people and taught him to handle money wisely while Frank says he likes both the work and the benefits of his business venture.

Rules To Allow Female Deputies Are Considered

Omaha (UPI) — Lyle Remde, chairman of the Douglas County sheriff's merit commission, said Friday regulations were being considered which would make it possible for women to be deputies.

A number of other changes were also being studied by the commission, Remde said, to conform with state and federal law.

Sheriff Ted Janing said the proposed changes won't result in any female deputies for at least a year because there are no openings.

He Just Sought Bus

Dad . . . Mother . . . his girl friend . . . someone dropped him a line! It brought a smile, a bit of nostalgia, a new incentive to succeed.

Those first weeks away at college mean quite a transition. New surroundings, new friends, new subjects are only a small part of the experience. New freedoms and new responsibilities are the crucial areas of this adjustment.

If he were your boy you would remember this, and keep those letters coming . . . even if he hasn't much time to answer.

And if he were your boy you would be mighty glad you reared him in a Christian home, and went with him to church, and saw to it he had moral and religious training, and an earnest faith.

For letters can be a life-line with home . . . but they cannot provide what Home and Church must provide first.

Star Carrier Frank Wampole

Frank Wampole

Benefits Listed

Frank Wampole's two-year career as a carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star has brought him a new radio, a large number of records, and model cars, and a host of new friends.

Frank's route covers the north side of Lexington where he is known for his early and efficient service and friendly personality. "Frank has done a fine job on the route — he gives good service and pays his bills on time," says supervisor Bob Rena.

A student at Lexington Junior High School, Frank plans to attend college and become a police officer some day.

In his spare time, Frank likes to build model cars and keep track of his favorite football team the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers and quarterback Dave Humm.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wampole, feel that the paper route has helped their son to meet people and taught him to handle money wisely while Frank says he likes both the work and the benefits of his business venture.

Rules To Allow Female Deputies Are Considered

Omaha (UPI) — Lyle Remde, chairman of the Douglas County sheriff's merit commission, said Friday regulations were being considered which would make it possible for women to be deputies.

A number of other changes were also being studied by the commission, Remde said, to conform with state and federal law.

Sheriff Ted Janing said the proposed changes won't result in any female deputies for at least a year because there are no openings.

Dad . . . Mother . . . his girl friend . . . someone dropped him a line! It brought a smile, a bit of nostalgia, a new incentive to succeed.

Those first weeks away at college mean quite a transition. New surroundings, new friends, new subjects are only a small part of the experience. New freedoms and new responsibilities are the crucial areas of this adjustment.

If he were your boy you would remember this, and keep those letters coming . . . even if he hasn't much time to answer.

And if he were your boy you would be mighty glad you reared him in a Christian home, and went with him to church, and saw to it he had moral and religious training, and an earnest faith.

For letters can be a life-line with home . . . but they cannot provide what Home and Church must provide first.

Bill Promises Controls On Irrigation Drilling

By The Associated Press

The legislature's Public Works Committee has introduced its promised bill which would regulate the drilling of irrigation wells in critical areas.

The bill allows the director of the Department of Water Resources to declare underground water supplies in areas of the state "critical" and allows the director to accept or reject applications for new wells in those areas.

The director is allowed to declare areas critical if:

—Ground water levels are declining or have declined excessively.

—Conflicts between water users are occuring or may occur.

—Water is or could be wasted.

—Or "conditions exist or may arise that require regulation for the protection of the public interest."

Before declaring an area critical, the director must publish notices and hold a public hearing.

After an area has been declared critical, the local Natural Resource District can:

—Stop further irrigation well drilling. This ruling can be appealed to the director of the Department of Water Resources.

—Determine the amount of water which should be withdrawn from the ground and allocate the water among the well owners.

—Require a system of rotation for pumping in the area.

—Institute well spacing requirements.

Actions of the director of the Department of Water Resources of Natural Resource Districts could be contested in district court.

After Jan. 1, 1976, anyone drilling an irrigation well would have to apply to the natural resource district for a permit.

Stock and household wells are exempted from the permit system.

Permits are to be issued for all wells in noncritical areas "if the proposed use is beneficial and if the district finds that the proposed means of construction and diversion are adequate." If the permit is denied by the natural resource district, it would automatically go to the director of the Department of Water Resources for further review.

Applications for well drilling in areas which have been designated as critical go directly to a hearing before the director. The bill, LB101, is identical to a bill which died last year without action by the legislature. Although last year's bill was controversial, legislators said the drought and dropping water tables have increased support for the measure.

Sen. Harris To Run

Washington (AP) — Former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma plans to announce in Concord, N.H., Saturday his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

$13 Million Reservoir Is Planned

Holdrege, (UPI) — The Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District plans to start construction this fall on the proposed $13 million Elwood reservoir to be located adjacent to Johnson Lake in Gosper County.

A district spokesman said the construction was made possible through a $10 million Bureau of Reclamation loan.

The reservoir will hold approximately 50,000 acre feet of water over about 1,300 acres of land.

The district spokesman said the reservoir will be devoted to irrigation since the water level will fluctuate considerably, limiting recreational aspects.

The spokesman said the district has a goal of serving 42,000 acres with irrigation when the reservoir is completed. The system now serves 33,700 acres.

No Appeal On Ruling

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Attorney Ephriam Marks has announced that there will be no appeal of the decision of Douglas County District Court Judge John E. Murphy on the 84th St. tunnel situation.

Murphy dismissed a suit Dec. 31 brought by Marks in behalf of four clients. The suit had asked that the Union Pacific railroad be forced to pay most or all costs of a construction project to widen the tunnel.

The Judge said the county could legally require the railroad to remove the wooden trestle and dirt fill from above the 66-feet of county right of way along 84th St.

However, he said that action would allow for only a four-lane width and if the county later decided to widen the street to six lanes it would be possible that the county would have to condemn railroad land. He said that could result in greater cost to the county than if it proceeded with the project itself.

In a press release, Marks said one of the main reasons for the decision not to appeal was to avoid further delay in action on the problem. "There should now be no excuse for the county board and the Union Pacific failing to cooperate to build the bridge promptly," he said.

"A sad and ironical fact in this lawsuit" Marks said, "is that under Judge Murphy's decision it is quite clear that had the county board filed the lawsuit as we requested them to do, it is probable that Union Pacific would have been required to bear a substantial portion of the construction costs. As it stands now, that burden will fall completely upon the taxpayers."

In the suit brought by Marks, the county was named as a defendant because the county board had decided to use federal and local financing for the project. Also named in the suit was an Omaha architectural firm which had received payment from the county for work on construction plans.

Stock Prices Move Up; Volume High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market saluted falling interest rates and the prospect of a tax cut with a broad and vigorous rally Friday in the heaviest trading in three months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 13.53 to 658.79 to finish the week with a gain of 24.25 points.

The closely followed indicator has risen 56.63 in the last two weeks.

Advances overwhelmed declines 1,417 to 191 among the 1,853 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume, at 25.89 million shares, was the largest total since Oct. 10, when 26.36 million were traded, and the seventh biggest ever.

The pace was particularly rapid in the first hour as the market made its initial response to news that President Ford had tentatively decided to propose a $15 billion cut in personal income taxes.

Such a step was unanimously endorsed by the President's 16-member labor-management advisory committee, which also suggested a number of other moves aimed at stimulating the recession-ridden economy.

Meanwhile, several banks posted prime rate reductions in the wake of recent moves by the Federal Reserve away from the tight money policy it pursued for most of last year.

Three of the nation's biggest banks—California's Bank of America and New York's First National City and Bankers Trust—lowered the key rate on loans to large corporations to 10 per cent.

The common thread in all these developments was the suggestion that the government, in both its fiscal and its monetary policies, was moving emphatically to try to bring about an economic recovery.

The suggestion of a tax cut sparked gains in a wide range of consumer goods and services issues.

'75 Won't Be Good; But Not A Disaster

Omaha (UPI) — While 1975 probably won't be a good one economically, it should not be a disastrous year, Dr. Wallace Peterson, head of the University of Nebraska Economics Dept., said here.

"This is still an enormously productive land," Peterson told 65 members of the Nebraska Association of Purchasing Management. "If we can turn the economy around and start producing again, the recession will soon end."

He warned, however, that it would take time to get the economy going again and said one sure way of achieving that would be for the administration to cut taxes.

"It's no longer a question of cutting taxes; but a question of how much and when," Peterson declared. He said he advocated a cut in income and Social Security taxes, at least for lower-income groups.

"This will add to the federal deficit but the government is in the red already and if unemployment and the recession are not curbed soon, we will be much deeper in the red," Peterson said.

He said the administration has been "too timid" in meeting current problems but added "timidity is understandable in light of the danger of starting inflationary pressures all over again."

Peterson said he sees "some hope" for the present recession and inflationary period bottoming out "perhaps by mid-year," with a somewhat stronger economy to follow for the second half of 1975.

Westinghouse Given Unit Contract

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Public Power District directors have awarded a $45.3 million contract to the Westinghouse Electric Corp. for fabricating nine fuel reloads for the second Fort Calhoun nuclear unit.

The board also accepted a recommendation made by a previous board to let stand another contract with Westinghouse totaling $64 million.

That contract is for the nuclear steam supply system and first load of fuel for the second nuclear unit.

If the Unicameral passes the legislation, the unit will be co-owned by OPPD and the Nebraska Public Power District and other utilities in Nebraska. The unit is expected to cost about $772 million.

Pan Am Denies Deal With Iran

LONDON (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. said Friday that Iran will buy four Concorde supersonic airliners, built by Britain and France, and lease them to Pan American World Airways.

A Pan Am spokesman in New York denied the report. "I don't know who the BBC is talking to, but there is no such arrangement," the spokesman said.

Bill Promises Controls On Irrigation Drilling

By The Associated Press

The legislature's Public Works Committee has introduced its promised bill which would regulate the drilling of irrigation wells in critical areas.

The bill allows the director of the Department of Water Resources to declare underground water supplies in areas of the state "critical" and allows the director to accept or reject applications for new wells in those areas.

The director is allowed to declare areas critical if:

—Ground water levels are declining or have declined excessively.

—Conflicts between water users are occuring or may occur.

—Water is or could be wasted.

—Or "conditions exist or may arise that require regulation for the protection of the public interest."

Before declaring an area critical, the director must publish notices and hold a public hearing.

After an area has been declared critical, the local Natural Resource District can:

—Stop further irrigation well drilling. This ruling can be appealed to the director of the Department of Water Resources.

—Determine the amount of water which should be withdrawn from the ground and allocate the water among the well owners.

—Require a system of rotation for pumping in the area.

—Institute well spacing requirements.

Actions of the director of the Department of Water Resources of Natural Resource Districts could be contested in district court.

After Jan. 1, 1976, anyone drilling an irrigation well would have to apply to the natural resource district for a permit.

Stock and household wells are exempted from the permit system.

Permits are to be issued for all wells in noncritical areas "if the proposed use is beneficial and if the district finds that the proposed means of construction and diversion are adequate." If the permit is denied by the natural resource district, it would automatically go to the director of the Department of Water Resources for further review.

Applications for well drilling in areas which have been designated as critical go directly to a hearing before the director. The bill, LB101, is identical to a bill which died last year without action by the legislature. Although last year's bill was controversial, legislators said the drought and dropping water tables have increased support for the measure.

Sen. Harris To Run

Washington (AP) — Former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma plans to announce in Concord, N.H., Saturday his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

$13 Million Reservoir Is Planned

Holdrege, (UPI) — The Central Nebraska Public Power and Irrigation District plans to start construction this fall on the proposed $13 million Elwood reservoir to be located adjacent to Johnson Lake in Gosper County.

A district spokesman said the construction was made possible through a $10 million Bureau of Reclamation loan.

The reservoir will hold approximately 50,000 acre feet of water over about 1,300 acres of land.

The district spokesman said the reservoir will be devoted to irrigation since the water level will fluctuate considerably, limiting recreational aspects.

The spokesman said the district has a goal of serving 42,000 acres with irrigation when the reservoir is completed. The system now serves 33,700 acres.

No Appeal On Ruling

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Attorney Ephriam Marks has announced that there will be no appeal of the decision of Douglas County District Court Judge John E. Murphy on the 84th St. tunnel situation.

Murphy dismissed a suit Dec. 31 brought by Marks in behalf of four clients. The suit had asked that the Union Pacific railroad be forced to pay most or all costs of a construction project to widen the tunnel.

The Judge said the county could legally require the railroad to remove the wooden trestle and dirt fill from above the 66-feet of county right of way along 84th St.

However, he said that action would allow for only a four-lane width and if the county later decided to widen the street to six lanes it would be possible that the county would have to condemn railroad land. He said that could result in greater cost to the county than if it proceeded with the project itself.

In a press release, Marks said one of the main reasons for the decision not to appeal was to avoid further delay in action on the problem. "There should now be no excuse for the county board and the Union Pacific failing to cooperate to build the bridge promptly," he said.

"A sad and ironical fact in this lawsuit" Marks said, "is that under Judge Murphy's decision it is quite clear that had the county board filed the lawsuit as we requested them to do, it is probable that Union Pacific would have been required to bear a substantial portion of the construction costs. As it stands now, that burden will fall completely upon the taxpayers."

In the suit brought by Marks, the county was named as a defendant because the county board had decided to use federal and local financing for the project. Also named in the suit was an Omaha architectural firm which had received payment from the county for work on construction plans.

Westinghouse Given Unit Contract

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Public Power District directors have awarded a $45.3 million contract to the Westinghouse Electric Corp. for fabricating nine fuel reloads for the second Fort Calhoun nuclear unit.

The board also accepted a recommendation made by a previous board to let stand another contract with Westinghouse totaling $64 million.

That contract is for the nuclear steam supply system and first load of fuel for the second nuclear unit.

If the Unicameral passes the legislation, the unit will be co-owned by OPPD and the Nebraska Public Power District and other utilities in Nebraska. The unit is expected to cost about $772 million.

Stock Prices Move Up; Volume High

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market saluted falling interest rates and the prospect of a tax cut with a broad and vigorous rally Friday in the heaviest trading in three months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 13.53 to 658.79 to finish the week with a gain of 24.25 points.

The closely followed indicator has risen 56.63 in the last two weeks.

Advances overwhelmed declines 1,417 to 191 among the 1,853 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume, at 25.89 million shares, was the largest total since Oct. 10, when 26.36 million were traded, and the seventh biggest ever.

The pace was particularly rapid in the first hour as the market made its initial response to news that President Ford had tentatively decided to propose a $15 billion cut in personal income taxes.

Such a step was unanimously endorsed by the President's 16-member labor -management advisory committee, which also suggested a number of other moves aimed at stimulating the recession-ridden economy.

Meanwhile, several banks posted prime rate reductions in the wake of recent moves by the Federal Reserve away from the tight money policy it pursued for most of last year.

Three of the nation's biggest banks—California's Bank of America and New York's First National City and Bankers Trust—lowered the key rate on loans to large corporations to 10 per cent.

The common thread in all these developments was the suggestion that the government, in both its fiscal and its monetary policies, was moving emphatically to try to bring about an economic recovery.

The suggestion of a tax cut sparked gains in a wide range of consumer goods and services issues.

'75 Won't Be Good; But Not A Disaster

Omaha (UPI) — While 1975 probably won't be a good one economically, it should not be a disastrous year, Dr. Wallace Peterson, head of the University of Nebraska Economics Dept., said here.

"This is still an enormously productive land," Peterson told 65 members of the Nebraska Association of Purchasing Management. "If we can turn the economy around and start producing again, the recession will soon end."

He warned, however, that it would take time to get the economy going again and said one sure way of achieving that would be for the administration to cut taxes.

"It's no longer a question of cutting taxes, but a question of how much and when," Peterson declared. He said he advocated a cut in income and Social Security taxes, at least for lower-income groups.

"This will add to the federal deficit but the government is in the red already and if unemployment and the recession are not curbed soon, we will be much deeper in the red," Peterson said.

He said the administration has been "too timid" in meeting current problems but added "timidity is understandable in light of the danger of starting inflationary pressures all over again."

Peterson said he sees "some hope" for the present recession and inflationary period bottoming out "perhaps by mid-year," with a somewhat stronger economy to follow for the second half of 1975.

Barrow, Gilt Prices Lower

Omaha (AP) — Barrows and gilts were steady to 50 lower and mostly 25 to 50 lower on the Omaha market Friday. The top was 40.00. Sows under 450 lbs. were steady to 75 lower and over 450 lbs. 25-50 higher. The top was 35.25.

The weather had a distinct effect on trade as the slaughter supply was mainly cows and not enough to establish a trend. Feeder cattle were consigned to auction postponed until Monday.

There were no sheep.

Pan Am Denies Deal With Iran

LONDON (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. said Friday that Iran will buy four Concorde supersonic airliners, built by Britain and France, and lease them to Pan American World Airways.

A Pan Am spokesman in New York denied the report. "I don't know who the BBC is talking to, but there is no such arrangement," the spokesman said.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 1-11

Steeler Defense Dealt Blow With White Back In Hospital

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steeler defense, the best in the National Football League this season, suffered a stunning blow Friday when end Dwight White was forced back into the hospital with severe chest pains.

White, who doubled over with stomach and back pains at dinner Sunday night, was at first hospitalized for what was to be one night. But his pains did not subside and he remained in the hospital until Thursday.

He was released from the hospital and worked out with the club Thursday afternoon, confidently predicting he would be ready for Sunday's Super Bowl showdown against the Minnesota Vikings despite a 10-pound weight loss. But he was stricken again during the night and team physician Dr. John Best immediately ordered him back into Baptist Hospital.

Steeler Coach Chuck Noll said Friday it was very doubtful if White would be available for the title game Sunday.

White, a 6-4, 255-pound All-Conference selection last year, is one of the premier pass rushers in the NFL. He will be replaced by Steve Furness, a third-year utilityman from the University of Rhode Island.

Bud Grant

Furness is considered the equal of White as far as strength, being the same size, but is not quite as quick.

"They came in and told me at about 8 o'clock this morning," Noll said. "They came into my room and told me Dwight was in pain. They had called the doctor during the night and he decided to put him back in.

"The pain had dissipated and the infection had seemed to clear up but it just all came back Thursday night. I would have to say he's very doubtful for Sunday."

Noll, however, didn't seem too dismayed at the prospect of using Furness.

"Steve has played one full game for us at tackle when Ernie Holmes was injured and a good part of another," Noll said.

Dwight White

"Dwight had a great deal of experience and was a great contributor to the success of our defensive line. He's a great pass rusher and plays the run well. Steve is less experienced but he is still a good football player. He plays both the pass and the rush well. We've got complete confidence in him."

Viking Coach Bud Grant reported his club to be in good condition, 'especially the main question mark, left tackle Charles Goodrum. Goodrum pulled a leg muscle on Tuesday and at first it was feared he would not play.

"Goodrum worked out with us for the last two days and I'd say he's at about 90 per cent efficiency," Grant said. "He should be okay for Sunday. I would imagine he'll start."

Chuck Noll

Grant also said veteran center Mick Tingelhoff was suffering no after-effects from an ankle sprain sustained Thursday.

"Nick twisted his ankle a little bit," Grant explained. "It's a big game so we took him off the field and put some ice on it. He's a little embarrassed about all the attention after all these years."

Noll and Grant met with the press for the final day before their title showdown Sunday. Both teams worked out on the artificial turf of Tulane Stadium, site of Sunday's game, and will practice there again Saturday.

Miller Opens Huge Margin

PHOENIX (AP) — Johnny Miller all but destroyed the hopes of any challengers with a stunning 10-under-par 61 that enabled the 1974 Player of the Year to open a gaping sixstroke lead Friday in the-second round of the $150,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Miller, the defending champion in this opening event on the pro tour and winner of seven other American titles last year, entered the chilly day's play in a three-way tie for the top with six other players just one shot back.

But he left the pack gasping and shaking their heads in wonder when he scored an eagle-three on the first hole, then steadily stretched the advantage with almost errorless play. He finished two rounds at 128, 12-under-par over the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

His 61 was within one stroke of the all-time record round on the PGA tour His six-stroke lead after two rounds matched the biggest in the past two years. His 128 total was the best in two seasons and was within two strokes of the all-time tour record.

"After I made birdie on the 16th, I thought maybe I could shoot in the 50s," Miller said. "That's kind of a goal of mine now—to shoot in the 50s."

It's never been done on the PGA tour.

But Miller, who once before had a 61 on this same layout, came close.

He threw his irons close to the hole.

He scored on a 50-foot putt. Twice he holed it from off the green.

Mike Hill had the unfortunate experience of shooting 63—an absolutely fantastic score in itself—and losing ground. He was alone in second at 134, eight under par and good enough to lead most tournaments.

"If I shoot 63 and somebody is good enough to lead me by six shots, I guess I can't complain," Hill said.

Dick Lotz, with a 68, and Roy Pace, 69, followed at 137. The group at 138 included Jim Ahern, Gene Littler and the two men who shared the first-round lead with Miller, John Mahaffey and Leonard Thompson. Ahern had a 69, Littler 67 and Mahaffey and Thompson took 71s.

U. S. Open champ Hale Irwin had 70-145. PGA king Lee Trevino was 70-143. Tom Weiskopf had a 72 and failed to qualify for the final two rounds at 147.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing.

Miller needed only 23 putts in his stunning effort that produced three deuces, an eagle three and five other birdies.

"Sometimes," mused Miller, "I wonder if I'm for real."

He left the rest of the field wondering the same thing.

He started with an 18-foot putt from off the green that gave him an eagle on the first hole. He birdied the fourth after a nine-iron shot stopped two feet from the hole. He chipped in from 20 yards for a birdie on the next hole and ran in a 50-foot putt on the eighth. That put him out in 31.

He went to six under par for the day on the 10th hole, punching an eight-iron to within a foot of the cup. A beautiful one-iron shot set up a birdie two on the 13th and he needed only a five-foot putt for his third deuce of the day, this on the 15th.

Miller birdied the 16th from 15 feet and was thinking of a score in the 50s. It wasn't to be. He made par on the 17th and birdied 18 from 30 inches.

"It's a lot of fun and I think it's a lot of fun for the gallery too—but I don't know what the PGA thinks of all those birdies," Miller said.

Phoenix, Ariz. — Golfer Jim Ahern of Norfolk was tied for fourth place here after Friday's second round of the $150,000 Phoenix Open Tournament. He had a 69-69—138 to tie three other golfers (John Mahaffey, Gene Littler and Len Thompson) for fourth. 10 strokes behind leader Johnny Miller.

North Expected Victors In 26th Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — The North is expected to win the 26th annual Senior Bowl Saturday on the strong throwing arm of Steve Bartkowski.

In a game where passing is usually the key because there just isn't enough time to refine a running attack, a quarterback like Bartkowski, the University of California All-America who threw for more than 2,500 yards this past fall, should be the favorite's edge.

Bartkowski, a late bloomer on the college circuit, is one of the top prizes in this year's Senior Bowl grab bag —a bag containing 62 of the nation's top college seniors making their "unofficial" pro debuts.

Senior Bowl players become "pros" because each member of the winning team gets $1,500 cash and the losers get $1,250. That's why this game doesn't have the sanction of the NCAA.

The weather forecast for Saturday's nationally televised (NBC, 1 p.m. EST) game called for partly cloudy skies, temperature in the mid 50s and a brisk wind blowing in from Mobile Bay.

The crowd will include many NFL coaches and scouts who want one last look at the cream of the college crop (in preparation for the draft later this month) before hustling down the road to New Orleans for Sunday's Super Bowl game.

"It really makes it convenient," said New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks, "when the Senior Bowl and Super Bowl are so close together in both time and distance."

Dave Humm

There are 18 alumni of the Senior Bowl playing in the Super Bowl, 12 of them with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw was named the outstanding player in the 1970 Senior Bowl and runningback Chuck Foreman of the Minnesota Vikings was named the outstanding player in the 1973 Senior Bowl.

"There's no doubt about it," said North Coach John Ralston of the Denver Broncos. "The Senior Bowl does an outstanding job, year after year, of coming up with a lot of pro prospects."

Statistics back Ralston's statement. Thirty-seven of last year's Senior Bowlers made NFL squads as rookies and there were a total of 237 former Senior Bowlers playing in the NFL this past season.

Bartkowski will be spelled Saturday by Nebraska quarterback David Humm. The South will start Bob Avellini of Maryland at quarterback and likely use quarterback Fred Solomon of Tampa, who rushed for 1,300 yards and 19 touchdowns, at a runningback post at times.

According to the scouts, the top runner in Saturday's game should be 208-pounder Walter Payton of Jackson (Miss.) State. Payton didn't get the attention given to some of the backs from bigger schools, but he holds the NCAA record for scoring with 464 points and 66 touchdowns during his four-year career.

The North will have Jim Germany of New Mexico State, Andy Jones of Washington State, and Mike Esposito of Boston College as running backs. Payton will be joined by Don Hardeman of Texas A&I and Brad Davis of LSU in the South backfield.

The South holds a 14-9-2 edge in Senior Bowl play. The North won last year, 16-13, on a pass from David Jaynes of Kansas to Lynn Swann of Southern Cal with 26 seconds left to play.

NFL Appeals Ruling Given In Kapp's Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Friday that the National Football League has appealed the recent decision in the Joe Kapp case and suggested the league may base its ultimate thrust on the scope of the judge's ruling.

Kapp, a journeyman quarterback, played for several NFL teams in the 1960s but eventually refused to sign a standard players' contract, saying it was illegal because it restricted his freedom and sued the NFL.

Last month, U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert ruled in Kapp's favor, calling certain portions of the contract illegal and making similar judgments regarding the "Rozelle Rule" and portions of the league's college draft. Under the Rozelle rule, a team must compensate another club when it signs a player who has played out his option with the first club.

"Since the decision was handed down by the San Francisco court last month," Rozelle said at a news conference for Super Bowl media, "we've been going through a process wherein Kapp's attorneys proposed to the court an order that the court must draw up to implement the decision. Last Monday, we filed opposition with the court to the formal order that had been recommended by Kapp's attorneys.

"We also, at the same time, made a request . . . that we be permitted to immediately take the case for appeal to the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals on the West Coast. If he grants this accelerated form of appeal," Rozelle said, "it would immediately be appealed to the 9th Circuit. If he does not, it might be necessary to have a rather lengthy and costly trial to determine possible damages before the decision could be appealed.

"So nothing can be done until the judge submits his final order on implementing the decision and we would anticipate that would come out in the next few weeks."

Rozelle said that, until a final decision is made and all appeals have been exhausted, the NFL plans no changes in its contracts or the draft process. But he did acknowledge that, "I do feel that this decision could certainly restrict productive collective bargaining we might have" between the NFL Players Association and the NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining agent.

The players struck unsuccessfully last year over many of the points covered in the Kapp ruling.

He said the NFL was surprised by the extent of Sweigert's decision "because the draft, the option compensation and many other things touched upon in the decision were not issues in the Kapp case itself," and said it appeared the judge's "personal philosophy would seem to permeate the decision . . . his decision said a lot of things and it was in our attorneys' opinion that it was more an expression of his philosophy. They were surprised, obviously, that he would come down with that on such a limited record, with no trial.

"The Flood case (Curt Flood's suit against major league baseball) had a complete trial, an opportunity to go into how these things contracts actually worked, not just how they read on paper."

Rozelle said the NFL attorneys are therefore contemplating appeals based on the scope of the decision and the so-called-philosophy without a very careful review of the limited record in the case.

The commissioner said he believed that, with college football, the NFL and the struggling World Football League, the public might have been oversaturated with the sport on television last year.

Strikes To Halt Olympic Games In Montreal?

MONTREAL (AP) — International Olympic officials are not considering removing the 1976 Summer Games from strike-plagued Montreal, organizing officials said here Friday. Despite that, there were persistent reports across Europe that the Games would not be held here.

The wealthy West German city of Duesseldorf said Friday it had offered to hold the Summer Games if Montreal can't, and that country's largest newspaper said the Shah of Iran had offered his country as a site.

Across Canada and Europe there was every indication that a six-week-old strike by iron workers which has stopped work on the $380 million main stadium in Montreal has given officials great worry as to whether the Canadian city can be ready to host the Games.

But on Friday, Roger Rousseau, president of the Montreal organizing committee, said he had talked several times during the day with Lord Killanin, who is president of the International Olympic Committee, and had been assured there was no move being considered to take the Games away from Montreal.

Killanin was attending IOC meetings in Amsterdam Friday and was widely rumored to be preparing a statement on the status of the 1976 Summer Games. Rousseau said Killanin assured him there were no plans to send investigators to Canada to see if Montreal would be able to get the needed facilities ready in time.

A spokesman for the Montreal organizing committee said Killanin had decided to remain in constant communication with local officials until the Montreal situaton returns to normal.

The situation became abnormal on Nov. 27 when 1,200 iron workers went on strike. Earlier this week that strike forced a complete shutdown of construction of the $380 million facility which will serve as the main stadium for the 1976 Olympics and also house the swim hall.

The iron workers, seeking a $1 an hour cost of living increase, voted Thursday night to continue their strike. Next Tuesday the Quebec national assembly is to meet to consider special legislation that would get the strikers back to work. The decision for that session came after a provincial labor minister said two days ago that if the strike was not settled in a week, the Montreal Games might have to be cancelled.

And that set off speculation across Europe.

West Germany's largest circulation newspaper, Bild Zeitung, said under the banner headline, "Olympica 76 in Teheran? — Shah Saves the Games," that the oil-rich Shah of Iran had offered his country as a substitute site.

There was no comment from Iranian officials, but the newspaper said, "Teheran is the only city in the world which could accommodate the Games in the 18 months left to Olympia."

And hours later, Hans-Edmund Landwers, deputy mayor of Duesseldorf, told The Associated Press he had offered his city to the German National Olympic Committee and had asked that the IOC be informed of Duesseldorf's serious proposal to hold the Games.

Landwers said Duesseldorf, a city of more than 700,000, and the surrounding Ruhr industrial area, was an ideal place for the Games. Modern sports facilities already exist there which would reduce the normally astronomical costs for hosting the Olympics.

Landwers said there was nothing lacking in the Ruhr area that was needed for Olympic competition. The densely populated region lies in the northwestern section of Germany and is in effect a large metropolitan area with scarcely a break between one city and the next.

Rooney Discounts Legend; Paid Cash For Steeler Franchise

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — What's been said for years is not true, insists crusty Art Rooney, Sr.—he didn't win the Pittsburgh football franchise at Saratoga Race Track.

"I paid $2,500 for it in 1933," the 73-year-old Steelers owner said Friday. "It was all good cash, but I can understand how the report got started.

"I was big around the race tracks in those days, even though I had a hand in some semi-pro football."

After 42 years of frustration and patience, the snow-haired son of a Pittsburgh saloon keeper has brought his Steelers to the brink of their first National Football League championship. They will face the Minnesota Vikings in Sunday's Super Bowl IX.

The colorful football and race track enterpreneur, wearing a checkered cap, strolled into Super Bowl press headquarters and took bug-eyed newsmen on a fascinating stroll down memory lane.

"I was at Saratoga one day, sitting with Bill Corum (the late Bill Corum, columnist of the now defunct New York Journal American)," Rooney recalled. "I had a big day. Then a story came out and said I had broken the books.

"The Hearst newspaper assigned a man to follow me around the race tracks and take note of all my bets. I kept cleaning up but also had some off days.

"I asked this fellow why he was still sticking around. He said, 'Nobody is interested in the dead ones — I am going to keep you alive. I like this job.'

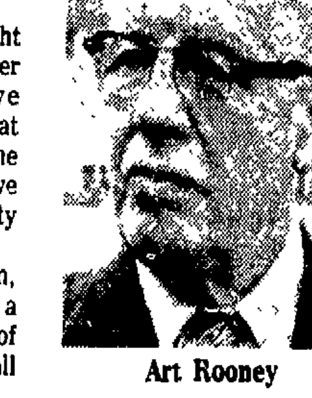
"That's how the story got started."

The early days of big time football weren't fancy hotels, big contracts and affluent living, he recalled.

"Players got $150 to $200 a game — sometimes," he said. "We stayed in the cheapest hotels we could find, paying about $2 a day. We sneaked around the corner to eat hamburgers.

"The situation was so tight that when we went to another city to play a game we demanded that we get paid at halftime or we wouldn't play the second half. If we didn't, we might be left holding an empty bag."

Of the current Steelers team, Rooney said that he had a premonition from the start of this season that it wold go all the way.



Art Rooney

"Everybody in our town feels we are going to win," he added. "We have lost so long and the frustrations have been so many that there were times I thought we would never make it."

"We have lost so long and the frustrations havvve been so many that there were times I thought we would never make it."

The Pittsburgh owner who has brought hundreds of fans and friends here to enjoy his biggest moment in sports, said he cannot fully enjoy his success because of his sympathy for long time friends on other clubs who didn't make it.

"I think of George Halas (Chicago Bears) and Wellington Mara (New York Giants) especially," he said, "Of course, they had their good years, better than we had. I know how they must feel with losing ball clubs now. I appreciate their frustration."

Running down the list of coaches and players whom he shepherded for decades, Rooney cited Jock Sutherland as one of the great coaches—"We might have won if Jock hadn't died"—and labelled Bill Dudley the best all-around player he ever saw.

"Dudley led the league in rushing and he was so good on defense the other clubs would never throw in his area—he also could kick," he added.

Of Whizzer White, the current Supreme Court justice for whom he paid the then unheard-of salary of $15,800 a year, Rooney said:

"I always figured Whizzer was going to amount to something. On road trips he always had his face stuck in a book. And they weren't comic books, either."

Steeler Defense Dealt Blow With White Back In Hospital

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steeler defense, the best in the National Football League this season, suffered a stunning blow Friday when end Dwight White was forced back into the hospital with severe chest pains.

White, who doubled over with stomach and back pains at dinner Sunday night, was at first hospitalized for what was to be one night. But his pains did not subside and he remained in the hospital until Thursday.

He was released from the hospital and worked out with the club Thursday afternoon, confidently predicting he would be ready for Sunday's Super Bowl showdown against the Minnesota Vikings despite a 10-pound weight loss. But he was stricken again during the night and team physician Dr. John Best immediately ordered him back into Baptist Hospital.

Steeler Coach Chuck Noll said Friday it was very doubtful if White would be available for the title game Sunday.

White, a 6-4, 255-pound All-Conference selection last year, is one of the premier pass rushers in the NFL. He will be replaced by Steve Furness, a third-year utilityman from the University of Rhode Island.

Furness is considered the equal of White as far as strength, being the same size, but is not quite as quick.

Bud Grant

"They came in and told me at about 8 o'clock this morning," Noll said. "They came into my room and told me Dwight was in pain. They had called the doctor during the night and he decided to put him back in.

"The pain had dissipated and the infection had seemed to clear up but it just all came back Thursday night. I would have to say he's very doubtful for Sunday."

Noll, however, didn't seem too dismayed at the prospect of using Furness.

"Steve has played one full game for us at tackle when Ernie Holmes was injured and a good part of another," Noll said.

Dwight White

"Dwight had a great deal of experience and was a great contributor to the success of our defensive line. He's a great pass rusher and plays the run well. Steve is less experienced but he is still a good football player. He plays both the pass and the rush well. We've got complete confidence in him."

Viking Coach Bud Grant reported his club to be in good condition, especially the main question mark, left tackle Charles Goodrum. Goodrum pulled a leg muscle on Tuesday and at first it was feared he would not play.

"Goodrum worked out with us for the last two days and I'd say he's at about 90 per cent efficiency," Grant said. "He should be okay for Sunday. I would imagine he'll start."

Grant also said veteran center Mick Tingelhoff was suffering no after-effects from an ankle sprain sustained Thursday.

"Nick twisted his ankle a little bit," Grant explained. "It's a big game so we took him off the field and put some ice on it. He's a little embarrassed about all the attention after all these years."

Noll and Grant met with the press for the final day before their title showdown Sunday. Both teams worked out on the artificial turf of Tulane Stadium, site of Sunday's game, and will practice there again Saturday.

NFL Appeals Ruling Given In Kapp's Case

The iron workers, seeking a $1 an hour cost of living increase, voted Thursday night to continue their strike. Next Tuesday the Quebec national assembly is to meet to consider special legislation that would get the strikers back to work. The decision for that session came after a provincial labor minister said two days ago that if the strike was not settled in a week, the Montreal Games might have to be cancelled.

And that set off speculation across Europe.

West Germany's largest circulation newspaper, Bild Zeitung, said under the banner headline, "Olympica 76 in Teheran? — Shah Saves the Games," that the oil-rich Shah of Iran had offered his country as a substitute site.

There was no comment from Iranian officials, but the newspaper said, "Teheran is the only city in the world which could accommodate the Games in the 18 months left to Olympia."

And hours later, Hans-Edmund Landwers, deputy mayor of Duesseldorf, told The Associated Press he had offered his city to the German National Olympic Committee and had asked that the IOC be informed of Duesseldorf's serious proposal to hold the Games.

Landwers said Duesseldorf, a city of more than 700,000, and the surrounding Ruhr industrial area, was an ideal place for the Games. Modern sports facilities already exist there which would reduce the normally astronomical costs for hosting the Olympics.

Landwers said there was nothing lacking in the Ruhr area that was needed for Olympic competition. The densely populated region lies in the northwestern section of Germany and is in effect a large metropolitan area with scarcely a break between one city and the next.

Rooney Discounts Legend; Paid Cash For Steeler Franchise

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — What's been said for years is not true, insists crusty Art Rooney, Sr.—he didn't win the Pittsburgh football franchise at Saratoga Race Track.

"I paid $2,500 for it in 1933," the 73-year-old Steelers owner said Friday. "It was all good cash, but I can understand how the report got started.

"I was big around the race tracks in those days, even though I had a hand in some semi-pro football."

After 42 years of frustration and patience, the snow-haired son of a Pittsburgh saloon keeper has brought his Steelers to the brink of their first National Football League championship. They will face the Minnesota Vikings in Sunday's Super Bowl IX.

The colorful football and race track enterpreneur, wearing a checkered cap, strolled into Super Bowl press headquarters and took bug-eyed newsmen on a fascinating stroll down memory lane.

"I was at Saratoga one day, sitting with Bill Corum (the late Bill Corum, columnist of the now defunct New York Journal American)," Rooney recalled. "I had a big day. Then a story came out and said I had broken the books.

"The Hearst newspaper assigned a man to follow me around the race tracks and take note of all my bets. I kept cleaning up but also had some off days.

"I asked this fellow why he was still sticking around. He said, 'Nobody is interested in the dead ones — I am going to keep you alive. I like this job.'

"That's how the story got started."

The early days of big time football weren't fancy hotels, big contracts and affluent living, he recalled.

"Players got $150 to $200 a game — sometimes," he said. "We stayed in the cheapest hotels we could find, paying about $2 a day. We sneaked around the corner to eat hamburgers.

"The situation was so tight that when we went to another city to play a game we demanded that we get paid at halftime or we wouldn't play the second half. If we didn't, we might be left holding an empty bag."

Of the current Steelers team, Rooney said that he had a premonition from the start of this season that it wold go all the way.

Art Rooney

"Everybody in our town feels we are going to win," he added. "We have lost so long and the frustrations have been so many that there were times I thought we would never make it."

"We have lost so long and the frustrations havvve been so many that there were times I thought we would never make it."

The Pittsburgh owner who has brought hundreds of fans and friends here to enjoy his biggest moment in sports, said he cannot fully enjoy his success because of his sympathy for long time friends on other clubs who didn't make it.

"I think of George Halas (Chicago Bears) and Wellington Mara (New York Giants) especially," he said, "Of course, they had their good years, better than we had. I know how they must feel with losing ball clubs now. I appreciate their frustration."

Running down the list of coaches and players whom he shepherded for decades, Rooney cited Jock Sutherland as one of the great coaches—"We might have won if Jock hadn't died"—and labelled Bill Dudley the best all-around player he ever saw.

"Dudley led the league in rushing and he was so good on defense the other clubs would never throw in his area—he also could kick," he added.

Of Whizzer White, the current Supreme Court justice for whom he paid the then unheard-of salary of $15,800 a year, Rooney said:

"I always figured Whizzer was going to amount to something. On road trips he always had his face stuck in a book. And they weren't comic books, either."

Morning Briefing

A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

At least eight, and perhaps more than a dozen National Football League teams lost money in the just-completed season, according to a Washington newspaper.

Minnesota Viking linebacker Wally Hilgenberg was forced to leave practice Friday because of a 24-hour virus. Viking head coach Bud Grant said he expected Hilgenberg to be back in shape for Sunday's Super Bowl game.

Vince Gibson, newly named coach at the University of Louisville, has completed his football staff by adding Larry Travis as offensive line coach and Jim Weatherford as defensive backfield coach.

University of Oklahoma head football coach Barry Switzer was given a $4,000 raise by University regents. His new salary will be $30,000 a year.

The Green Bay Packers named Jim Colbert, defensive coordinator for the World Football League's Portland Storm last year, as their new special teams' coach.

The Atlanta Falcons' defensive backfield coach, Fred Bruney, was named defensive coordinator by head coach Marion Campbell.

John Konstantinos, an assistant at North Carolina State, was named head football coach at Eastern Illinois University.

Bernie Ulman, an official with 12 years experience, was named as the referee for Sunday's Super Bowl game.

Louisiana Tech has been granted major college football status by the NCAA.

A final check of Iowa State offensive football records shows numerous records broken by the 1974 squad. Tailback Mike Strachan set marks for career rushing yards (3,011) and most career rushes (729) while placekicker Tom Goedjen set records for most career points, most extra points (199) most field goals (40, a Big 8 mark), most career extra points (79) and most field goals in one game (tie four against Oklahoma State).

Joe Namath's future with the New York Jets was the subject of a 90-minute conference Friday between his attorney, Jimmy Walsh and the Jets' owner, Phil Iselin. A spokesman said the two decided to continue negotiations next week.

BASKETBALL

A mistrial was declared Friday in the five-day-old trial of a breach-of-contract suit filed after coach Bill Sharman left the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association and joined the Los Angeles Lakers. The case must now be reassigned.

The San Diego Conquistadors are being sued for $114,443 by a printer who says the American Basketball Association Club has owed that much since 1973.

Larry Fogle, the nation's top collegiate scorer last season, asked Friday to be reinstated to the Canisius College basketball team from which he was dismissed Thursday. His coach turned him down.

Speculation is premature that the American Basketball Association Memphis Sounds are about to disband, the head of the club said in an interview.

BASEBALL

The Cincinnati chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, has picked Joe Morgan as the most valuable player for the Cincinnati Reds for 1974.

Hank Aaron, the newest Milwaukee Brewer, will be in Milwaukee on Monday in his first Milwaukee appearance since he became the all-time home run leader.

OTHER SPORTS

Montreal remains "the best solution," but Munich would be "one of the worst" as host city to the 1976 Olympic Games, general Secretary Walter Troeger of West Germany's National Olympic Committee.

Former rodeo champion Casey Tibbs remains in serious but stable condition with broken ribs and a collapsed lung after being dragged and kicked by a horse.

Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., set both scoring and earnings records on the 1974 Professional Bowlers' Association tour, the PBA said Friday.

John Newcombe beat Jun Kuki of Japan, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3 Friday and gave Australia a 1-0 lead over Japan in the best-of-five Eastern Zone Davis Cup tennis semifinal match.

Chile jumped into a commanding 2-0 lead over Brazil Friday in the South American Zone Davis Cup playoffs by capturing the first two singles matches without the loss of a set.

Argentina's Carlos Reutemann unofficially established the municipal racetrack lap record Friday by rounding the 3.7-mile track in Buenos Aires in one minute 49.9 seconds in trials for Sunday's Argentine Grand Prix.

Muhammad Ali has agreed conditionally to defend his heavyweight boxing title on March 24 against Chuck Wepner in Cleveland, but a fight with Ron Lyle is still in the picture, his manager said.

Jackie Tonawanda handed the New York State Athletic Commission a show cause order Friday directing the agency to explain why she can't be the first woman licensed to box professionally in New York.

Austria's amazing Annemarie Proell flashed to victory Friday in the Grindelwald Downhill ski race and took a decisive stride towards capturing the women's cup for the fifth straight year.

Norway's Erich Haker turned in the fastest practice time Friday on the eve of the men's World Cup downhill classic on Mt. Lauberhorn in Wengen, Switzerland.

City Tilts Halted

Heavy snow, which swept the Capital City Friday morning, has altered four scheduled Friday night basketball games involving Lincoln teams.

The intracity Southeast-Lincoln High basketball game scheduled for Friday night has been postponed. A rescheduled date will be announced later.

Friday's scheduled Northeast at Hastings Trans-Nebraska Conference game has been tentatively rescheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 11.

The Pius X at Lexington nonconference game scheduled for Friday has been canceled unless the two schools "can get together on a date," according to Pius X athletic director Vince Aldrich.

Also scratched was the Kearney at East High School game. That tilt has been rescheduled for Feb. 8.

Saturday's three games scheduled in Lincoln — Omaha Central v. Lincoln High at Johnson Gym, Omaha Burke at East and Omaha Benson v. Northeast at Nebraska Wesleyan's Ira Taylor Gym — will be played unless weather conditions worsen.

The Millard Invitational Wrestling meet, which was to have included the Lincoln Northeast squad, has been postponed until further notice.

JFK Hosts Tourney

Omaha (AP) — Teams from Canada, Mexico, The Republic of China and Nebraska will participate in the Women's International Basketball Tournament in Omaha Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Representing Nebraska will be the John F. Kennedy College Patriettes.

However John F. Kennedy will be without part-time starter Mary Gallup, who has been lost to the team because of knee surgery in Oklahoma City.

A number of activities are scheduled in connection with the tournament, including a free throw contest and queen contest.

The Canadian entry is from the University of Winnipeg, the Chinese entry is the Cathay Life Co. team.

Vikings To Stay Alone

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Sex or no sex—that was the question Friday.

The opposing Super Bowl IX coaches, Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings, took contrasting positions on the status of players' wives Saturday night before Sunday's National Football League title showdown.

Grant said the Vikings would be allowed out with their wives Friday night but would remain alone the night before the game. Noll, who usually takes his team to a hotel before all games, said he will allow the Steeler wives to stay with the players Saturday night.

"The wives will not stay with the players Saturday night," Grant said. "I don't consider them a hazard or anything of that nature. I feel they have tonight (Friday) off and they can do what they want. The wives will stay in a separate hotel.

"On Saturday we'll undergo our regular routine. We will have a meeting late in the day and I expect all the players to remain at the hotel. If they want to see their wives between meeting breaks, that's fine but I don't want them around after the final meeting."

Noll said he thought it might be beneficial for his players to have their wives with them before their first Super Bowl game ever.

"Anytime you upset your diet or change your routine, it hurts your performance," he explained. "I remember once I was with a club that thought it had concocted the perfect pregame meal. All the players and coaches drank it but during the game a lot of players just ran off the field into the bathroom. Their systems just weren't ready for the change.

"Besides, the wives have suffered through the bad times with us and they should be around for the glory, too. They took a lot of abuse when we were losing and they deserve to be here when we're playing for the world championship."

Noll's theory may come from an experience in Super Bowl III. He was an assistant with the Baltimore Colts when then Head Coach Don Shula refused to allow the players to be with their wives prior to the game. Weeb Ewbank, coach of the rival New York Jets, insisted it would be safer to have his players with their wives rather than running around Miami and the Jets went out the next day and pulled off a 16-7 upset victory despite entering the game as 18-point underdogs.

Grade School Games Off

The grade school basketball program for boys and girls (3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grades) sponsored by the City Recreation Department Saturday mornings, has been canceled this weekend because of the snow.

Marinaro May Play For Other NFL Team

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ed Marinaro, the former Cornell running back who was upset when the Heisman Trophy went to someone else three years ago, says he'll either be playing more for the Minnesota Vikings next season or he'll play for some other National Football League team.

"I'm not saying 'play me or trade me,' because I'd like to stay in the Vikings organization," he said.

"If I was a second-year player, I wouldn't be panicking but I'm finishing my third year, and I feel like a player should be doing something by his fourth year."

Marinaro signed a three-year contract with the Vikings. Next season is his option year. He plays behind Chuck Foreman, the Vikings' standout running back. Following Marinaro's senior season at Cornell—a year in which he was the nation's premier collegiate rusher—Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan was awarded the Heisman trophy. Marinaro said he thought he deserved the award.

"I didn't say I was robbed. A lot of other people said that," Marinaro said, "Anyway, that's so long ago, and all of that seems so remote.

"Maybe, if I'd had more success in professional football, the college stuff would mean more to me. I could say, that's where it all started.

"But right now, I'm embarrassed by all the trophies when I go home and look at them.

"The Heisman meant a lot to me at the time, but now it doesn't. At the time, it was an ego thing. I wanted the recognition. Now, I just want to play more."

He wouldn't compare his abilities with those of Foreman.

"Chuck does some things that I don't, and I do things that he doesn't. He has more speed than I have, for one thing."

He said he doesn't think his quest for a starting berth will take him to the World Football League. "I don't look at the WFL as authentic. Really, I'd like to stay right here. We're going to be tough—really tough—for at least five or six more years. I'd like to be a part of that.

"But there comes a time when you have to start thinking about yourself".

Filly, Colt Receive Top Billing

New York (AP) — Ruffian, the unbeaten 2-year-old filly champion of 1974, and Foolish Pleasure, who was the undefeated leader of the juvenile males, are the top weights in the Jockey Club Experimental Handicap released Friday.

Kenneth Noe Jr., who assigned the weights, gave Foolish Pleasure 127 pounds and Ruffian 122. But Ruffian's five-pound sex allowance makes her equal on the scale with Foolish Pleasure.

L'Enjoleur was next at 125, followed by Circle Home and George Navorod at 124 each.

The Experimental is an annual theoretical handicap of the previous year's 2-year-olds.

A total of 158 new 3-year-olds are listed in the 1975 Experimental, the 41st running of the event.

Ruffian, a home-bred owned by Locust Hill Farm, won all five of her 1974 starts before she suffered a hairline fracture of a bone in her right hind foot. She has apparently recovered and is expected back to the races during the winter.

The big filly won her maiden race and then scored four stakes victories. She equaled a Belmont Park track record of 1:03 for 5½ furlongs in winning her debut and equaled that time in capturing the Fashion. She then won the 5½-furlong Astoria at Aqueduct in 1:02 3-5, the six-furlong Sorority in 1:09 and the six-furlong Spinaway in 1:08 3-5. Her margin of victory in the Sorority was 2¼ lengths. It was from 6¾ to 15 lengths in her other races.

Foolish Pleasure, a $20,000 yearling purchase by John Greer, won his maiden race and then before stopping for the year he won a division of the Dover, the Tremont, Sapling, a division of the Hopeful, the Cowdin and the Champagne. He beat What A Sketch by a neck in the Tremont after being bumped in the stretch run. He was a comfortable winner in his other efforts.

Jean-Louis Levesque's Canadian-bred L'Enjoleur won eight of 15 starts. Six victories were Canadian stakes and the other was inthe Laurel Futurity.

Circle Home, owned by John M. Olin, won the Kentucky Jockey Club and the Heritage, while Navonod Stable's George Navonod won the Cabrillo, DeAnza, Sunny Slop and Norfolk.

Others weighted included Frank McMahon's Delmar Futurity winner Diabolo, 123; Roland Aristone's World's Playground victor Bombay Duck, 122; John Balpredo's DiMaggio, the Hollywood Juvenile winner, 121; and W. P. Gilbride's Greek Answer, winner of the Arlington-Washington Futurity; Oak Crest Stable's Our Talisman, first in the Saratoga Special; and Sigmund Sommer's Sanford winner Ramahorn, 120 each.

Liquori Triumphs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Veteran miler Marty Liquori of the New York Athletic Club took the lead 1½ laps from the finish and won his speciality in the National Invitational Indoor Track Meet Friday night.

His time was a meet-record 3 minutes, 57.7 seconds.

With a record crowd of 11,721 cheering the competitors in the first major U. S. invitational meet of the indoor season, the former Villanova star rallied from fifth place in the six-man field.

Steve Prefontaine, who withdrew from the two-mile run and agreed to face Liquori after Tony Waldrop dropped out of the mile, overtook Bruce Fisher, who led at the three-quarter mark.

But Liquori was close on he heels of Prefontaine, who was representing the Oregon Track Club, and passed him to take a five-yard advantage entering the gun lap.

Prefontaine's time was 3:58.5 and Fisher, from the University of Chicago Track Club, finished in 4:00.1 on the 11-lap track.

Liquori, the 1974 meet winner in 4:01.2, snapped the meet record of 3:59.4 set in 1972 by, Kip Keino of Kenya. Waldrop holds the world indoor mark of 3:55.

Larry Shipp, a junior at Louisiana State and a native of nearby Washington, D. C., won the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.0, edging 31-year-old Willie Davenport, a three-time winner of the event.

Steve Riddick, a senior at Norfolk State and representing the Philadelphia Pioneers, won the 60-yard dash in 6.0, with Hasely Crawford of Eastern Michigan second and high school junior Houston McTear third.

McTear, from Baker, Fla., was one of three runners timed in 5.9 seconds, tying the meet record, in one of the heats. The other two were Willie Smith of Auburn and Steve Williams, who was competing unattached.

Al Feurerbach defended his championship in the shot put with a toss of 69 feet, 2¼ inches. George Woods, a teammate of Feurerbach's on the Pacific Coast Club team and the world indoor record holder, finished third.

Other winners included Rick Wohlhuter of the University of Chicago Track Club in the 880-yard run at 1:48.9; Angel Doyle of the Ambler Olympic Club in the women's 60-yard dash, 6.7, and Debbie LaPlante of Eastern Michigan, with a 7.8-second clocking in the 60-yard hurdles.

Storm Delays Knights' Tilt

Dallas (AP) — The Central Hockey League game for Friday night between Omaha and Fort Worth was postponed because of bad weather.

The Fort Worth team was unable to reach Omaha from Kansas City because the Omaha Airport was closed most of the day because of a blizzard, the league headquarters reported. Highway patrol officers warned against attempting to drive to Omaha by bus.

Omaha management said the game was a sellout.

Sooners To Get AP's Trophy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Herschel Nissenson, the Associated Press' collegiate sports editor from New York, will present the national football championship trophy to the University of Oklahoma at a banquet here Jan. 16.

OU coach Barry Switzer and his 150-member Sooner squad will be the special guests at the $25-a-plate dinner at the Myriad, the city's convention center.

Oklahoma was voted the nation's top college football team of 1974 in the final poll conducted by The Associated Press.

A meet the players reception will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Former Oklahoma head coach Bud Wilkinson, who was the Sooner coach when OU won its last national championship in 1956, will be the featured speaker.

76ers Top Kings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fred Carter scored 35 points, helping the Philadelphia 76ers surge to a 25-point first-period lead and a 102-94 victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings Friday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The victory was the fifth in the last eight games for Philadelphia, while the Kings suffered their sixth loss in the last seven.

Carter scored 12 points in the opening period as the 76ers built a 36-11 lead. It was 36-15 at the end of the quarter.

The Kings, who trailed 56-43 at the end of the half, rallied in the third period to cut Philadelphia's margin to 76-70, and trailed by only eight as the final quarter started.

In the fourth period, with the 76ers ahead 91-76, the Kings ran off 10 consecutive points to trail by only five. Carter, however, dumped in a layup and a long one-hander to give Philadelphia some breathing room.

Steve Mix, just named to the NBA All-Star team, hit for 21 points to help Carter in the Philadelphia scoring. Nate Williams topped the Kings with 20, while Nate Archibald and Larry McNeill each collected 17.

A Sports Roundup

FOOTBALL

At least eight, and perhaps more than a dozen National Football League teams lost money in the just-completed season, according to a Washington newspaper.

Minnesota Viking linebacker Wally Hilgenberg was forced to leave practice Friday because of a 24-hour virus. Viking head coach Bud Grant said he expected Hilgenberg to be back in shape for Sunday's Super Bowl game.

Vince Gibson, newly named coach at the University of Louisville, has completed his football staff by adding Larry Travis as offensive line coach and Jim Weatherford as defensive backfield coach.

University of Oklahoma head football coach Barry Switzer was given a $4,000 raise by University regents. His new salary will be $30,000 a year.

The Green Bay Packers named Jim Colbert, defensive coordinator for the World Football League's Portland Storm last year, as their new special teams' coach.

The Atlanta Falcons' defensive backfield coach, Fred Bruney, was named defensive coordinator by head coach Marion Campbell.

John Konstantinos, an assistant at North Carolina State, was named head football coach at Eastern Illinois University.

Bernie Ulman, an official with 12 years experience, was named as the referee for Sunday's Super Bowl game.

Louisiana Tech has been granted major college football status by the NCAA.

A final check of Iowa State offensive football records shows numerous records broken by the 1974 squad. Tailback Mike Strachan set marks for career rushing yards (3,011) and most career rushes (729) while placekicker Tom Goedjen set records for most career points, most extra points (199) most field goals (40, a Big 8 mark), most career extra points (79) and most field goals in one game (tie four against Oklahoma State).

Joe Namath's future with the New York Jets was the subject of a 90-minute conference Friday between his attorney, Jimmy Walsh and the Jets' owner, Phil Iselin. A spokesman said the two decided to continue negotiations next week.

BASKETBALL

A mistrial was declared Friday in the five-day-old trial of a breach-of-contract suit filed after coach Bill Sharman left the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association and joined the Los Angeles Lakers. The case must now be reassigned.

The San Diego Conquistadors are being sued for $114,443 by a printer who says the American Basketball Association Club has owed that much since 1973.

Larry Fogle, the nation's top collegiate scorer last season, asked Friday to be reinstated to the Canisius College basketball team from which he was dismissed Thursday. His coach turned him down.

Speculation is premature that the American Basketball Association Memphis Sounds are about to disband, the head of the club said in an interview.

BASEBALL

The Cincinnati chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, has picked Joe Morgan as the most valuable player for the Cincinnati Reds for 1974.

Hank Aaron, the newest Milwaukee Brewer, will be in Milwaukee on Monday in his first Milwaukee appearance since he became the all-time home run leader.

OTHER SPORTS

Montreal remains "the best solution," but Munich would be "one of the worst" as host city to the 1976 Olympic Games, general Secretary Walter Troeger of West Germany's National Olympic Committee.

Former rodeo champion Casey Tibbs remains in serious but stable condition with broken ribs and a collapsed lung after being dragged and kicked by a horse.

Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., set both scoring and earnings records on the 1974 Professional Bowlers' Association tour, the PBA said Friday.

John Newcombe beat Jun Kuki of Japan, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3 Friday and gave Australia a 1-0 lead over Japan in the best-of-five Eastern Zone Davis Cup tennis semifinal match.

Chile jumped into a commanding 2-0 lead over Brazil Friday in the South American Zone Davis Cup playoffs by capturing the first two singles matches without the loss of a set.

Argentina's Carlos Reutemann unofficially established the municipal racetrack lap record Friday by rounding the 3.7-mile track in Buenos Aires in one minute 49.9 seconds in trials for Sunday's Argentine Grand Prix.

Muhammad Ali has agreed conditionally to defend his heavyweight boxing title on March 24 against Chuck Wepner in Cleveland, but a fight with Ron Lyle is still in the picture, his manager said.

Jackie Tonawanda handed the New York State Athletic Commission a show cause order Friday directing the agency to explain why she can't be the first woman licensed to box professionally in New York.

Austria's amazing Annemarie Proell flashed to victory Friday in the Grindelwald Downhill ski race and took a decisive stride towards capturing the women's cup for the fifth straight year.

Norway's Erich Haker turned in the fastest practice time Friday on the eve of the men's World Cup downhill classic on Mt. Lauberhorn in Wengen, Switzerland.

City Tilts Halted

Heavy snow, which swept the Capital City Friday morning, has altered four scheduled Friday night basketball games involving Lincoln teams.

The intracity Southeast-Lincoln High basketball game scheduled for Friday night has been postponed. A rescheduled date will be announced later.

Friday's scheduled Northeast at Hastings Trans-Nebraska Conference game has been tentatively rescheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 11.

The Pius X at Lexington nonconference game scheduled for Friday has been canceled unless the two schools "can get together on a date," according to Pius X athletic director Vince Aldrich.

Also scratched was the Kearney at East High School game. That tilt has been rescheduled for Feb. 8.

Saturday's three games scheduled in Lincoln — Omaha Central v. Lincoln High at Johnson Gym, Omaha Burke at East and Omaha Benson v. Northeast at Nebraska Wesleyan's Ira Taylor Gym — will be played unless weather conditions worsen.

The Millard Invitational Wrestling meet, which was to have included the Lincoln Northeast squad, has been postponed until further notice.

JFK Hosts Tourney

Omaha (AP) — Teams from Canada, Mexico, The Republic of China and Nebraska will participate in the Women's International Basketball Tournament in Omaha Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Representing Nebraska will be the John F. Kennedy College Patriettes.

However John F. Kennedy will be without part-time starter Mary Gallup, who has been lost to the team because of knee surgery in Oklahoma City.

A number of activities are scheduled in connection with the tournament, including a free throw contest and queen contest.

The Canadian entry is from the University of Winnipeg, the Chinese entry is the Cathay Life Co. team.

Vikings To Stay Alone

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Sex or no sex—that was the question Friday.

The opposing Super Bowl IX coaches, Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings, took contrasting positions on the status of players' wives Saturday night before Sunday's National Football League title showdown.

Grant said the Vikings would be allowed out with their wives Friday night but would remain alone the night before the game. Noll, who usually takes his team to a hotel before all games, said he will allow the Steeler wives to stay with the players Saturday night.

"The wives will not stay with the players Saturday night," Grant said. "I don't consider them a hazard or anything of that nature. I feel they have tonight (Friday) off and they can do what they want. The wives will stay in a separate hotel.

"On Saturday we'll undergo our regular routine. We will have a meeting late in the day and I expect all the players to remain at the hotel. If they want to see their wives between meeting breaks, that's fine but I don't want them around after the final meeting."

Noll said he thought it might be beneficial for his players to have their wives with them before their first Super Bowl game ever.

"Anytime you upset your diet or change your routine, it hurts your performance," he explained. "I remember once I was with a club that thought it had concocted the perfect pregame meal. All the players and coaches drank it but during the game a lot of players just ran off the field into the bathroom. Their systems just weren't ready for the change.

"Besides, the wives have suffered through the bad times with us and they should be around for the glory, too. They took a lot of abuse when we were losing and they deserve to be here when we're playing for the world championship."

Noll's theory may come from an experience in Super Bowl III. He was an assistant with the Baltimore Colts when then Head Coach Don Shula refused to allow the players to be with their wives prior to the game. Weeb Ewbank, coach of the rival New York Jets, insisted it would be safer to have his players with their wives rather than running around Miami and the Jets went out the next day and pulled off a 16-7 upset victory despite entering the game as 18-point underdogs.

Grade School Games Off

The grade school basketball program for boys and girls (3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grades) sponsored by the City Recreation Department Saturday mornings, has been canceled this weekend because of the snow.

Marinaro May Play For Other NFL Team

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ed Marinaro, the former Cornell running back who was upset when the Heisman Trophy went to someone else three years ago, says he'll either be playing more for the Minnesota Vikings next season or he'll play for some other National Football League team.

"I'm not saying 'play me or trade me,' because I'd like to stay in the Vikings organization," he said.

"If I was a second-year player, I wouldn't be panicking but I'm finishing my third year, and I feel like a player should be doing something by his fourth year."

Marinaro signed a three-year contract with the Vikings. Next season is his option year. He plays behind Chuck Foreman, the Vikings' standout running back. Following Marinaro's senior season at Cornell—a year in which he was the nation's premier collegiate rusher—Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan was awarded the Heisman trophy. Marinaro said he thought he deserved the award.

"I didn't say I was robbed. A lot of other people said that," Marinaro said, "Anyway, that's so long ago, and all of that seems so remote.

"Maybe, if I'd had more success in professional football, the college stuff would mean more to me. I could say, that's where it all started.

"But right now, I'm embarrassed by all the trophies when I go home and look at them.

"The Heisman meant a lot to me at the time, but now it doesn't. At the time, it was an ego thing. I wanted the recognition. Now, I just want to play more."

He wouldn't compare his abilities with those of Foreman.

"Chuck does some things that I don't, and I do things that he doesn't. He has more speed than I have, for one thing."

He said he doesn't think his quest for a starting berth will take him to the World Football League. "I don't look at the WFL as authentic. Really, I'd like to stay right here. We're going to be tough—really tough—for at least five or six more years. I'd like to be a part of that.

"But there comes a time when you have to start thinking about yourself".

Fla. Southern Topples UNO

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The University of Nebraska at Omaha fell behind with 1:34 left in the game and lost a close one to Florida Southern University here Friday night, 71-70.

UNO had tied the contest at 68-68 and fouled Florida Southern's Mike Spatola. Spatola sank the two free throws to put the Moccasins into a lead they did not relinquish.

Tri-County, Wilber Reset

Wilber — Friday night's Class C basketball showdown scheduled here between second-ranked Wilber and fourth-ranked Tri-County has been rescheduled for Monday, Jan. 27, because of heavy snow.

Other schools forced to postpone basketball games because of the heavy snow are asked to contact the Sunday Journal and Star either by phone or letter, indicating rescheduled dates.

Filly, Colt Receive Top Billing

New York (AP) — Ruffian, the unbeaten 2-year-old filly champion of 1974, and Foolish Pleasure, who was the undefeated leader of the juvenile males, are the top weights in the Jockey Club Experimental Handicap released Friday.

Kenneth Noe Jr., who assigned the weights, gave Foolish Pleasure 127 pounds and Ruffian 122. But Ruffian's five-pound sex allowance makes her equal on the scale with Foolish Pleasure.

L'Enjoleur was next at 125, followed by Circle Home and George Navorod at 124 each.

The Experimental is an annual theoretical handicap of the previous year's 2-year-olds.

A total of 158 new 3-year-olds are listed in the 1975 Experimental, the 41st running of the event.

Ruffian, a home-bred owned by Locust Hill Farm, won all five of her 1974 starts before she suffered a hairline fracture of a bone in her right hind foot. She has apparently recovered and is expected back to the races during the winter.

The big filly won her maiden race and then scored four stakes victories. She equaled a Belmont Park track record of 1:03 for 5½ furlongs in winning her debut and equaled that time in capturing the Fashion. She then won the 5½-furlong Astoria at Aqueduct in 1:02 3-5, the six-furlong Sorority in 1:09 and the six-furlong Spinaway in 1:08 3-5. Her margin of victory in the Sorority was 2¼ lengths. It was from 6¾ to 15 lengths in her other races.

Foolish Pleasure, a $20,000 yearling purchase by John Greer, won his maiden race and then before stopping for the year he won a division of the Dover, the Tremont, Sapling, a division of the Hopeful, the Cowdin and the Champagne. He beat What A Sketch by a neck in the Tremont after being bumped in the stretch run. He was a comfortable winner in his other efforts.

Jean-Louis Levesque's Canadian-bred L'Enjoleur won eight of 15 starts. Six victories were Canadian stakes and the other was inthe Laurel Futurity.

Circle Home, owned by John M. Olin, won the Kentucky Jockey Club and the Heritage, while Navonod Stable's George Navonod won the Cabrillo, DeAnza, Sunny Slop and Norfolk.

Others weighted included Frank McMahon's Delmar Futurity winner Diabolo, 123; Roland Aristone's World's Playground victor Bombay Duck, 122; John Balpredo's DiMaggio, the Hollywood Juvenile winner, 121; and W. P. Gilbride's Greek Answer, winner of the Arlington-Washington Futurity; Oak Crest Stable's Our Talisman, first in the Saratoga Special, and Sigmund Sommer's Sanford winner Ramahorn, 120 each.

Liquori Triumphs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Veteran miler Marty Liquori of the New York Athletic Club took the lead 1½ laps from the finish and won his speciality in the National Invitational Indoor Track Meet Friday night.

His time was a meet-record 3 minutes, 57.7 seconds.

With a record crowd of 11,721 cheering the competitors in the first major U. S. invitational meet of the indoor season, the former Villanova star rallied from fifth place in the six-man field.

Steve Prefontaine, who withdrew from the two-mile run and agreed to face Liquori after Tony Waldrop dropped out of the mile, overtook Bruce Fisher, who led at the three-quarter mark.

But Liquori was close on he heels of Prefontaine, who was representing the Oregon Track Club, and passed him to take a five-yard advantage entering the gun lap.

Prefontaine's time was 3:58.5 and Fisher, from the University of Chicago Track Club, finished in 4:00.1 on the 11-lap track.

Liquori, the 1974 meet winner in 4:01.2, snapped the meet record of 3:59.4 set in 1972 by, Kip Keino of Kenya. Waldrop holds the world indoor mark of 3:55.

Larry Shipp, a junior at Louisiana State and a native of nearby Washington, D. C., won the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.0, edging 31-year-old Willie Davenport, a three-time winner of the event.

Steve Riddick, a senior at Norfolk State and representing the Philadelphia Pioneers, won the 60-yard dash in 6.0, with Hasely Crawford of Eastern Michigan second and high school junior Houston McTear third.

McTear, from Baker, Fla., was one of three runners timed in 5.9 seconds, tying the meet record, in one of the heats. The other two were Willie Smith of Auburn and Steve Williams, who was competing unattached.

Al Feurerbach defended his championship in the shot put with a toss of 69 feet, 2¼ inches. George Woods, a teammate of Feurerbach's on the Pacific Coast Club team and the world indoor record holder, finished third.

Other winners included Rick Wohlhuter of the University of Chicago Track Club in the 880-yard run at 1:48.9; Angel Doyle of the Ambler Olympic Club in the women's 60-yard dash, 6.7, and Debbie LaPlante of Eastern Michigan, with a 7.8-second clocking in the 60-yard hurdles.

Storm Delays Knights' Tilt

Dallas (AP) — The Central Hockey League game for Friday night between Omaha and Fort Worth was postponed because of bad weather.

The Fort Worth team was unable to reach Omaha from Kansas City because the Omaha Airport was closed most of the day because of a blizzard, the league headquarters reported. Highway patrol officers warned against attempting to drive to Omaha by bus.

Omaha management said the game was a sellout.

Sooners To Get AP's Trophy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Herschel Nissenson, the Associated Press' collegiate sports editor from New York, will present the national football championship trophy to the University of Oklahoma at a banquet here Jan. 16.

OU coach Barry Switzer and his 150-member Sooner squad will be the special guests at the $25-a-plate dinner at the Myriad, the city's convention center.

Oklahoma was voted the nation's top college football team of 1974 in the final poll conducted by The Associated Press.

A meet the players reception will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Former Oklahoma head coach Bud Wilkinson, who was the Sooner coach when OU won its last national championship in 1956, will be the featured speaker.

76ers Top Kings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fred Carter scored 35 points, helping the Philadelphia 76ers surge to a 25-point first-period lead and a 102-94 victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings Friday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The victory was the fifth in the last eight games for Philadelphia, while the Kings suffered their sixth loss in the last seven.

Carter scored 12 points in the opening period as the 76ers built a 36-11 lead. It was 36-15 at the end of the quarter.

The Kings, who trailed 56-43 at the end of the half, rallied in the third period to cut Philadelphia's margin to 76-70, and trailed by only eight as the final quarter started.

In the fourth period, with the 76ers ahead 91-76, the Kings ran off 10 consecutive points to trail by only five. Carter, however, dumped in a layup and a long one-hander to give Philadelphia some breathing room.

Steve Mix, just named to the NBA All-Star team, hit for 21 points to help Carter in the Philadelphia scoring. Nate Williams topped the Kings with 20, while Nate Archibald and Larry McNeill each collected 17.

School Aid Hike Seems Needed

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said Friday a 20% increase in state aid to public schools appears necessary just to keep pace with inflation and to prevent property tax rate hikes.

"We've lost ground" with the defeat at the November polls of LB772, which would have tripled current school aid to $155 million by 1976-77, Dr. Campbell told the State Board of Education in Lincoln.

LB772, would also have shifted the state away from reliance on property taxes for a 70% share of operating the public schools.

Dr. Campbell said her proposal to ask the Legislature for some $11 million, is based on a 12% inflation rate in 1974 and 8% projected for 1975.

Would Stay Even

"The additional money we might require would just keep us even" with current school programs, she said, noting she'll make a firm recommendation on a dollar amount for state board action Feb. 7, unless the Unicameral requires it sooner.

In regular business affairs, the Education Board approved several recommendations for deficiency appropriations from the Legislature, including an increase of $4,976,140 for LB403. That 1974 law pays part of school districts' program costs to educate handicapped children, a total of 29,038 in Nebraska.

The Legislature, when it passed LB403, noted its original $8.9 million appropriation might be insufficient, since administration of the law was untested. Senators indicated they would make up any shortfall, as the Education Board has now proposed.

The $4.9 million aid increase would flow directly to local programs, according to Francis Colgan, Nebraska Education Department special education administrator. Of the total, $1.7 would provide for transportation.

Unexpected Addition

Colgan noted the increase is needed partly because of an unexpected addition of 2,000 handicapped children requiring special education programs.

Administration of LB403, under Colgan, came under fire from educators and state officials last month, when discrepancies were discovered in methods of payment.

In an interview Friday, D. Campbell said, "There were some errors made in the procedures for making payments to districts, in the form of data for certification of these payments.

Takes Time

"We are correcting that," she said. "Unfortunately, it takes time in dealing with more than 1,235 (school) districts." She said the Education Department has had to "hand-examine" each district's LB403 forms for sufficient information.

Dr. Campbell confirmed a report that the new chairman of the Legislature's Education Committee, Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, met with her and said if the Education Department doesn't resolve LB403 problems, his committee will take them up.

Meanwhile, Dr. Campbell told The Star, "The payment for the districts which met the criteria that has been determined, we expect to get out next week."

A special LB403 Advisory Committee approved the new forms last month and will meet again Monday and Tuesday in Lincoln.

The board approved another deficit appropriation request for the Omaha School for the Deaf, and noted one might be required in a year for Nebraska school food services, owing to rising food costs and minimum wage hikes.

$20,000 Excess

Board members will report a $20,000 excess in general funds, a result of the switch from Manpower Development Training Act programs to the Comprehensive Employment Training Act. Discontinuance of vocational rehabilitation programs at the York Women's Reformatory will result in another fund excess, proposed for transfer to the State Department of Corrections.

The board tabled a proposal on appropriations for Penal Complex training programs, pending a legal opinion on Education Department funding procedures.

In other business, the board approved contracts it recommends for teachers in the small Class I, II, III and VI districts. The contracts were proposed to eliminate questions of school boards' ability to fire teachers without just cause, the substance of a recent State Supreme Court ruling. Action on suggested contracts for school superintendents was tabled.

The board also tabled a measure to pay part of the tuition costs for job-related college courses and allow time off with pay for Education Department employes, after strong opposition by Lincoln board member Frank Landis.

Inquiry Ordered

The board directed Dr. Campbell to submit an inquiry to the Nebraska attorney general to determine the legality of using public funds for tuition assistance.

Landis said he supports employes' self-improvement, "but not by using public funds." He also questioned the authority of the Education Board to approve such a program.

Assistant Education Commissioner Lawrence R. Hilty said, the Education Department is "perhaps the only major (state) agency that does not have" tuition assistance. He said the state personnel handbook provides for the program.

Immediate past Education Board president Marilyn Fowler said Education Department employes are "underpaid," while the "whole state is looking to them for leadership."

Pay Hike Urged

Landis said, the board should "ask the Legislature for an increase of salary," which could also change the department from an "interim place" for career advancement.

Willard Waldo of DeWitt, new board vice president, noted that current policy allows Education Department employes time off the job for study, which in effect is already "subsidizing" them with public funds.

Dr. Campbell got board assent to propose legislation to change the amount and administration of fees for teacher certification, and to make school bus safety rules comply with federal requirements.

The board also revoked the teaching certificate of former Kearney Public Schools teacher Richard McWilliams, now in Okinawa, for violation of professional standards and ethics.

Ed Board Elects Hargitt President

The Nebraska State Board of Education Friday elected R. Jerry Hargitt of Omaha president for the 1975-77 term, and named Willard Waldo of DeWitt vice president.

Hargitt will succeed Marilyn Fowler of Lexington, appointed president last year to replace Gerald Whelan of Hastings when he resigned to campaign for lieutenant governor.

The board passed a resolution of thanks to Mrs. Fowler, who Lincoln board member Frank Landis said served "with distinction and with real leadership."

Hargitt and Waldo were elected unanimously, without opposition, at the 1975 organizational meeting, the first for new State Education Commissioner Anne Campbell.

Board member Harold O. Peterson of Omaha was named the board's representative to the State Board of Technical Community Colleges, to replace Frank Y. Knapple of Omaha, who did not seek re-election to the Education Board last November.

Also for the 1975-77 term, the board reappointed these members to the 18-member State Accreditation Committee: Ron Anderson, Omaha Public Schools assistant superintendent; William Cummins, Fairbury Public Schools principal; Arthur Langvardt, Hastings College; Betty Matz, Cozad; the Rev. Thomas O'Brien, Omaha Archdiocese Catholic Schools superintendent, and Al Papik, University of Nebraska-Lincoln admissions director.

The State Board of Education also approved a motion to add educational service unit presidents and an active teacher as an accreditation committee members, and established a statewide youth committee of high school and post-secondary students, representing all districts and institutions, to advise the accreditation committee.

Mrs. Fowler, who proposed the youth committee, said it would serve to "better correlate curriculum" between secondary and postsecondary schools.

The board also made three-year appointments to the State Advisory Council for Vocational Education. They are:

Tom Quinn, Omaha, state apprenticeship training; M. J. (Bub) Graham, Lincoln, Nebraska Retail Merchants Association executive vice president, Tom Elson, Curtis, farm operator and rancher; Father John Flynn, Omaha Archdiocese education superintendent; Lawrence McVoy, Omaha Labor Office; Lori Schlictemeier, Murray; vocational student; Loretta Draper, Plattsmouth, member Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area Board and State Board of Technical Community Colleges; and Larry King. Lyons High School principal.

Omaha National Net Income Up

Omaha (AP) — Omaha National Corp. reported Friday that 1974 net income totaled $4,433,042, up from $4,293,292 in 1973.

Omaha National said that for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1974, it had income of $1,394,260, compared with $1,148,759 in the fourth quarter of 1973.

The firm reported net income per share of 86 cents for the fourth quarter, up from 71 cents in the 1973 quarter, and of $2.73 for the year, up from $2.65 in 1973.

Potted Pot Comfy & Cozy

Keeping comfy and cozy in the office window of Benton County Sheriff Kenneth Popenhagan in Vinton, Iowa, is this potted marijuana plant. Indeed, the potted pot is thriving, raging blizzard or not. Popenhagan seized the plant during a raid last July and says the plant is being held as court evidence. It has grown three feet while under the lawman's care.

N. Korean Offer To Let Pueblo Go Unknown To Navy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The U.S. Navy denied knowledge Friday of any offer by the North Koreans to release the spy ship Pueblo and its 83-man crew prior to their actual return.

The chief of naval information's office released a brief statement in response to charges by the Pueblo's former executive officer that North Korea was prepared to free the ship and crew more than two months before they were released on Dec. 22, 1968.

Question Raised On Mutilation Investigator

Kearney (AP) — A question has been raised about the action of Buffalo County Sheriff Vern Newbold in hiring his brother, David, last summer to investigate reports of cattle mutilations in the area.

No arrests resulted from the investigation and no official legal action ever was taken.

A Kearney newspaper reported Friday that Newbold's brother is not now and has never been licensed as a private investigator in either Nebraska or Colorado. In addition, the newspaper said that David P. Newbold of Morrison, Colo., was never deputized, though he received $600 for his services.

Nebraska law allows sheriffs to hire deputies and to appoint special deputies to do specific duties, though usually without compensation.

David Newbold received payment for his work on the basis of a claim which listed 240 hours of work in the "investigation of cattle mutilations" at a wage of $2.50 per hour. The claim eventually was signed by three members of the Buffalo County Board of Supervisors. It also was signed by Sheriff Newbold and his brother.

The board members who signed the claim, Dale Wright, Jack Lowe and Tony Carranza, all said that they got the impression from the sheriff in an Oct. 8 meeting that his brother was a special investigator.

In that meeting, the sheriff said the investigation lasted three weeks. The sheriff never directly referred to his brother's employment. Later that day, the sheriff told reporters in his office that his brother had investigated the matter. At that time, Sheriff Newbold referred to his brother as a private investigator from Denver.

The Nebraska and Colorado secretary of state offices both reported that David Newbold has never held a private investigators license, the newspaper said.

Nebraska statutes specifically require the licensing of private investigators.

Commisson member Wright said Thursday that while he got the impression from the sheriff that his brother was a private investigator he does not recall the sheriff ever saying specifically that his brother was licensed.

Newbold, who began his new term as sheriff Thursday, said his brother is not licensed in Nebraska but, the sheriff said, he didn't know about Colorado, adding, "I don't think you have to be."

The sheriff also said he never specifically told the board one way or the other that his brother was a private investigator. He said the board has no authority over who he hires or fires and said there is legal precedent for paying a special deputy.

G.I. Catholic Schools Reach Goal

Grand Island (AP) — The committee organized to raise $200,000 in an attempt to keep Grand Island's Catholic schools open has reached its initial goal of $100,000.

The committee had established a Wednesday deadline for the first $100,000 and the mark was passed Wednesday night.

Committee member Bill Burke said the effort would be turned to the four city parishes Sunday and a follow-up telephone campaign to all Catholic families.

Burke said after that the committee hopes to raise the remainder of the money from the local business community.

The effort was undertaken in an attempt to convince Grand Island Diocese Bishop John Sullivan to change a decision to close the two Catholic elementary schools.

Omaha Owners Plan Continuing Giant Operation

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Giant Manufactuing Co. here has been sold to a group of Omahans who will continue its operation, it was announced Friday.

Don L. Harding, firm president since 1938, said the new owners plan to retain all employes and offer the same products.

The firm employs about 75 persons and manufactures such items as stock and grain truck bodies, playground equipment and wagon boxes.

The firm was sold to William Zimmermann, Jim Roberts, Dob Schultz and associates, Harding said.

Harding said the sale price will not be announced.

School Aid Hike Seems Needed

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said Friday a 20% increase in state aid to public schools appears necessary just to keep pace with inflation and to prevent property tax rate hikes.

"We've lost ground" with the defeat at the November polls of LB772, which would have tripled current school aid to $155 million by 1976-77, Dr. Campbell told the State Board of Education in Lincoln.

LB772, would also have shifted the state away from reliance on property taxes for a 70% share of operating the public schools.

Dr. Campbell said her proposal to ask the Legislature for some $11 million, is based on a 12% inflation rate in 1974 and 8% projected for 1975.

Would Stay Even

"The additional money we might require would just keep us even" with current school programs, she said, noting she'll make a firm recommendation on a dollar amount for state board action Feb. 7, unless the Unicameral requires it sooner.

In regular business affairs, the Education Board approved several recommendations for deficiency appropriations from the Legislature, including an increase of $4,976,140 for LB403. That 1974 law pays part of school districts' program costs to educate handicapped children, a total of 29,038 in Nebraska.

The Legislature, when it passed LB403, noted its original $8.9 million appropriation might be insufficient, since administration of the law was untested. Senators indicated they would make up any shortfall, as the Education Board has now proposed.

The $4.9 million aid increase would flow directly to local programs, according to Francis Colgan, Nebraska Education Department special education administrator. Of the total, $1.7 would provide for transportation.

Unexpected Addition

Colgan noted the increase is needed partly because of an unexpected addition of 2,000 handicapped children requiring special education programs.

Administration of LB403, under Colgan, came under fire from educators and state officials last month, when discrepancies were discovered in methods of payment.

In an interview Friday, D. Campbell said, "There were some errors made in the procedures for making payments to districts, in the form of data for certification of these payments.

Takes Time

"We are correcting that," she said. "Unfortunately, it takes time in dealing with more than 1,235 (school) districts." She said the Education Department has had to "hand-examine" each district's LB403 forms for sufficient information.

Dr. Campbell confirmed a report that the new chairman of the Legislature's Education Committee, Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, met with her and said if the Education Department doesn't resolve LB403 problems, his committee will take them up.

Meanwhile, Dr. Campbell told The Star, "The payment for the districts which met the criteria that has been determined, we expect to get out next week."

A special LB403 Advisory Committee approved the new forms last month and will meet again Monday and Tuesday in Lincoln.

The board approved another deficit appropriation request for the Omaha School for the Deaf, and noted one might be required in a year for Nebraska school food services, owing to rising food costs and minimum wage hikes.

$20,000 Excess

Board members will report a $20,000 excess in general funds, a result of the switch from Manpower Development Training Act programs to the Comprehensive Employment Training Act. Discontinuance of vocational rehabilitation programs at the York Women's Reformatory will result in another fund excess, proposed for transfer to the State Department of Corrections.

The board tabled a proposal on appropriations for Penal Complex training programs, pending a legal opinion on Education Department funding procedures.

In other business, the board approved contracts it recommends for teachers in the small Class I, II, III and VI districts. The contracts were proposed to eliminate questions of school boards' ability to fire teachers without just cause, the substance of a recent State Supreme Court ruling. Action on suggested contracts for school superintendents was tabled.

The board also tabled a measure to pay part of the tuition costs for job-related college courses and allow time off with pay for Education Department employes, after strong opposition by Lincoln board member Frank Landis.

Inquiry Ordered

The board directed Dr. Campbell to submit an inquiry to the Nebraska attorney general to determine the legality of using public funds for tuition assistance.

Landis said he supports employes' self-improvement, "but not by using public funds." He also questioned the authority of the Education Board to approve such a program.

Assistant Education Commissioner Lawrence R. Hilty said, the Education Department is "perhaps the only major (state) agency that does not have" tuition assistance. He said the state personnel handbook provides for the program.

Immediate past Education Board president Marilyn Fowler said Education Department employes are "underpaid," while the "whole state is looking to them for leadership."

Pay Hike Urged

Landis said, the board should "ask the Legislature for an increase of salary," which could also change the department from an "interim place" for career advancement.

Willard Waldo of DeWitt, new board vice president, noted that current policy allows Education Department employes time off the job for study, which in effect is already "subsidizing" them with public funds.

Dr. Campbell got board assent to propose legislation to change the amount and administration of fees for teacher certification, and to make school bus safety rules comply with federal requirements.

The board also revoked the teaching certificate of former Kearney Public Schools teacher Richard McWilliams, now in Okinawa, for violation of professional standards and ethics.

Ed Board Elects Hargitt President

The Nebraska State Board of Education Friday elected R. Jerry Hargitt of Omaha president for the 1975-77 term, and named Willard Waldo of DeWitt vice president.

Hargitt will succeed Marilyn Fowler of Lexington, appointed president last year to replace Gerald Whelan of Hastings when he resigned to campaign for lieutenant governor.

The board passed a resolution of thanks to Mrs. Fowler, who Lincoln board member Frank Landis said served "with distinction and with real leadership."

Hargitt and Waldo were elected unanimously, without opposition, at the 1975 organizational meeting, the first for new State Education Commissioner Anne Campbell.

Board member Harold O. Peterson of Omaha was named the board's representative to the State Board of Technical Community Colleges, to replace Frank Y. Knapple of Omaha, who did not seek re-election to the Education Board last November.

Also for the 1975-77 term, the board reappointed these members to the 18-member State Accreditation Committee: Ron Anderson, Omaha Public Schools assistant superintendent; William Cummins, Fairbury Public Schools principal; Arthur Langvardt, Hastings College; Betty Matz, Cozad; the Rev. Thomas O'Brien, Omaha Archdiocese Catholic Schools superintendent, and Al Papik, University of Nebraska-Lincoln admissions director.

The State Board of Education also approved a motion to add educational service unit presidents and an active teacher as an accreditation committee members, and established a statewide youth committee of high school and post-secondary students, representing all districts and institutions, to advise the accreditation committee.

Mrs. Fowler, who proposed the youth committee, said it would serve to "better correlate curriculum" between secondary and postsecondary schools.

The board also made three-year appointments to the State Advisory Council for Vocational Education. They are:

Tom Quinn, Omaha, state apprenticeship training; M. J. (Bub) Graham, Lincoln, Nebraska Retail Merchants Association executive vice president, Tom Elson, Curtis, farm operator and rancher; Father John Flynn, Omaha Archdiocese education superintendent; Lawrence McVoy, Omaha Labor Office; Lori Schlictemeier, Murray; vocational student; Loretta Draper, Plattsmouth, member Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College Area Board and State Board of Technical Community Colleges; and Larry King, Lyons High School principal.

N. Korean Offer To Let Pueblo Go Unknown To Navy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The U.S. Navy denied knowledge Friday of any offer by the North Koreans to release the spy ship Pueblo and its 83-man crew prior to their actual return.

The chief of naval information's office released a brief statement in response to charges by the Pueblo's former executive officer that North Korea was prepared to free the ship and crew more than two months before they were released on Dec. 22, 1968.

Question Raised On Mutilation Investigator

Kearney (AP) — A question has been raised about the action of Buffalo County Sheriff Vern Newbold in hiring his brother, David, last summer to investigate reports of cattle mutilations in the area.

No arrests resulted from the investigation and no official legal action ever was taken.

A Kearney newspaper reported Friday that Newbold's brother is not now and has never been licensed as a private investigator in either Nebraska or Colorado. In addition, the newspaper said that David P. Newbold of Morrison, Colo., was never deputized, though he received $600 for his services.

Nebraska law allows sheriffs to hire deputies and to appoint special deputies to do specific duties, though usually without compensation.

David Newbold received payment for his work on the basis of a claim which listed 240 hours of work in the "investigation of cattle mutilations" at a wage of $2.50 per hour. The claim eventually was signed by three members of the Buffalo County Board of Supervisors. It also was signed by Sheriff Newbold and his brother.

The board members who signed the claim, Dale Wright, Jack Lowe and Tony Carranza, all said that they got the impression from the sheriff in an Oct. 8 meeting that his brother was a special investigator.

In that meeting, the sheriff said the investigation lasted three weeks. The sheriff never directly referred to his brother's employment. Later that day, the sheriff told reporters in his office that his brother had investigated the matter. At that time, Sheriff Newbold referred to his brother as a private investigator from Denver.

The Nebraska and Colorado secretary of state offics both reported that David Newbold has never held a private investigators license, the newspaper said.

Nebraska statutes specifically require the licensing of private investigators.

Commisson member Wright said Thursday that while he got the impression from the sheriff that his brother was a private investigator he does not recall the sheriff ever saying specifically that his brother was licensed.

Newbold, who began his new term as sheriff Thursday, said his brother is not licensed in Nebraska but, the sheriff said, he didn't know about Colorado, adding, "I don't think you have to be."

The sheriff also said he never specifically told the board one way or the other that his brother was a private investigator. He said the board has no authority over who he hires or fires and said there is legal precedent for paying a special deputy.

G.I. Catholic Schools Reach Goal

Grand Island (AP) — The committee organized to raise $200,000 in an attempt to keep Grand Island's Catholic schools open has reached its initial goal of $100,000.

The committee had established a Wednesday deadline for the first $100,000 and the mark was passed Wednesday night.

Committee member Bill Burke said the effort would be turned to the four city parishes Sunday and a follow-up telephone campaign to all Catholic families.

Burke said after that the committee hopes to raise the remainder of the money from the local business community.

The effort was undertaken in an attempt to convince Grand Island Diocese Bishop John Sullivan to change a decision to close the two Catholic elementary schools.

Omaha Owners Plan Continuing Giant Operation

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—Giant Manufactuing Co. here has been sold to a group of Omahans who will continue its operation, it was announced Friday.

Don L. Harding, firm president since 1938, said the new owners plan to retain all employes and offer the same products.

The firm employs about 75 persons and manufactures such items as stock and grain truck bodies, playground equipment and wagon boxes.

The firm was sold to William Zimmermann, Jim Roberts, Dob Schultz and associates, Harding said.

Harding said the sale price will not be announced.

OmahaNational Net Income Up

Omaha (AP) — Omaha National Corp. reported Friday that 1974 net income totaled $4,433,042, up from $4,293,292 in 1973.

Omaha National said that for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1974, it had income of $1,394,260, compared with $1,148,759 in the fourth quarter of 1973.

The firm reported net income per share of 86 cents for the fourth quarter, up from 71 cents in the 1973 quarter, and of $2.73 for the year, up from $2.65 in 1973.

Estimate Of American Beef Debt $20 Million

Omaha (AP) — American Beef Packers, Inc., may owe feeders as much as $20 million for cattle the financially troubled Omaha firm purchased, according to one estimate cited by an official of the National Livestock Feeders Association.

Bill Jones, executive vice president of the association, said in Omaha Friday that there have been a number of estimates and, "I don't know whether this figure is accurate."

Jones and feeders from Nebraska and other states met Friday in Omaha to assess the problems set in motion by action taken Tuesday by American Beef.

The firm, one of the nation's largest meat packers, filed a petition for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Officials of the Nebraska and National Livestock Feeders Associations jointly announced that they have scheduled a meeting for Monday in Omaha for livestock feeders who haven't been paid for livestock sold to American Beef to discuss possible alternative courses of action.

The president of the state group, Herb Albers Jr. of Wisner, said officers of the two associations have met with officials of both American Beef and a major secure creditor, General Electric Credit Corp., and will report the results of these sessions at the 2 p.m. meeting at the Livestock Exchange Building Monday. Albers also is a director of the national organization.

The company told the federal court that it was unable to pay its debts as they mature and asked that it be permitted to work out a payment plan while staying in business.

Beefland International, Inc., of Council Bluffs, Iowa, a wholly owned American Beef subsidiary, also filed a Chapter 11 petition.

The firm announced Wednesday that it was shutting down all of its plants at least until Monday.

The Packers and Stockyards Administration of the Department of Agriculture has said it is looking into complaints from feeders who say the firm has not paid for cattle.

Jones said that at least one Nebraska feeder is owed $1 million and another feeder in Texas is owed the same amount.

Meanwhile, General Electric Credit Corp. of Park Ridge, Ill., has asked that American Beef be stopped from paying any money pending a hearing.

In a petition filed in U.S. District Court in Omaha, General Electric contended that American Beef owes it $50 million.

An American Beef spokesman said General Electric Credit was "by far" the largest creditor.

Bankruptcy Judge David Crawford has set Feb. 7 as the tentative date for the first meeting of American Beef creditors. He also ordered that the firm be permitted to pay employes wages earned.

Packers' Woes May Affect Nigerians

Omaha (AP) — The financial woes of American Beef Backers, Inc., may affect about 200,000 Nigerians, most of whom probably have never heard of the company or eaten any of its steaks.

In 1972, American Beef bought controlling interest in Roberts Dairy of Omaha. J. Gordon Roberts, then board chairman of the dairy, as part of the deal arranged for American Beef to set up a $47,500 fund for the First Assembly Church of God of Clearwater, Fla.

The church received $7,500 immediately and was to get $3,500 annually until 1982, plus interest.

Roberts, who is retired and lives in Clearwater, told an Omaha newspaper in a telephone interview that the church has been using the money to provide educational correspondence courses for Nigerians.

He said the church told him that 200,000 persons in that African nation are enrolled in the courses. About 80% of the costs of the program are provided by the American Beef funds, and Roberts said he is concerned that the funds may be cut off.

"In my opinion," Roberts said, "the people at American Beef should be well qualified to work this out."

American Beef filed a federal court Chapter 11 bankruptcy petition Tuesday.

Ocana Charged With Assaulting Police Officer

Neligh (AP) — Jose Pablo Ocana, 26, of Dakota City was charged in Antelope County Court Thursday with feloniously assaulting a police officer.

The charge was in connection with the assault of Antelope County Sheriff's Deputy Lyle Juracek and Neligh Policeman LeRoy Allen late Wednesday.

Neither officer was seriously hurt but both suffered bruises.

A spokesman said the officers were assaulted by three men when they stopped a car for a traffic violation.

Two other suspects were being sought Thursday.

Judge R. Bruce Henning freed Ocana on $1,500 bond and said an attorney would be appointed for him Friday.

Better Be Careful Using Jumper Cables

By DAN MILLER
(c) Chicago Daily News

It's nearly an article of faith that anyone can revive a rundown battery by using jumper cables.

All you do is use the jumper cable to connect the positive post on the charged battery with the positive post on the discharged battery, do the same for the minus posts, and off you go.

While that method does work on occasion, it's extremely dangerous, not only to personal health but to your car's electrical system as well. A spark could cause the battery to explode or burn out every fuse and wire in the car.

Here's a safer way, recommended by Chrysler Corporation engineers.

First, turn off lights, heater and other electric loads in the stalled car. Remove the vent caps from both the booster and the discharged batteries to check the level of the fluid inside and to minimize the danger of a pressure buildup. If the fluid — called electrolyte — isn't visible or appears to be frozen, don't even attempt starting. It's likely the battery will explode or at least rupture.

If the fluid level is sufficient, lay a cloth over the vent wells of each battery. Connect one end of a jumper cable to the positive post of the booster battery and the other end to the positive post on the discharged battery.

Then connect one end of the other cable to the negative terminal of the booster and the other end to the alternator mounting bracket or some other solid metal inside the engine compartment. This provides a ground for the current and eliminates the chance of a stray spark ruining everything.

Start the stalled car. Reverse the above sequence exactly when removing the jumper cables.

Estimate Of American Beef Debt $20 Million

Omaha (AP) — American Beef Packers, Inc., may owe feeders as much as $20 million for cattle the financially troubled Omaha firm purchased, according to one estimate cited by an official of the National Livestock Feeders Association.

Bill Jones, executive vice president of the association, said in Omaha Friday that there have been a number of estimates and, "I don't know whether this figure is accurate."

Jones and feeders from Nebraska and other states met Friday in Omaha to assess the problems set in motion by action taken Tuesday by American Beef.

The firm, one of the nation's largest meat packers, filed a petition for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Officials of the Nebraska and National Livestock Feeders Associations jointly announced that they have scheduled a meeting for Monday in Omaha for livestock feeders who haven't been paid for livestock sold to American Beef to discuss possible alternative courses of action.

The president of the state group, Herb Albers Jr. of Wisner, said officers of the two associations have met with officials of both American Beef and a major secure creditor, General Electric Credit Corp., and will report the results of these sessions at the 2 p.m. meeting at the Livestock Exchange Building Monday. Albers also is a director of the national organization.

The company told the federal court that it was unable to pay its debts as they mature and asked that it be permitted to work out a payment plan while staying in business.

Beefland International, Inc., of Council Bluffs, Iowa, a wholly owned American Beef subsidiary, also filed a Chapter 11 petition.

The firm announced Wednesday that it was shutting down all of its plants at least until Monday.

The Packers and Stockyards Administration of the Department of Agriculture has said it is looking into complaints from feeders who say the firm has not paid for cattle.

Jones said that at least one Nebraska feeder is owed $1 million and another feeder in Texas is owed the same amount.

Meanwhile, General Electric Credit Corp. of Park Ridge, Ill., has asked that American Beef be stopped from paying any money pending a hearing.

In a petition filed in U.S. District Court in Omaha, General Electric contended that American Beef owes it $50 million.

An American Beef spokesman said General Electric Credit was "by far" the largest creditor.

Bankruptcy Judge David Crawford has set Feb. 7 as the tentative date for the first meeting of American Beef creditors. He also ordered that the firm be permitted to pay employes wages earned.

Packers' Woes May Affect Nigerians

Omaha (AP) — The financial woes of American Beef Backers, Inc., may affect about 200,000 Nigerians, most of whom probably have never heard of the company or eaten any of its steaks.

In 1972, American Beef bought controlling interest in Roberts Dairy of Omaha. J. Gordon Roberts, then board chairman of the dairy, as part of the deal arranged for American Beef to set up a $47,500 fund for the First Assembly Church of God of Clearwater, Fla.

The church received $7,500 immediately and was to get $3,500 annually until 1982, plus interest.

Roberts, who is retired and lives in Clearwater, told an Omaha newspaper in a telephone interview that the church has been using the money to provide educational correspondence courses for Nigerians.

He said the church told him that 200,000 persons in that African nation are enrolled in the courses. About 80% of the costs of the program are provided by the American Beef funds, and Roberts said he is concerned that the funds may be cut off. cut off.

"In my opinion," Roberts said, "the people at American Beef should be well qualified to work this out."

American Beef filed a federal court Chapter 11 bankruptcy petition Tuesday.

Ocana Charged With Assaulting Police Officer

Neligh (AP) — Jose Pablo Ocana, 26, of Dakota City was charged in Antelope County Court Thursday with feloniously assaulting a police officer.

The charge was in connection with the assault of Antelope County Sheriff's Deputy Lyle Juracek and Neligh Policeman LeRoy Allen late Wednesday.

Neither officer was seriously hurt but both suffered bruises.

A spokesman said the officers were assaulted by three men when they stopped a car for a traffic violation.

Two other suspects were being sought Thursday.

Judge R. Bruce Henning freed Ocana on $1,500 bond and said an attorney would be appointed for him Friday.

Better Be Careful Using Jumper Cables

By DAN MILLER
(c) Chicago Daily News

It's nearly an article of faith that anyone can revive a rundown battery by using jumper cables.

All you do is use the jumper cable to connect the positive post on the charged battery with the positive post on the discharged battery, do the same for the minus posts, and off you go.

While that method does work on occasion, it's extremely dangerous, not only to personal health but to your car's electrical system as well. A spark could cause the battery to explode or burn out every fuse and wire in the car.

Here's a safer way, recommended by Chrysler Corporation engineers.

First, turn off lights, heater and other electric loads in the stalled car. Remove the vent caps from both the booster and the discharged batteries to check the level of the fluid inside and to minimize the danger of a pressure buildup. If the fluid — called electrolyte — isn't visible or appears to be frozen, don't even attempt starting. It's likely the battery will explode or at least rupture.

If the fluid level is sufficient, lay a cloth over the vent wells of each battery. Connect one end of a jumper cable to the positive post of the booster battery and the other end to the positive post on the discharged battery.

Then connect one end of the other cable to the negative terminal of the booster and the other end to the alternator mounting bracket or some other solid metal inside the engine compartment. This provides a ground for the current and eliminates the chance of a stray spark ruining everything.

Start the stalled car. Reverse the above sequence exactly when removing the jumper cables.
